Hopkins Quits as White House Aid

F.D.R. INTIMATE GIVES ILLNESS AS HIS REASON

Won't Go to Big 3 with Truman

BY WALTER TROHAN
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—Harry L. Hopkins, No. 1 intimate of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, today severed 12 years of connection with the federal pay roll by submitting his resignation in order to take a needed rest.

Harry Hopkins

The resignation of the ailing special assistant, who has been denounced on the floor of congress as the "Rasputin of the White House," was accepted by President Truman in a letter of regret at his departure and of praise for his services.

"The time has come when I must take a rest," Hopkins wrote in a letter dated July 2. "I have, therefore, reached the decision that I should now retire from the government service and hence I shall not be able to accompany you, to the Berlin area for your impending conference with Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin.

Suffering Eight Years

"I want you to know how, along with millions of other Americans, I applaud your courageous and liberal administration of this government's domestic and foreign policy. The fact that you are surrounding yourself with competent and able men but adds to the confidence this nation has in you."

Hopkins has been suffering with a stomach ailment for more than eight years. Several times in that period he was reported to be near death, but came back to his desk each time leaner and more wan. He has had stretches of as long as six months in various hospitals.

Hopkins, who was born in Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 17, 1890, came into the government service as federal administrator of emergency relief in 1933. He had been a Red Cross and social welfare worker in New Orleans and New York before coming to Washington.

Held Various Posts

From 1935 to 1938 he was works progress administrator. In 1938 he became secretary of commerce, a post he resigned in 1940. In 1941 he became head of the lend-lease program and later was made special assistant to the President.

As special assistant, Hopkins was the closest man to Roosevelt. Much of the time he lived in the White House as a guest of the American people. His close association with the late President made Hopkins the focal point of many attacks against his chief.

With news of Hopkins' resignation and cancelation of his scheduled trip to the Big Three meeting the White House announced that Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Moscow, will attend the conference with Mr. Truman.

In accepting the Hopkins resignation, Mr. Truman said he was sorry he could not persuade him to remain in the government any longer, but he could not justify ignoring the reasons which forced Hopkins to make his decision to leave.

Report Elliott Hires Ex-U. S. Treasury Aid

CHARGES RYE "CORNER"
Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.] charged in a house speech yesterday that manipulation of rye futures trading on the Chicago board of trade netted millions to speculators who obtained a "corner" on the market. He demanded an investigation and prosecutions. Board of trade officials either withheld comment or asserted they had no knowledge of manipulations. Stories on page 25.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—Randolph E. Paul, former general counsel of the treasury, has been retained by Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt to represent him in the congressional investigation of the various loans the second son of the late President Roosevelt made to finance his radio enterprises, it was reported tonight.

Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] said that if Elliott had engaged Paul he questioned the ethics of the general's action.

Paul is with the same New York law firm as Herbert E. Brownell, chairman of the Republican national committee. Paul returned to the firm—Lord, Day & Lord—after his resignation from the treasury last March. He is attached to the Washington office of the firm.

"Violation of Decency"

"I am not suspicious by nature, as my colleagues well know, but I don't think that the public conscience can tolerate what appears to me to be a violation of public decency," Shafer said.

"Now if Elliott turns up with the former general counsel of the treasury at a time when his activities are being examined in that department, I cannot help but be reminded of the gentry who do not operate on very exalted codes of conduct. It is possible to spin out a fine hair splitting defense of such things, and Elliott may have a high regard for Randolph as a lawyer, but the fact remains that it does not look well.

"Elliott's financial operations have added no luster to the shining posts of the White House, it would seem. His employment of the former general counsel of the treasury and a member of the law firm which includes the Republican national chairman, will be widely discussed.

"Seems Strange"

"It may not be true that Elliott employed Paul in the hope that Paul might silence the Republican opposition thru association with the party chairman. All may be innocent, but it seems strange, particularly since Elliott has not issued any statement of the matter under investigation or shown any disposition to discuss the matter publicly."

Shafer recalled that under rules of bar committees of various federal agencies, no lawyer in charge of investigations may practice before a particular department for two years after he leaves the government. This does not apply in the case of Paul, he said.

GIRLS IN SHORTS SNORT AT POLICE

Defy Order for Modesty on Decatur Streets

Decatur, Ill., July 3 [Special]—Police of Decatur stopped several dozen young women and girls on downtown streets today and told them to go home and put some more clothes on.

This was the first step in enforcement of Police Chief H. J. Schepper's edict that the wearing by women of what the chief calls "abbreviated" shorts in public places will not be tolerated by the forces of law and order.

Abbreviated shorts, the chief explained, are shorts which fail to come down at least to the knees. The chief specified streets, buses, and taverns as places which will be out of bounds for shorts from now on.

Girls Ignore Order

Most of the young women reprimanded by officers in the enforcement drive today are reported to have told the bluecoats to mind their own business. There were no reported instances of any women actually going home when ordered, or of any police attempts to compel obedience by escorting recalcitrants to their homes.

"There are going to be arrests if this keeps up," the chief thundered. "I issued this order and I mean to make it stick."

The chief admitted his own peace has been considerably disturbed today by telephone calls from indignant women.

Congratulated by Pastors

"I got two calls from ministers who congratulated me," he said brightly. "But the women are certainly mad."

The chief first spoke out against shorts Saturday. Yesterday he phrased his objections in the form of an ultimatum. Observers said more shorts were in evidence in downtown Decatur today than on any day this summer and speculated that many women were wearing them for the first time as a gesture of defiance.

Mayor James Hedrick said he is not responsible for the chief's order, altho he admitted he talked to the chief last week about doing something to halt the wearing of shorts by women tavern patrons.

OPA Peeved When Cafe Asks Patrons for Points

Dallas, Tex., July 3 (AP)—OPA officials said today they had clamped down on a restaurant which had the following wistful request typed on its menus: "We are short of red points. If you have any to spare, please leave them with the cashier."

Lehman Asks Soap Rationing; Spoiling of Butter Is Charged

Would Aid Europe

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—Rationing of soap to provide Europe with a supply sufficient "to combat filth and epidemic disease" was proposed tonight by Herbert H. Lehman, director general of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

The head of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration urged these steps in a radio address:

1. "Provision of 10,000,0000 cases of evaporated milk thru a 20 per cent set aside of United States production and cutting down supplies now used for ice cream and other purposes.

2. "Several million heads of the expanded cattle population of the supplying countries should be put into tin cans for immediate export to hungry Europe.

3. "A small decrease in the consumption of fats in each of the supplying countries should be initiated in order to turn the drab bread and potato diet of Europe into a tolerable one.

4. "Soap rationing should be instituted to provide Europe with sufficient soap to combat filth and epidemic disease.

5. "Each nation should adopt as part of its food policy the definite principle that it will contribute its fair share to the needs of the suffering peoples in the liberated lands, even tho this undoubtedly will call for considerable sacrifice."

Milk Wasted Too

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—Charges that butter is turning rancid by the carload and that thousands of cases of evaporated milk are spoiling in storage were hurled in the senate today as two middle western senators accused government food agencies of bungling and maladministration.

Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] asserted "bungling" by the office of price administration in setting point values and fixing butter prices has kept butter from moving to the consumers.

"In my state butter is becoming rancid by the carload," Wiley declared. "The whole situation stinks . . . all available butter should be consumed before it spoils. This vital food must not be wasted, the world needs food."

Asks Anderson to Act

Wiley placed in the congressional record a copy of a letter he had written Agriculture Secretary Anderson asking for a complete review of butter production, ceiling prices, point values, and lend-lease shipments of butter, to be followed by "appropriate" action.

"We cannot and will not remain silent amid reports of unconsumed butter going rancid on both the civilian and the military fronts," Wiley wrote Anderson. "This is a shocking sin and the officials responsible must be brought to account. Too much government bungling in the past has gone unpunished and uncorrected."

Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] followed Wiley with a charge that tons of food placed in storage by the war food administration has spoiled.

25,000 Cases of Milk

He read to the senate an announcement from the commodity credit corporation offering for sale 25,000 cases of tainted evaporated milk stored since 1942 in warehouses in the east and middle west.

"The food counters are empty," Wherry said, "and if we go into any place to eat we find there is no butter. Yet there is milk in dead storage from 1942 which is now being sold as a tainted product. Because of maladministration we are helping to create day after day food shortages in this country."

Wherry said it was his hope that Secretary Anderson not only would find ways to produce more food but to eliminate faulty distribution methods, which, he said, were responsible for much of the nation's food shortage.

U.S. PAYING SIOUX FOR PONIES LOST IN CUSTER FIGHT

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—President Truman signed legislation today to pay $101,630 to Sioux Indians for ponies the army took from them after the Custer massacre.

After Gen. Custer and his little band were wiped out at the battle of the Little Big Horn in Montana that fateful day in June, 1876, the army swung into action.

The troops grabbed off ponies of the Sioux—hostile and nonhostile—in a wide area, with the idea that, if the Indians couldn't ride to battle, the uprisings would be quelled.

Okinawa Harbor to Get Name of Buckner Bay

GUAM, July 3 [Reuters]—Nagusuku bay, four mile wide harbor on the east coast of Okinawa, tomorrow officially becomes Buckner bay, in memory of Lt. Gen. Buckner, commander of the 10th army, who was killed in the closing stages of the Okinawa battle.

This Day We Mark the Toil of Many Days

(The following is the first of a series of daily articles about famous events in history. Story of July 4 events in Chicago on page 4)

Thomas Jefferson

Wherever the flag of the United States is flown, the fourth of July is celebrated as Independence day.

But the Declaration of Independence was not the work of a single day. Dates both earlier and later than July 4, 1776, are a part of the story.

Altho the famous document itself contains the words, "In Congress, July 4, 1776," and the words, "the unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America," it was actually on July 2d that the Continental Congress adopted a resolution of independence, tho not unanimously. Ten states voted in the affirmative. New York that day did not vote at all. Pennsylvania and Delaware on that occasion cast divided ballots.

As early as Dec. 6, 1775 the Congress had "disavowed" allegiance to the English parliament. On May 10, 1776, the Congress recommended to the people of the colonies that they form new governments to their own liking, and five days later, May 15, formally declared that it was "absolutely irreconcilable to reason and good conscience for the people of these colonies to take the oaths and affirmations necessary for the support of any government under the crown of Great Birtain."

It was not until July 9 that New York's adhesion to the Declaration was voted.

Unanimity was a fact, however, by the time the Congress [July 19] ordered the document to be engrossed and signed. So no signatures at all were affixed on July 4. And such were the difficulties of travel that a considerable time elapsed after July 19 before all the signers had written their names.

The committee appointed to draw up the Declaration included Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman, and Robert R. Livingston. The actual writing was entrusted to Jefferson, and its excellent literary quality is accredited almost entirely to him, tho he took counsel with the others and incorporated some of the words and phrases that others suggested.

Francis S. Philbrick, professor of law, University of Pennsylvania, said in an article written for the Encyclopaedia Britannica:

"As adopted by Congress, the Declaration differs only in details from the draft prepared by Jefferson; censures of the British people and a noble denunciation of slavery were omitted, appeals to Providence were inserted, and verbal improvements made for the sake of terseness and measured statement. The document is full of Jefferson's fervent spirit and personality, and its ideals were those to which his life was consecrated. It is the best known and the noblest of American state papers. . . . Jefferson's political theory was that of Locke,* whose words the Declaration echoes. Both Locke and Jefferson wrote simply of political equality, political freedom. . . . The Locke theory fitted beautifully the question of colonial independence, and was applied to that of America with inexorable logic. . . . A State, for the first time in history, founded its life on democratic idealism, pronouncing governments to exist for securing the happiness of the people, and to derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

The original document with all the signatures is now enshrined for permanent exhibition in the Library of Congress.

Most of the signing was done on Aug. 2, 1776, but the last name, that of Thomas McKean, was not added until 1781.

*John Locke [1632-1704], famous English philosopher, whose views on human liberty caused him for a time to find refuge in Holland under an assumed name.

2 Boys Make a Toy of Escape Proof Jail

Ogden, Utah, July 3 (AP)—Ogden built an "escape proof" jail on the ninth floor of the city building. Two juveniles held for investigation removed bars from their cell, slid down a rope of sheets to the eighth floor, broke a window in the judge's office, stole stamps, small change, knives and bullets, walked down the stairs to the second floor, opened a window, jumped to the ground and departed.

HITLER'S EAGLE RESTS IN DEBRIS OF CHANCELLERY

Sigrid Schultz, who became Berlin correspondent for The Chicago Tribune in 1919, returned yesterday to what was once Germany's capital. Louis P. Lochner, who entered Berlin with American occupation forces, was chief of the Associated Press bureau in Berlin for 14 years. Here are their stories:

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 3—The huge nazi eagle which spread its wings over the entrance to Hitler's chancellery is a twisted mass of metal in the court of honor thru which many of the mighty of the world passed to pay their respects to Hitler in his days of power.

The great square room where the Japanese ambassador signed the pact with Hitler and where one chieftain of Europe after another, from Slovakia to Romania, signed pacts of friendship with the Germans while the German war machine was crushing the rest of Europe, is a mass of debris.

The priceless 10 foot chandeliers still are suspended from the ceiling, but their bottom prisms rest on the ground.

Cracked and Twisted

The huge, marble lined halls in which the Nazis kept powerful diplomats waiting for their chance to be received in audience are as cracked and twisted as the precious mosaic in the festive hall.

Hitler's pride was the round cupola which he considered his greatest architectural achievement. A 4,000 pound bomb hit the cupola and went thru three stories of elaborate underground shelters which the Nazis had built under the chancellery. It is possible to walk around the rim as if skirting a precipice.

Thirty-seven narrow steps provide an emergency exit into the garden of the chancellery, while the main entrance is from a wing of the chancellery where Hitler and Eva Braun had their private suites during the war. An elaborate machine room provided pure air, heat, and electricity. A well equipped kitchen was in readiness.

Ripped by Looters

In the rooms of the erstwhile master of Germany the furniture has been ripped apart by looters, evidently seeking money, jewels, or documents under the costly brocade and leather coverings.

Attendants who worked in the chancellery for the last eight years took me to Hitler's private shelter, showing the rooms where the Nazis set gasoline afire, and also pointed out heaps of SS uniforms in the corner of a staircase. The attendants believe that before fleeing the SS officers changed to civilian clothes and carried along anything of value they could find.

Doubt Suicide Reports

The attendants were skeptical about reports that Hitler and Eva Braun committed suicide in the shelter.

"Before the nazis left they told us many conflicting reports about what was happening to Hitler, and yet—having seen a good deal of Hitler and Eva Braun in recent years—we doubt that they had the

Vanguard of 4,000 Vehicle Convoy Reaches City

BERLIN, July 3 (AP)—American occupation troops rolled into Berlin today speeding thru the beaten capital's mammoth wreckage to the accompaniment of scattered waves and tears from bread lines and work chains of women and girls.

Pvt. Harry Natchees

The American veterans of World War II, entered as conquerors and returned the crisp salutes of Red army women traffic police. There were tears of joy and cries of "God be thanked" from some Berliners, but others were silent and sullen.

Vanguards of a vast 4,000 vehicle convoy reached suburban Zehlendorf this afternoon after leaving Halle at 4 a. m., crossing the Elbe river and driving thru Russian occupied Germany west of the capital.

Hell on Wheels Late

"Bridge trouble," however, delayed the combat veterans of the United States 2d armored [Hell on Wheels] division and the prospects were that the division's main strength might not arrive before midnight—making them at least eight hours late in fulfilling a pledge they took three years ago to bivouac in Berlin.

A red skinned hero of the United States army was the first American soldier to enter the Russian held center of Berlin as a veteran of the 2d armored division, which will take up positions in the American occupation zone in the southwestern part of the capital.

He was Pvt. Harry Natchees of the Ute Indian reservation in northeastern Utah, a 25 year old veteran due to return home on points in a few days.

Girls in freshly ironed frocks worked in lines along the route, removing the debris from great piles of ruined buildings. In an eight mile drive thru the center of Berlin not a single block was seen intact.

Long Bread Lines Form

Hundreds of women, children, and old men lined up in front of bread stores. In Zehlendorf a German child complained of hunger and got part of Natchees' K ration. An old woman said she got only 200 grams of bread daily, and no meat or fat. She went off with the rest of Natchees' lunch.

On the Kaiserallee a Red flag flew over the Stars and Stripes on a pole outside the headquarters of the German Communist party.

The east-west axis in the blasted Tiergarten still was decorated with colossal portraits of Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin from a previous Red army celebration. The city was plastered with Russian posters telling the Germans of the unity of the allies.

One Berliner, Margaret Titze, who said she was born at Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., and was dressed in a swanky, black fur coat, hugged Natchees when she saw the "U. S." on his jacket. On the rubblelined Wilhelmstrasse, a neatly dressed middle aged woman asked:

"Russian?"

"Lady, I'm an American," Natchees replied.

"God be thanked," she exclaimed.

Good to See Americans

A peddler in front of Berlin cathedral, its huge dome wilted, gave Natchees a set of pre-war Berlin postcards and said: "It is good to see the Americans again."

Most Berliners say they have been waiting since March for the United States army "to save us from the Russians."

In a bomb battered Berlin district facing small Schlachten lake, Capt. James W. Mooney of Conrad, Mont., commander of a company in the 41st armored infantry regiment, said his unit was the first American combat group to reach Berlin.

Mooney's unit arrived Sunday to arrange billeting. As soon as his men unloaded their trucks, German women appeared and volunteered to clean house for them. Their menfolk came around later asking if they could be of help. One offered a hotel in the Russian zone.

Mooney said his unit changed from half-tracks to trucks at the Elbe river after the Russians said they didn't want armored combat vehicles to appear in Berlin so early.

Trouble Getting Billets

Mooney's outfit has had a tough time getting billets.

"Our billeting detail had a little trouble with the soviet authorities, too," he said. "Three of our officers were detained overnight last night because they had mistakenly gone into a non-American area after curfew. The Russians were polite but firm."

"Our GIs are going to wish they were back again in a real American zone with good beds and shelter, but it can't be helped," Mooney added.

Victory Parade This Week

BERLIN, July 3 [Reuters]—The great victory parade of British, Russian, American, and French forces in Berlin, is to take place toward the end of this week.

The British advance party, welfare units and those organizing accommodation are already here, working in temporary headquarters in the Olympic Games stadium.

The rest of the British and Canadian occupation force will arrive tomorrow afternoon, headed by a squadron of the 11th Hussars, representing Field Marshal Montgomery's 7th armored division "Desert Rats."

Joint ceremonies of hoisting the different national flags over the respective zones of occupation in the city will follow the victory ceremonial. But the final delineation of the boundaries within the city has not yet been made, it was officially declared here today.

The British generally will control the northwest area of the city, including the important localities of Charlottenburg, Wilmersdorf, and the commune of Grunewald.

How Yanks Traveled to Berlin

SEE JAP TRICK IN CLAIM U. S. GIRLS FLY IN COMBAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, July 3—The Tokyo radio's claim that American girl flyers had been shot down by Jap anti-aircraft batteries last Saturday aroused speculation here that the Japanese by this false assertion are trying to condition their own women to volunteer as flyers.

The broadcast said that of the six American P-51s that raided the district [presumably in China] the occupants of three planes brought down "were young American girls and it seems these planes were built temporarily for the purpose of training women flyers." The commentator said the planes "were constructed very poorly."

No airman here has ever heard of American women flying combat missions. One theory for the Jap announcement is that it is part of the enemy's desperate effort to counteract the effect of America's current leaflet campaign to induce the Nipponese masses to quit supporting their nation's hopeless struggle. Another is that Jap men are not responding sufficiently to the plea for recruits to relieve Japan's acute pilot shortage.

TYPHOON SEASON IMPEDES YANKS' MOPUP ON LUZON

MANILA, July 4 [Wednesday] (AP)—The Pacific typhoon season, with its swirling winds and driving rain, has intervened to impede the American mopup campaign on Luzon Island.

In the southeast Philippines, however, American soldiers of the Dixie division and Filipino guerrillas captured the Mindanao Island town of Walce in the Agusan river valley.

Typhoon rains caused numerous landslides in the northern mountain areas of Luzon where the Yanks are hunting down remnants of the defeated Japanese forces. Despite the bad weather the Americans were out on extensive patrols in the Cagayan valley.

Yank fighter bombers and light naval units supported ground operations in the Philippines.

CHINA, RUSSIA 'MUCH CLOSER' TO AGREEMENT

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP)—The Chinese and Russians were reported today to be "much closer" to a pact, the nature of which was not specified. An informant with close connections with the negotiations of Chinese Premier T. V. Soong said there was a good chance of a treaty being worked out. Soong planned to hold discussions with the soviet foreign trade office today.

Chinese diplomatic circles expressed themselves as highly pleased with the results of Soong's second conversation last night with Premier Stalin.

After an elaborate banquet given by Foreign Commissar Molotov yesterday afternoon, Song went to the Kremlin and talked with the Russian leader.

courage to kill themselves," the attendants said.

The remnants of the chancellery are guarded by the Russians, who say they have found no conclusive evidence as to what happened to Hitler and his nazi leaders who disappeared during Germany's collapse.

All former headquarters of THE TRIBUNE in Berlin, including those in the Esplanade and in Hotel Adlon, were wrecked during the bombings. Berlin's 12 story skyscraper, where The Tribune offices were located for several years, is a burned out shell.

All along the roads the Americans, who entered Berlin today, met Russians pouring artillery tanks and infantry westward to occupy Thuringia, which brings them to the heart of Germany. The Russian line runs north and south thru Helmstedt to the border of Bavaria.

Russians Enter Weimar

As the American convoy left Weimar for Berlin yesterday morning the first Russians were entering Weimar, the home of Goethe, which the Germans consider a cultural shrine.

In Halle the Americans were billeted in Hitler's giant signal school where experts were trained in 80 different buildings. Halle was off limits to the Americans on the eve of departure, all staying in the big compound of the signal school.

There was a report that on the previous night some Germans dressed in American uniforms fought with Russians, and that several Halle women were killed.

'COMPLETELY COMMUNIST'

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN, July 3 (AP)—At least outwardly, Berlin seems to have changed from completely Nazi to completely Communist.

Returning after an absence of three and a half years to the scene of 21 years' overseas news duty, I feel somewhat like Rip Van Winkle—everything seems to have changed.

Just as the Nazi party was the only political party permitted under Hitler, so Berlin under Russian occupation seems to have only the Communist party functioning. Communist slogans cry at you from big posters.

There was no difficulty in discovering Communist party headquarters in three boroughs during a tour. Associated Press Correspondent Daniel de Luce discovered a fourth headquarters.

The city is one of the worst bombed places ever seen. Yet much of the outlying residential districts still is habitable.

Downtown Berlin is a wreck. Around the Kaiser Wilhelm memorial church, which itself is a sad relic of jumbled stones, all except a few amusement places—movie houses, night clubs, and so on—have disappeared. Yet in the west end where correspondents used to live one finds unexpected survivals.

Mountains of Debris

The Russians evidently have done a good job and have the city well tidied up, altho there still are mountains of debris in some streets. They raised no objections to our driving into their zone. Guards before off-limits buildings readily allowed photographs to be taken.

WARSAW REGIME PLEDGES VOTE SOON; AWAITS WEST'S NOD

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, July 3—The new Polish government in Warsaw gave United States and Britain its pledge today to hold "free and unfettered elections" as soon as possible and paved the way for recognition by the western powers.

An announcement from Washington, D. C., that America has established relations with the Warsaw administration and has withdrawn recognition from the exiled government in London is expected here at any moment. Britain will follow suit as soon as arrangements are completed to take over some of the exiled government's welfare education and financial activities.

British spokesmen, explaining why British action in recognizing the new government would be delayed, said that some provision had to be made for the future of approximately 250,000 Poles in Britain or in the Polish forces on the continent until they had an opportunity of deciding whether they wished to return to Poland.

WELL CLAD AND FED

BY GRAHAM MILLER

[N. Y. News Staff Correspondent]

BERLIN, July 3—Don't imagine that Berliners are creeping about among the ruins clad in rags and rifling garbage cans for food. They are walking the streets of Berlin well shod, well clad, and, to outward appearance at least, well fed.

For mile after mile of streets there isn't a whole building. Roofs have gone, walls have gone, but still Berliners manage to carry on and even contrive to amuse themselves.

Stand in the Potsdammer platz, the heart of Berlin's west end. There's ruin all around you and yet stuck on a tottering wall is a bill advertising a cabaret show at a place called the Cascade in Buloestrassee not far away.

Girls Young and Friendly

In the Kufurstendamn a couple of girls were standing invitingly outside a "dancing." Inside, an orchestra was playing, there were waiters wearing white ties, a softly lit bar, deep carpets, and a smooth floor around which one or two couples slowly revolved.

It might have been London or New York. The girls were young, pretty, flattering, and friendly. Like everybody else in this conscience stricken country they said they were anti-Nazis from birth. They seemed a trifle hurt when we refused to dance—but soon a couple of Russian officers grabbed them with characteristic Slavic fervor and whisked them around the floor to an almost unbelievable version of "I Got Rhythm."

That's another little problem we shall have on our hands from the start. The Russians don't have any nonfraternalization rules in their army, so Berlin is going to be split into two distinct zones on quite other than political lines.

10,000 SLOVAKS LOST IN REVOLT, PRESIDENT SAYS

BRATISLAVA, Slovakia, June 22 [Delayed]—(AP)—Between 10,000 and 20,000 Partisans and regular Slovak army men lost their lives in a two month uprising last September and October, but they helped win the final victory over the Germans, Dr. Joszef Lettric, co-president of Slovakia, said today.

Lettric himself was one of the leaders in the field at Banska and Bistrica. The Germans had put a high price on the head of this blue eyed lawyer with graying hair. Lettric talked quietly of the uprising and assessed it as a full fledged military maneuver that gained its objective.

Planned Six Years

"We had prepared this uprising against the Nazis since 1938," he said. "And after the separation of Slovakia in 1938 the work was intensified. Our leaders were constantly in touch with people in the United States, Great Britain, and France.

"When the uprising got under way we had 90,000 regular army men under arms and upward of 15,000 Partisans. Their first aim was to prevent the military occupation of Slovakia by the Germans. The second was to facilitate the entry of the allies, especially the Russians who were nearest."

Lettric said "the United States air force Fortresses aided us by dropping supplies, Russian fighter squadrons also helped.

"Against our forces the Germans threw six fully equipped SS divisions. Finally we were surrounded and had to fight on after October from the hills in guerrilla warfare."

30 U. S. Flyers Saved

Lettric said that during the uprising 30 American flyers whose planes had been shot down on missions over the area were saved by Partisans and returned to their bases in Italy.

Like so many Slovakians, Lettric has relatives in the United States, including a cousin, Ann Sharoff, 3022 Belle Plaine av., Chicago.

Interpreter at the interview was Dr. Fedor Hodza, general secretary of the Slovak Democratic party, whose mother, Mrs. Irene Hodza, and two sisters, live at 3907 Keystone av., Chicago.

Hodza proudly displayed a cable just received which took only two days to arrive from Chicago. A newspaper man and now career government officer, Hodza is the son of the premier who was forced out of office by Hitler and died in America.

Berlin to U. S. Service Opened by Press Wireless

New York, July 3 [Special]—Press Wireless today began direct radiotelegraph service between Berlin and America thru its mobile transmitting station PX. The station has been operating in Europe close to the front lines since June 13, 1944. Arrangements are being made for radio voice and radio photo service from the station which was the first unit to send news direct to the United States from the Normandy beachhead.

MRS. MICKEY ROONEY

Birmingham, Ala., July 3 (AP)—Mickey Rooney, the movie actor who is now a corporal in the army, became a father today.

His wife, the former Betty Jane Rase of Birmingham, gave birth to a 7 pound 6 ounce boy at a Birmingham hospital. Mother and infant were reported "doing nicely."

Rooney, now stationed in Germany, and Miss Rase, the Miss Birmingham of 1944, were married last September after a whirlwind week-long courtship. They met while the film player was stationed at Camp Siebert, Ala. Rooney's legal name is Joe Yule Jr., and the child was named Joe Yule III. The family said he would be called Mickey.

BELIEF GROWS KING LEOPOLD WILL ABDICATE

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 3 (AP)—Belgium's exiled king, Leopold III., was believed tonight to have made up his mind on whether to abdicate or return to his throne, but just which way he had decided still had the public guessing.

A bulletin from the royal palace saying Leopold's consultations with his advisers at Salzburg had ended, intensified the belief among a big bloc of parliament members that Leopold would not come back to the throne.

Another factor supporting opinion that the king would step down was the disclosure that the palace domestic staff had gone to St. Walfgang, near Salzburg, where Leopold has maintained headquarters during his discussions with political leaders.

NAZI FOREIGN LEADER HELD AS WAR CRIMINAL

LONDON, July 3 [Reuters]—Ernst Wilhelm Bohle, English born head of the Nazi party organization outside Germany, has been arrested and will be tried as a war criminal, Luxemburg radio reported tonight.

Of half British parentage, Bohle was born in 1903 in Bradford. Later the family moved to South Africa, where Bohle was interned during World War I.

He was an undersecretary of state in the German foreign office and an S. S. general.

BY JEEP THRU DANUBE VALLEY—AND RED FLAGS

VIENNA, Austria, June 24 [Delayed]—(AP)—A 10 day, 900 mile jeep journey thru the five capitals of the Danube valley states develops interesting parallels and contrasts.

The Red flag flies everywhere along the routes thru Prague, Orrunn, Bratislava, Budapest, and Vienna.

In Czechoslovakia are displayed grouped pictures of Marshal Stalin, Eduard Benes, and Jan Masaryk.

The Czechs have allowed German-built markers to remain on their roads but painted out German names and allow only Bohemian or Slovak spellings. Flanking their markers are blue and white Russian signs, and they clearly mark every route and direction.

Girl MPs Work at Soldiering

The Russians did not disturb German signs in Austria or Hungary, merely supplementing the markers with their own signs. Smart, flag-waving military policewomen control the traffic along these routes. The red flag means stop. The yellow flag means go.

Girls who spotted the jeep as American in most cases gave it a yellow flag with a brisk snappy salute.

The girls want to be considered soldiers working right along with the men and resent attempts at flirtation. But there was one girl on a corner in Bratislava who got used to a group of correspondents' repeated passings. She added a warm smile to her salute after the third or fourth time.

The roads don't measure up to the super-highways of Germany, but there are long stretches with only minor damage. The Russians have done an excellent job bridging the Danube at a number of spots with temporary wooden structures.

An outstanding difference between American and Russian armies is in the use of motorized equipment. There is a stream of motor vehicles on American zone roads, but clusters of Russians trucks were seen only occasionally.

Reds Live Off Country

The Russians, as an occupying force, stipulated that the countryside must feed its armies. That explained the number of Red army trucks loaded with cows, sheep, goats, and poultry. Some of it fell to the Russians under the terms of the armistice, whereby restitution was to be made for Russian peasants whose cattle were destroyed by the Germans or Hungarian and Austrian soldiers who fought with the Germans.

Much machinery is going eastward as restitution and reparations.

One WAC Killed, 10 Hurt in Alaska Barracks Fire

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, July 3 (AP)—A WAC was burned to death and 10 other WACs, four soldiers and two civilians were injured in a fire which swept the new WAC barracks at Ladd field here last week, it was announced today. The flames spread so rapidly some WACs were forced to jump from second story windows. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

2 SURVIVORS SAY NAZIS FLOODED BERLIN SUBWAYS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERLIN, July 3—When Hitler feared that the Russians might reach his underground shelter in the chancellery thru Berlin's subway and other subterranean passages he ordered them flooded, altho hundreds of women and children still were in them, a woman and her 16 year old daughter who escaped said today.

"I'll never forget," said Mrs. Minna Richter, "how he berayed us."

How many drowned in the passages which were used as air raid shelters she did not know. She thought that there must have been at least 300 "to judge by the shrieks." With many others the Richters wandered thru the subway in water up to their hips for 24 hours, finally emerging at the Stettin railroad station at the other end of town.

DEMANDS CURB ON WAR POWERS OF NEW LEAGUE

Bushfield Urges Senate to Save U. S. Rights

BY WILLIAM MOORE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—Sen. Bushfield [R., S. D.] began a movement today for senate limitation of the international security charter to prevent what he termed abandonment of the American form of government for that of a totalitarian state.

Sen. Bushfield

The towering son of a South Dakota homesteader said he would support the charter in the hope of ending war. But he told the senate it must be altered to conform to the Constitution. That alteration, he later said in an interview, can be done by the senate thru reservations to the charter language.

Assails War Powers

Demanding that congress reserve the power to declare war, and not give it to the world organization's security council or the American representative in the league, former Secretary of State Stettinius, Bushfield told the senate:

"I object to a delegation of power to one man or to the security council, composed of 10 foreigners and one American, to declare war and to take American boys into war. Such a proposal is in direct violation of the Constitution. . . .

"I do not believe that America is willing to delegate the constitutional power of congress to one individual out of 130 million people, or to the security council, to move American troops, guns, ships, and planes, as this individual's will or the security council's will dictates, to any part of the world.

Fears Dictator Power

"Our form of government has cost too much effort and bloodshed and suffering to abandon it for a totalitarian state, which would be the effect if this supreme power were placed in the hands of one individual or group of individuals, of which only one is an American."

Discussing the charter provisions for limitation of armament, Bushfield said:

"The United States today has the largest army, navy, and air force in the world. Are we going to consent that the security council or any organization controled by foreigners shall determine for us the size and kind of an armed force we feel it necessary to maintain for our safety? I do not believe the people will consent."

Lists Objections

Bushfield listed these objections to the charter:

"It delegates power, which we have no authority to delegate, to the security council to declare war.

"It places our sovereignty in the hands of foreigners. . . .

"It seeks by implication to delegate power to the American member of the security council to vote us into war without reference to congress. . . .

"It grants the security council power to regulate the size and kind of our armaments for national defense. . . .

"It destroys the Monroe Doctrine.

"It scuttles the Pan American union . . . and makes it subject to the approval of European and Asiatic nations."

ALLIED PRESS BARRED FROM BIG 3 SESSION

BERLIN, July 3 (AP)—One hundred and forty allied correspondents who entered Berlin today with American troops were told tonight that no direct coverage of the forthcoming Big Three conference would be permitted. The announcement, made at a press conference, surprised the newsmen.

Spokesmen immediately asked clarification and reconsideration of an order that said that no correspondent now accredited would be permitted to report the conference.

Another order announced tonight said that all correspondents who entered Berlin today would be withdrawn at the end of seven days and would be replaced by others having "allied accreditation."

[The Big Three will meet in Potsdam just outside Berlin, it was reported in a CBS broadcast from Berlin. The American delegation of the Allied Control council has reached headquarters of the council's newly created district in Berlin, the broadcast said.]

STILWELL'S HAT OFF TO VICTORS OF OKINAWA

OKINAWA, July 4 [Wednesday] —(AP)—Gen. Stilwell told the Okinawa conquering troops of his United States 10th army today that he wanted to take his battered old campaign hat off to them. In a fourth of July address Stilwell added that the war issue was no longer in doubt, "but the harder we pour it on, the sooner we will get home."

Stilwell, who was appointed commander of the 10th army after the campaign that brought death in its closing days to Lt. Gen. Buckner, said: "This has been a tough fight —nobody but the men who fought it can possibly realize how tough."

It was Stilwell's first speech to the army. He mentioned specifically the fighters of the 7th, 27th, 77th, and 96th infantry divisions and the 1st and 6th marine divisions.

RANKIN WARNS HE'LL OPPOSE LEFT WINGER

Fight Seen in Naming of Dies Group Head

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—Rep. Rankin, [D., Miss.], served notice in the house today that he would carry to the floor, if necessary, a fight against appointment of a left-winger as new chairman of the house committee on un-American activities.

Rep. Hart, [D., N. J.], announced his resignation as chairman yesterday and a heated behind-the-scenes struggle has developed over selection of a successor. The probing group was formerly known as the Dies committee.

Speaker Rayburn of Texas came up with Rep. Jackson, [D., Wash.], as his candidate. Jackson has consistently voted against the committee and even sought to deny it funds after the house had overwhelmingly given it permanent status this year.

Not Speaker's Choice

Rankin noted that nomination of a chairman is not up to the speaker, but to the Democratic majority and that the entire house membership must confirm the nomination.

"We are not going to let an opponent of the inquiry into communism in this country be jammed down our throats," said Rankin, who is acting chairman until a new head is picked.

"The committee has a tremendous task before it in running down those trying to undermine our constitutional form of government. These individuals and elements are using the same dangerous techniques and tactics employed in every totalitarian country in Europe.

Trying to Control Press

"They are trying to get control of the press, either by purchasing, advertising or other influence. They are trying to get control of the radio and motion picture industries.

"We need a strong, fearless chairman to conduct this inquiry, not a man who has shown by his vote that he wants to cut off an investigation."

Rep. Gibson [D., Ga.], strong supporter of the communist probe and reported to be Rankin's candidate, said he would like the post but doubted that leftist leaders would accept him.

NO CHANGE IN FOREIGN POLICY, BYRNES SAYS AFTER HE'S SWORN IN

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—Squinting into the sunshine on a White House terrace, James F. Byrnes took the oath as secretary of state today and then said there will be no change in the nation's basic foreign policy.

Secretary Byrnes

Byrnes, attended by President Truman and the outgoing secretary of state, Edward R. Stettinius Jr., was sworn in before a throng of the nation's highest officials.

Byrnes said he has been assured of the "wise counsel" of former Secretary of State Hull and of the advice of Stettinius. He asked state department employes to remain at their posts and carry on as usual while he is out of the country with President Truman attending the Big Three conference.

"A change in the secretaryship of state at this time," he said, "involves no change in the basic principles of our foreign policy in the prosecution of the war and in the struggle for enduring peace, which have been charted by the late President Roosevelt and reaffirmed by President Truman."

SUPPORT GIVEN FOR CHICAGO AS 'WORLD CAPITAL'

Mayor Kelly returned yesterday from Washington, D. C. His proposal that Chicago be named permanent headquarters for the united nations organization received favorable attention in the capital, he said.

Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] was enthusiastic about the suggestion, the mayor added, and promised to present it to the senate for action. About 20 senators and President Truman were given an outline of the plan at a luncheon in the senate office building, Mayor Kelly said.

Chicago support of the project will be sought by the mayor within the next few weeks, he said, adding that he believed it would be happily received by neighboring states, that would benefit from the placement here of the international capital.

Mayor Kelly departed later in the day for a 10 day vacation in his summer home at Eagle River, Wis.

CHURCHILL ENDS VOTE RACE AMID CHEERS, JEERS

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 3 — Cheers and boos greeted Prime Minister Churchill tonight as he brought his parliament election campaign to a climax with a speech to 20,000 persons at Walthamstow greyhound racing stadium in the Labor stronghold of northeast London. Britain will have its first general election in 10 years this Thursday.

Thruout Churchill's 28 minute talk there were noisy interruptions which at times drowned out the cheers of his supporters and repeatedly caused the prime minister to break off in the middle of a sentence. Churchill handled the opposition with adroit good humor.

"It's a free country and every one has the right to cheer and boo as much as he likes," he conceded. Then he added the reminder, "Winners cheer, the beaten boo."

Invites and Protests

Three times he stopped talking and invited what he described as the "booing party" to "have another good boo—get it off your chests." One he protested against organized opposition attempting to prevent free speech.

Churchill made his last big speech of the campaign from a red, white, and blue platform set up on the grass in the middle of the stadium which included the Stars and Stripes in its decorations.

He listed the defeat of Japan as priority No. 1, but explained that "only a small portion of the great armies we have used in Europe" could be transported to the Pacific battlefront. The next element in Conservative policy, he said, "is to bring the armies home."

Jobs for All

Churchill promised full employment for the next two or three years as Britain starts to produce long needed goods.

He estimated six years of war had left Britain short nearly 2,000,000 homes "which otherwise would have been built, apart from all of those which the enemy blew down or broke into pieces. Why have we not repaired and rebuilt those houses?" He was interrupted by cries from all over the stadium.

Applause and jeers also featured Churchill's drive back from the stadium to Downing st. thru the predominantly Labor north and northeast London districts. The crowds, too, were noticeably smaller than those which gathered in west and northwest London last night.

The prime minister again stood in the back of an open touring car, smoking a cigar, waving his hat, and giving the V-sign. He made several short speeches where the curious packed the thickest, but reached Downing st. on schedule a few minutes before 10 p. m. Motorcycle police escorted his car.

HOUSE APPROVES NEW PROBE OF HIGHWAY COSTS

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—The house today authorized its roads committee to investigate reports of excessive expense in Alaskan and Pan-American highway construction.

The action was taken despite protests by Representatives Elliott [D., Cal.], Rich [R., Pa.], and Elston [R., Ohio] that the probe would duplicate work of other committees.

The three said that the house territories committee has been authorized to check the Alaskan highway on its trip to Alaska this summer and that the senate war investigating committee has decided to study the Pan-American highway.

BRADLEY LEANS TO SIMPLER VETS' ADMINISTRATION

WIESBADEN, Germany, July 3 (AP)—Gen. Bradley, appointed by President Truman to head the veterans' administration; is considering the feasibility of decentralizing and simplifying the administrative structure of that organization which must be geared to handle the needs of some 18,000,000 veterans by the time World War II. is ended.

At present, Bradley is acting as a stand-in for Gen. Eisenhower, and is winding up his affairs as commanding general of the 12th army group. He expects to be able to return to the United States in about 30 days to assume his new responsibilities.

Bradley is not certain that any great decentralization can be achieved until he studies the set-up further, but he is interested in the possibility of putting more emphasis on regional administration to bring the services closer to the veterans.

WAR BOND SALES TO INDIVIDUALS HERE HIT 101.9%

Sales of bonds to individuals in Chicago and Cook county thru Monday had reached $333,632,000, or 101.9 per cent of the quota of $327,474,000, Lawrence F. Stern, chairman of the city-county war finance committee, said yesterday.

Altho the 7th war loan campaign closed last Saturday, all sales of E bonds made this week will be included in the quota, Stern said.

Total E bond sales in Chicago and Cook county thru Monday had reached $142,486,000, or 83.3 per cent of the $171,146,000 quota.

BRITON ASKS U.S. AIR FORCES HELP POLICE GERMANY

BY FRANK STURDY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 3—Altho the British government still is committed to a civil aviation policy oposed to that of the United States there are indications that the British air force wants the American army air forces to establish bases in England for the joint policing of Germany.

No such coöperation between the American and British air forces as would be involved in our use of English bases has been proposed publicly, but an official of the air ministry in a conference today with a group of American aviation writers said that such an arrangement would be desirable.

Wants Them for Action

"I should like to see the United States have bases here from which our two air forces could engage in joint exercises and take suitable action when the time comes that the Germans deny us the right of inspection of any of their industries or research institutions," this official said.

Any German factory or laboratory suspected of secretly developing war instruments and refusing to admit allied commissioners for a thoro examination should, the official said, be given a "demonstration" of the air power of England and the United States. The people of the area might be told to leave, he suggested, whereupon the offending institution could be obliterated by bombing.

Will Demand Traffic Division

Earlier, Civil Aviation Minister Swinton told a press conference for the writers that the British would insist on a traffic division formula when they negotiate a new air transport agreement with the United States.

The negotiations have not yet been arranged, but "we will have to be getting around to that one of these days," he added.

British opposition to the so-called fifth freedom—the privilege to carry traffic between territories other than that of the carrier's homeland—has not been released, he said, since the international aviation conference at Chicago, where that issue was a stumbling block to complete agreement.

Borneo to Provide Rubber at Once, Dutch Agent Says

SYDNEY, Australia, July 3 (AP)—Rubber can be exported from Balikpapan, Netherlands Borneo, within a week after its liberation if shipping space is available, J. Van Holst Pellekaan, Netherlands government trade commissioner in Australia, said today. He predicted most of Borneo's rubber trees would be found intact.

A CHEERFUL NOTE IS HEARD AGAIN ON U. S. BIRTHDAY

But War Still to Be Won Dominates Events

Chicago and the nation today will celebrate the first Fourth of July since Victory in Europe day with more of a spirit of joy than marked the sober observances of the last three years.

Altho victory over Japan is still to come, many service men and women who are thru with war or have won a respite from it will be able to attend home celebrations of this 169th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence. Millions of wives and parents whose fear of tragic news is ended will join wholeheartedly in the observances.

The Cook county council of the American Legion will pay special tribute to returned service men and women in a giant celebration in Soldiers' field at 7 o'clock tonight. Five hundred veterans will be received into the Legion in a mass induction ceremony.

Veterans to Be Guests

Patients from the army's Gardiner and Vaughan General hospitals are to be guests at the celebration. Capt. Irving Bernard, recently liberated prisoner of war, will receive a special tribute.

Countless lighter episodes reminiscent of the merry Fourth of prewar years will punctuate the Legion's program but neither participants nor audience will forget the men and women who are still fighting. An "On to Tokyo" fireworks display will conclude the program. This will depict the raising of the flag on Mount Suribachi on Iwo Island.

Tickets may be purchased in the lobby of the Morrison hotel, in the lobby of 343 S. Dearborn st., and at the south end of Soldiers' field all day today. Gates open at 5 p. m.

Many Other Celebrations

Innumerable neighborhood and suburban celebrations will be held. Most will be marked by the same mingled jollity and gravity as the Soldiers' field event.

Evanston will have a parade, a series of sports contests, a patriotic program, and a fireworks display. Flossmoor, Edison Park, Downers Grove, and Berwyn are among the other communities planning special events. Celebrations also will be held in Independence park, Ogden park, and Ridge park, among others.

The Art Institute, Chicago Natural History [Field] museum, Shedd aquarium, Adler planetarium, and Museum of Science and Industry all will be open. The Chicago Historical society will not.

Cake Presented to Marines

Thirty patients in Marine hospital, "adopted" a year ago by the confectionery and decorating class at the Washburne Trade school, will celebrate the Fourth around a cake 18 inches in diameter provided by the school.

Considerable pleasure motoring was expected today because of the 50 per cent increase in the value of A coupons which went into effect June 21. The Chicago Motor club advised motorists to beware of the effects of fatigue and of alcohol and to maintain a safe distance between their car and the one ahead.

Charles M. Hayes, club president, predicted that on the basis of last year's figures 15 persons would be killed and 300 injured in Illinois in automobile accidents attributable to the holiday.

THE QUESTION

What are your plans for the Fourth of July?

WHERE ASKED

The Uptown station, Wilson av. and Broadway.

THE ANSWERS

R. E. Burton, 1520 Wilson av.—I think I'll go fishing at Long Lake, Ill. I go there every year. I enjoy fishing for anything that will bite. This year I'm especially interested in a good catch because of the meat shortage. I believe my daughter and granddaughter will go along in the boat with me. They like fishing, too.

Mrs. Mary Rosenbaum, 653 Gordon terr.—I plan to spend the day just relaxing at home with my husband and son. Mr. Rosenbaum is a busy attorney and I don't get to see much of him except on weekends and holidays. Our son is home now from the Roosevelt Military academy in Aledo, Ill., and we'll both enjoy being with him.

Edward B. Anderson, Route 1, Northbrook—My wife, our 10 year old son and I are going to spend the day at our summer home at Clear Lake, Ind. They're there now, waiting for me. We all like to fish and to go sailing in our Canadian dinghy. My family spends the summer at the lake and I go up on week-ends.

Mrs. Grace Hollis, 3231 Fulton blvd.—My friend and I are planning to go to Milwaukee, Wis., where she has an aunt and other relatives. We probably will have a picnic, if it's a nice day, and otherwise enjoy a family get-together. My husband works nights, so it's hard to plan a holiday.

Miss Frances Meyers, 4546 Racine av.—If I don't have to work, I'm going to head for Washington Park race track. I just love the races and spend all my free time attending. When I'm working, I place bets anyway. Sometimes I lose and sometimes I win, but it's always fun for me, no matter how I fare financially.

Staff Sgt. Rodney Hamilton, 5030 Winthrop av.—I'll be starting back to the China-Burma-India theater on the Fourth. I spent 28 months there before my 45 day furlough, which went too fast. I can't say I'm glad to be going back, but a job is a job. I'm attached to the ground forces of the army air forces.

W. H. Cruden Re-Elected as Jury Commissioner

Judges of the Municipal, Circuit, Superior, Probate, and County courts yesterday reelected William H. Cruden to a three year term as jury commissioner. The two other commissioners, whose terms did not expire, are John Traeger and John Hurley.

NOISIEST FOURTH IN YEARS LIKELY IN CHICAGO AREA

With one fireworks death already reported and fireworks stands in outlying parts of the county doing a large business last night, the Chicago area today will celebrate its noisiest and probably most dangerout Fourth of July since 1941.

While a law that became effective in 1942 specifically banned the sale of firecrackers, torpedoes, skyrockets, and other dangerous fireworks, plenty of these explosives found their way into the hands of youngsters. Hundreds of complaints were made to Chicago and suburban police as the pre-Fourth blasting reached the highest pitch in four years.

Sgt. Thomas Curtin of South Chicago station arrested three grocers on charges of selling fireworks in violation of city ordinances. They are Harry Wolfe, 8452 Buffalo av.; Matt Allilovich, 8715 Buffalo av., and David Katz, 8403 Burley av. They were released on $25 bond and ordered to appear in South Chicago court tomorrow.

Sheriff Mulcahy and Chief John McGinnis, head of the county highway police, who have jurisdiction in the unincorporated areas where most of the fireworks were being sold, had arrested more than 20 violators but blamed "confusion" in the state laws for making their campaign ineffective.

Police Limit Arrests

They were limiting arrests to stand operators who lacked licenses or were selling explosives which violated restrictions on sizes of firecrackers and rockets provided in a 1935 state statute.

Donald MacKay, an attorney at 111 W. Monroe st., who said he requested Mulcahy several days ago to enforce the ban on dangerous fireworks but received no reply, asserted the 1941 law was specific in outlawing all forms of fireworks except sparklers, cap pistols, and other harmless devices.

"I went to Mulcahy's office to demand that he enforce the law," MacKay said, "because the fireworks din near my home at 10310 Hoyne av. has been worse than any year since 1941. Morgan Park police told me they were getting 100 complaints a day."

One paragraph of the statute repealed the provisions of any previous act inconsistent with the new law. MacKay and other lawyers agreed that this took precedence over the less stringent regulations of the 1935 law on which the sheriff's police were operating.

Quoting from provisions of the older law, Chief McGinnis said his policemen would have to measure the individual fireworks and weigh their powder content to establish violations. He said 15 arrests had been made for the sale of dangerous "explosives" but admitted that firecrackers, Roman candles, and rockets "of a certain length" were being sold without interference.

Police Lieutenant Arrested

Victim of the first fatality this year was a boy believed to have been Donald Lewis, 13, of 1631 Nashville av., who was burned to death Monday night in the explosion of a fireworks stand in Kiddieland, an amusement park at 1st and North avs., Leyden township.

avs., Leyden township. A verdict of accidental death was returned at an inquest yesterday.

Dorothy Gersch, 9, of 1814 Wenonah av., Berwyn, was cut deeply above her right eye last night by a firecracker exploded by boys at the rear of 1850 Wisconsin av., Berwyn. County highway police learned the firecracker had been purchased at a stand at Cermak rd. and Harlem av., North Riverdale. They went there and arrested Lt. Edward Smetana of the North Riverside police as the operator and confiscated his stock. He was released on $100 bond for arraignment tomorrow in Willow Springs highway police court.

In another accident with fireworks purchased outside the city Donald Twarog, 12, of 9151 University av., was severely cut on the nose and forehead last night when he was struck by a tin can under which he had ignited a firecracker.

U. S. NEWSMEN WARNED AGAIN IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 3 (AP)—A telephone message for Arnaldo Cortesi, correspondent for the New York Times, warning him to cease writing "tendentious news" about Argentina was received today at the Associated Press office, which adjoins Cortesi's office in the building of the newspaper La Nacion.

The caller identified himself as a spokesman for "Capt. Moretti" of the Argentine war ministry.

Capt. Mario Jorge Moretti of the war ministry had denied responsibility for similar warnings which both Cortesi and Joseph Newman, correspondent for the New York Herald-Tribune, had previously reported receiving.

Col. Juan Peron, Argentine vice president and war minister, in a warning to enemies of the regime, said last night that his government awaited an "insurrection" and that "we have the force necessary to suppress it."

DON'T LET U. S. BE GRAVY BOWL, G. O. P. VETS SAY

Republican war veterans selected by the party organization in 28 states yesterday adopted a platform declaring that America "must not be made a 'gravy bowl' for an impoverished world" and inviting all war veterans "to continue to serve our country thru the Republican party." The group concluded a two day meeting in the Palmer House.

Warren H. Atherton of Stockton, Cal., former national commander of the American Legion, was appointed chairman of the new organization with authority to select temporary officers and set the date of the next meeting, which will be held within a year. The object of the organization is to attract the votes of returning war veterans to the Republican ticket in 1946.

Eight Planks in Platform

The platform contains eight planks:

1. "Preservation of the American way of life can best be entrusted to those who have offered their lives to preserve it."

2. "Interest of war veterans in the affairs of government will insure security against foreignisms and ideologies."

3. "Returning veterans know that the American standard of living is the highest in the world. That standard is the product of individual initiative fostered by free enterprise. It must not be lowered to the level of any other country."

4. "Veterans know that America will accept its responsibility in the rehabilitation of other peoples but it must not be made a 'gravy bowl' for an impoverished world."

"G. O. P. Friend of Veteran"

5. "Veterans are determined to lend every effort to reduce the areas of conflict between employes and employers to the end that such conflicts will eventually be eliminated."

6. "The Republican party is the traditional friend of the veteran. It demands prompt, efficient, and liberal administration of the rehabilitation, education, insurance, loan, compensation, and employment provisions of the GI bill and all other laws to aid veterans and their dependents."

7. "Our hope for future peace and security lies in friendly coöperation with other nations under an international charter and the maintenance of armed strength adequate to preserve our peace and security."

8. "Service to country must not stop with victory. We believe that the Republican party stands for the ideal for which veterans have fought. We invite all service men and women to continue to serve our country thru the Republican party."

Republican chairmen of 13 states last night concluded a regional conference with Herbert Brownell Jr., chairman of the Republican national committee, in the Stevens hotel. The conference adopted a resolution designed to breathe new life into the Young Republican organization thru intensification of its activities and closer coöperation of the movement with the regular party. The resolution also would limit young Republicans to the 18 to 30 age bracket.

Going to Pacific

BBC war correspondents, James Watson (at wheel) and Douglas Willis, as they halted their mobile radio recording unit at Tribune Tower last night. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Two British Broadcasting company war correspondents—the first to leave the European theater for the Pacific—passed thru Chicago yesterday on their way to Gen. MacArthur's headquarters. They are Douglas Willis, 28, of London, and James B. Watson, 36, of Glasgow, Scotland.

Willis, who spent the first three and one-half years of the war as a merchant seaman gunner on an oil tanker, was discharged after his ship was torpedoed. Since then he has covered France, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, and Channel Islands fighting for BBC.

Watson, who recorded material under fire in France, Belgium, and Holland, jokingly pointed out that Willis was born in a coal cellar during an air raid in the last war. Both men said British newspapers, with small format, have largely ignored the Pacific war for the one on their doorstep. Now the British public is clamoring for Pacific war news, they said.

Washing Machine Shakes Green's Peas Out of Pods

Urbana, Ill., July 3 (AP)—Romeo Green of Urbana, faced with the man power shortage in shelling his peas, settled the problem by giving them a quick once-over in a washing machine. After the agitator whirled them, the shells popped out and the peas remained in the washer, he reported.

RADIO PROGRAMS WILL FEATURE SPIRIT OF 4TH

The spirit of the 4th of July will be reflected in numerous broadcasts today. The Human Adventure on W-G-N and WGNB at 9 tonight will present "Benjamin Franklin, Uncle of the U. S. A." The story of this founding father and his many contributions as an inventor, newspaper man, scientist, inventor, diplomat, and philosopher will be unfolded in dramatic episodes and ballads. Original music written by Kenneth Churchill will be presented by the orchestra, directed by Henry Weber.

Patriotic tunes and other music symbolic of America will highlight many broadcasts. The WAAF Symphonic hour at noon will feature Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever."

At 8:30 p. m. WWZR, FM station, will feature a special Fourth program which will include an American medley, a George M. Cohan medley, and "Battle Hymn of the Republic." The Northerners at 9:30 tonight over W-G-N will present an ensemble, "This Is My Country."

YANKS TO MARK 4TH WITH FETES THRUOUT EUROPE

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

United States service men and women in the European theater will celebrate their first fourth of July today since victory over Germany, aided by the hospitality and homage of their allies. All army personnel at United Kingdom bases were granted a day long holiday, but the United States navy said so far as it was concerned "there is no holiday." British recreation centers were turned over to Americans for baseball and other games, and dances, shows, and other entertainment in the evening.

The Independence day celebration in soviet Russia began last night with a concert of American music by the Moscow state philharmonic orchestra in Tchaikovsky hall. The American embassy's and military missions' celebration started early today with embassy clerks and enlisted men taking a boat ride in the Volga canal.

AUSSIES SEIZE AIR FIELD AND BORNEO TOWN

Drive 6 Miles to Capture Sepinggang

MANILA, July 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Australian 7th division troops in a three mile advance to the northeast captured Sepinggang air field and town by nightfall Monday, the second day of the Balikpapan invasion, to bring Java, heart of the Dutch East Indies, within fighter range of allied planes for the first time in more than three years.

As the Aussies consolidated their left flank positions atop a vital ridge overlooking fire ravaged Balikpapan, the rapid advance of other units along a hard surfaced two-lane highway brought possession of the 4,600 foot asphalt paved runway only 510 miles from Soerabaja, Java.

A front dispatch said the air strip already is in operation and that the Australians have a beachhead seven miles long and two miles deep. The Melbourne radio said the fall of Balikpapan itself was only a "matter of hours."

Another Air Field Ahead

A second enemy air field is at Manggar, only six miles ahead of the driving Australians. While Melbourne radio broadcasts have claimed its capture, there has been no confirmation from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters.

The Japanese defenders of Balikpapan, where the Australians landed Sunday, followed their customary practice and pulled out of strong prepared positions on the beach and retired to a series of ridges overlooking the town itself.

Today's war bulletin made no mention of further progress inland, and a spokesman said there had been little change of position from the first day.

Cavalry commandos, components of the 7th division, met heavy machine gun fire from six enemy positions when they crossed the Klandasan river Sunday night to begin their push on Sepinggan.

Knock Out Jap Guns

Aerial and naval bombardment knocked out Japanese coastal defense guns and dual purpose anti-aircraft guns at the landing beach but there was no indication that enemy mortar and artillery fire farther inland had been silenced.

Balikpapan continued to blaze and burning oil sent a thick pall over the city.

While Rear Adm. Russell S. Berkey's 7th fleet cruisers and destroyers supported by carrier planes volleyed hundreds of rounds of shells into the oil town, more than 100 Liberators and scores of Mitchells and Lightnings of the 13th and 5th air forces pounded enemy bridges, barracks, and troop concentrations in the target area.

In addition, planes kept blanketed and unoperational various air fields on Celebes, across the Makassar strait from Borneo, and in the Bandjermasin area of southern Borneo. Four small enemy craft were destroyed in the straits.

Advance in West Borneo

On western Borneo, the Australian 9th division, supported by navy rocket fire, advanced north of Beaufort to capture Lamut and pushed two miles north to within 50 miles of Jesselton. Another column, south and east of Beaufort, took strong natural positions lightly held by the Japanese at Tenom, a mile and a half west along a spur railroad serving north Borneo rubber plantations. Fifth air force Liberators, Spitfires, and Kittyhawks based at Labuan worked over enemy positions from Trombol field at Kuching to Keningau.

Associated Press Correspondent Russell Brines, with the invasion force, reported the Japanese were withdrawing up the coast toward Samarinda, 60 miles north of Balikpapan. The Sanga Sanga oil fields, in the Samarinda area, are the last held by the Japanese.

The enemy has been driven from Tarakan Island, 300 miles north of Balikpapan, from which oil is already being supplied to allied ships, and the Japanese hold has been broken on the Seria and Miri fields of Sarawak, northwest Borneo.

Among pilots attacking these dromes was Fred M. Olsen, Lombard, Ill.

One Liberator which had flown thru flak filled skies to attack anti-aircraft guns and Japanese troops and barracks gave out while flying home and with two engines knocked out the pilot ordered the crew to jump.

Only four men survived to tell the harrowing story. They included Sgts. Robert Kaul, engineer, Hammond, Ind. and Daniel Loeffelholz, radio operator, Potosi, Wis.

STARVED AND ILL SLAVES BURNED ALIVE BY JAPS

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BALIKPAPAN BEACHHEAD, Dutch Borneo, July 3—The story of how the Japanese burned alive starving and ill Javanese slave laborers and Borneo natives in three flimsy wooden buildings used as a hospital was gasped out today by a native before he died.

The Dyak, his body shrunken from lack of food and part of his right leg laid bare by an infected wound, told Netherlands Indies civil administration [NICA] officials at the tent hospital where he was taken:

"Three days ago the Japs came to our hospital. They told us they were leaving. They said they were going to burn the hospital before they left and that all those able to walk could escape."

Found Huddled in Ditch

The native was found huddled in a ditch, where he had lain for three days, by Australian troops as they reached the charred remains of the hospital. Scattered among the ruins were the burned bodies of the other victims. From 200 to 300 Dyaks and Javanese slave laborers too weak to work had been in the buildings.

Several thousand able bodied natives and Javanese were believed to have been driven away from Balikpapan for slave labor purposes. Only 200 natives, including two women, have been found so far. They have been placed in a compound maintained by Dutch officials. Nearly all are pathetic skeletons.

Maj. Andre Van Assenderp, commanding the 186 man NICA unit, said the Japanese shipped 500 slave laborers monthly to Java for at least five months preceding the Australian invasion. They were called "hei-ho," or military laborers.

Javanese on Starvation Diet

The Javanese apparently were kept perpetually on a near starvation diet. Local natives, also impressed as laborers, fared somewhat better because they raised katalla, a fast growing plant whose root, when dried, can be ground into flour.

The Australians also discovered additional natives too weak to move in the Klandasan section of Balikpapan. They were in a small house surrounded by their dead compatriots. Three natives, found in a near-by cave, were boiling leaves for food.

HOFFMAN ASKS U.S. STATE AIMS IN WAR ON JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—A full statement of our war aims against Japan was urged today by Rep. Hoffman [R., Mich.], who told the house the goal should be to whip Japan completely, but not to "exterminate" the Japanese race.

Hoffman's house speech followed a demand yesterday by Sen. White [R., Me.] that President Truman make public a precise statement of surrender terms to be imposed on Japan.

Hoffman, recalling the recent report by Sen. Capehart [R., Ind.] that Japan has sued for peace, said capital reports indicate the Japanese have offered to surrender all conquered territory, and their military forces, and to dismantle their war industries.

"The administration," he said, "should tell us the objectives of our armed forces: just what must be accomplished before the killing off of the best of American youth will be ended."

4,900,000 Suffer in Raids by U. S. Planes, Japs Say

San Francisco, Cal., July 3 (AP)—Tokyo radio acknowledged tonight that 4,900,000 Japanese have been killed, injured, or rendered homeless in five large homeland cities as the result of American aerial blows up to May 31. The broadcast said 1,135,000 homes were destroyed in the attacks.

EMPLOYE DIES ON ERRAND

3 ALLIED FLEETS OFF OKINAWA, JAP RADIO SAYS

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 3 [Reuters]—Japanese reconnaissance today reported the presence of three allied fleets with transports and landing barges in the waters off Okinawa, said the Tokyo radio as heard here.

The positions of the fleets were given as: Off Kerama [southwest of Okinawa], three cruisers, over 20 destroyers, two seaplane tenders and from 170 to 180 transports. Off the Katern Islands: Three battleships, 50 transports, and 60 landing barges. In Nakagusuku bay, two seaplane tenders, over 40 transports and 26 landing barges.

Claim Cruiser Sunk

San Francisco, Cal., July 3 (AP)—Japan's Domei news agency reported today that Japanese planes sank one "enemy" cruiser and damaged another off Okinawa Sunday night and attacked the American air field on Ie Island, west of Okinawa on Monday, "causing several big fires."

Third Officer Convicted in Negro Court Martial

Fort Knox, Ky., July 3 (AP)—Second Lt. Roger Terry, Los Angeles, Cal., the last of three Negro army air force officers tried before a general court-martial at Godman field, was found guilty of offering violence to a military policeman and was fined $150. He was acquitted of a second charge of disobedience of a direct order. The two other Negro officers, 2d Lt. Marsden Thompson, Los Angeles, Cal., and Shirley Clinton, Camden, N. J., yesterday were acquitted of charges of disobeying a direct order.

Red Soldiers Pulling Out of Poland, American Says

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—An American broadcaster reported from Warsaw tonight that the Russian army was pulling out of soviet-occupied Poland and that Polish highways were jammed with soviet military vehicles. In a dispatch broadcast to Britain's Exchange Telegraph agency, Robert Magidoff of the National Broadcasting corporation said there were no Red army soldiers in evidence in Warsaw and "I heard from competent observers in Krakow and other large Polish centers that the situation there is similar."

TRUMAN URGES U. S. TO HONOR LIBERTY CREED

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—In a Fourth of July statement, President Truman tonight called on the nation to honor the "creed of liberty" which its fighting sons have carried thruout the world.

"Again this year we celebrate July 4 as the anniversary of the day one hundred and sixty-nine years ago on which we declared our independence as a sovereign people," the President said.

"In this year of 1945 we have pride in the combined might of this nation which has contributed signally to the defeat of the enemy in Europe. We have confidence that, under providence, we soon may crush the enemy in the Pacific. We have humility for the guidance that has been given us of God in serving his will as a leader of freedom for the world.

Let us honor our nation's creed of liberty, and the men and women of our armed forces who are carrying this creed with them thruout the world."

PLANE HITS SHIP MAST, BRINGS BACK JAP FLAG

OKINAWA, July 2 [Delayed]—(AP)—A navy privateer came home today from a bombing raid in the Yellow sea, dangling a three foot piece of the mast from a Japanese ship with a tattered remnant of the rising sun flag.

Most of the plane's belly was ripped out when it hit the mast during a strafing run. But Lt. G. E. Miller of Long Beach, Cal., brought his crippled ship with her 11 man crew and two passengers safely back in a perilous 500 mile flight. The crew had to cling to the sides of the "inverted bathtub" to keep from falling into the Pacific. The passengers were injured. Miller said all the controls on one side of the ship were knocked away or left dangling. Despite the damage Miller landed the plane perfectly with a 300 yard belly slide.

Chinese Advance

CHUNGKING, China, July 3 (AP)—Striking the key nerve center of Japanese resistance in central China, American flyers virtually destroyed three enemy headquarters near Changsha, 385 miles southeast of Chungking, a United States 14th air force bulletin said today.

Seventy-five miles south of Changsha, astride Japan's vital transcontinental corridor from Korea to Hong Kong, P-51 Mustang fighters pummeled bridges and Japanese shipping in the Hengyang area.

All the United States planes returned safely to base.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's soldiers meanwhile scored new gains 400 miles southeast of Chungking, breaking thru the north gate into the encircled Japanese held town of Liucheng, 11 miles northwest of captured Liuchow, a Chinese bulletin said.

4 CHICAGOANS UNDER ATTACK BY SUICIDE PLANE

ABOARD THE DESTROYER ESCORT U. S. S. BRIGHT [By Mail]—Four Chicagoans were aboard this ship when it was damaged by a Jap suicide plane in the campaign for Okinawa.

The ship's guns took the plane under fire at 3,500 yards and scored hits. The plane crashed astern and its bomb exploded, blowing in the ship's stern from below the water line to the main deck and starting fires. All personnel in the after steering room were wounded.

The Bright returned to the United States for repairs under its own power, being steered by a jury rig. The Chicago men who were in the action are Lt. Comdr. William McMahan, 1608 Sherwin av.; Thomas Paul Hale, motor machinist's mate, first class, 4517 W. Washington blvd.; George Edward Firnhaber, radarman, second class, 10233 S. Racine av., and Daniel Arnold, fireman, first class, 9364 Burnside av.

MOSCOW TRAIN AT BERLIN

MOSCOW, July 3 [AP]—The first train from Moscow to Berlin since the start of the war between Germany and Russia arrived in the German capital yesterday, a Tass dispatch reported today. It left Moscow on June 28.

BIG B-29 FORCE SMASHES ANEW AT JAP TARGETS

GUAM, July 4 [Wednesday]—(AP)—Four fleets of B-29s, totaling between 450 and 500 planes, struck fourt target cities on Honshu and Shikoku Islands of Japan with nearly 3,000 tons of firebombs in pre-dawn darkness today.

The mission brought to 2,400 the total number of sorties flown by planes of the 21st bomber command against Japan in nine days.

Three cities in Shikoku — Tokushima, Takamatsu, and Kochi—were hit with firebombs for the first time.

The fourth city attacked was Himeji, on Honshu, across the Inland sea from Shikoku.

Twenty-six Japanese industrial cities now have been fireblitzed by the Super Forts, which have made 37 incendiary missions from the Marianas.

HIDDEN VALLEY WOMEN WORK WHILE MEN PLAY

Males a Weak Lot, Says Paratroop Leader

BY WALTER SIMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea, July 1 [Delayed]—As the last four paratroopers were removed today from the hidden valley of "Shangri-La," new light was shed on the valley's unique mode of life.

Capt. Cecil Walters, Portland, Ore., who headed the last paratroop group, described the prehistoric stone-age society where men, who do no work whatever, outnumber, 10 to 1, the women, who literally are worked to death.

"The men spend their time hunting, playing games, singing, and laughing while the women labor from dawn to dusk in the fields," said Capt. Walters. "Altho well built, the men had little stamina. They could not carry more than 20 pounds for any distance. They age rapidly. Life seems a communal affair in which every woman has many husbands. Despite the scarcity we found women were valued less than pigs.

Bathing Is Unknown

"We found no evidence of cannibalism or headhunting. Bathing is unknown and every citizen of this slap happy valley has quite a heady aroma.

"Society is ruled by a chief and a buxom queen who has almost equal authority."

"We found absolutely nothing to suggest white men had ever been there," he said. "I believe the expedition visited some of the three or four adjoining valleys which are much the same and somewhat better developed."

Besides Walters, the final party included Master Sgt. Santiago Abrencia, 1810 Beloit st., West Los Angeles, Cal.; Tech. Sgt. Roque Valasco, 1608 Gray st., San Francisco, Cal., and Tech. Sgt. Hermenegildo Caolla, Sacramento.

20 Bodies Left in Valley

Behind them the evacuees left the nation's strangest military cemetery. High on a precipitous, tree dotted hillside under regulation white markers lie the bodies of 20 air force men and WACs who were killed in an air crash May 13.

The final glider flight was piloted by Capt. George R. Allen, Salem, Ore., with Lt. Nicholas Kimler, South Milwaukee, Wis., as co-pilot. Among souvenirs brought out on the final snatch was a baby pig which Capt. Walters named "Maggie" in honor of Corp. Margaret Hastings, Oswego, N. Y., WAC who spent 47 days in the valley before being rescued. Corp. Hastings and Lt. John B. McCollom, Trenton, Mo., another survivor, have been pronounced physically fit, but Tech. Sgt. Kenneth Decker, Kelso, Wash., will receive skin grafts and treatment for a chipped elbow before being dismissed from the hospital.

Allies Stop Salaries of Ex-German Officials

PARIS, July 3 (AP)—Supreme allied headquarters issued a stop order today on all salaries, allowances, and compensations to all inactive national and local officials and employes of the former German government.

GI Joe in the Pacific

By ARTHUR VEYSEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BALIKPAPAN BEACHHEAD, Dutch Borneo, July 3—The half dozen Americans sat in the narrow slice of shade beside their Alligator [an LVT—landing vehicle, tracked; or amphibious tractor]. They were among thousands of Australians, and they felt like foreigners.

One of them was just in from replacement camp before the Borneo show—every operation is a "show" in soldier speech—and he remembered that tomorrow is Independence day. "Never thought I would have such an exciting Fourth of July," he said.

That was when the oldtimers chimed in. Exciting? War exciting? Yes, when they first went into combat, with artillery roaring, planes diving, tanks charging and infantry advancing. It was exciting every time the Yanks dished it out. Some even called it thrilling. It was even exciting when we took some of the punishment.

* *

But there comes a time to almost every soldier when war is not exciting, when to hear some one call it thrilling makes him turn away in disgust. That's the way the old soldiers felt, sitting in the shade of their Alligator.

Sure it still made their hearts beat faster, but with every beat the heart was heavier. There was no exhilaration. The light that comes to their eyes is the flash of fear, fear that never can be prevented but must always be overcome.

War is ugly—listen to an old soldier's speech. It's depressing—watch them sit and stare when they hear that one of their mates was wounded or killed and pass on the information in near whispers, as tho they were spies fearful of being overheard.

* *

For GI's short of the 85 points that are the minimum requirement for discharge there is little to look forward to but days on end just like today. Some may be better and some may be worse, but whether they are better or worse, there is little you can do about it.

Besides it's plain uncomfortable. Very few campers who boast about returning to nature go half as far away from 20th century comforts as the soldier.

Tomorrow the guns will be making more noise than any kid ever dreamed of when picking the biggest firecracker. At night tracers will stream across the sky farther and faster than any roman candle ever made. Flares will make even the Chicago Soldiers' field displays feeble as candles.

The Fourth of July thrilling? Exciting? That's what the Yank from the replacement camp called it. And you should have heard the way the old timers jumped on him.

U.S. HAS BASES NEEDED TO CRUSH JAPANESE, SAYS ADM. KINKAID

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

SEVENTH FLEET HDQ., July 4 [Wednesday]—The United States navy already is in possession of all bases it needs for the final blows against Japan, Adm. Kinkaid, commander of the 7th fleet, said yesterday on his return from a two months' visit to the United States.

Discussing the program of bombing the Japanese home islands, Kinkaid said: "I am not interested in any bases—unless they are closer to Japan—than what we've got now. My eyes are on Tokyo. We've got the Japanese under heavy pressure now and if we keep it on so that Japan can't get back on balance the war will end sooner than it otherwise would. Pressure must be increased steadily until Japan is finished."

Kinkaid said, "We take our naval bases to sea with us for 80 to 90 days at a time now."

"We're going to throw everything we have at Japan," he said. "Ship-based as well as land-based air. Before we get thru we're going to have all of Japan saturated with planes."

NAVY PROMOTES HEROIC GUARD IN BREAK ATTEMPT

Tiffin Pierre Constant, 41, of 7435 N. Seeley av., a member of the 9th naval district shore patrol and previously for ten years attached to the Rogers Park police station, yesterday was promoted for courage in bringing a deserter from Michigan to Chicago.

Constant, who is in Wesley Memorial hospital, was notified of his advance from specialist 1st class to chief specialist by Comdr. F. H. Williams, head of the district shore patrol, and Lt. J. R. Reilly, commanding officer of the guard division.

The prisoner, emerging from a washroom, stole up behind Constant and struck him repeatedly with a table leg, breaking an arm and causing other injuries. Constant fought back and was assisted by Fay Evans, 53, or 2419 W. 67th st., a civilian, in overpowering the prisoner.

89 GIs CHARGE JAP RIDGE; 3 EMERGE UNHURT

OKINAWA, July 4 [Wednesday] —(AP)—A Presidential citation arrived on this Independence day for company L, an infantry outfit that sent its last 89 men against a Japanese ridge position on Okinawa. Of those who returned, only three were unwounded.

Company L, 383d regiment, 96th division, killed 700 Japanese of a battalion of 1,000 on the ridge.

"Company L, with fixed bayonets, boldly and fearlessly charged a heavily defended position," the Presidential citation said, "and attained its objective."

Only a captain and 20 men of the 147 who hit the beaches on Okinawa invasion day remained to hear the citation read.

Yanks Move Out at 5 A. M.

Capt. William M. Mitchell, 23, Ponchatoula, La., recalled the day of the bayonet charge. "You couldn't move a muscle out there without drawing fire," he said.

The day was April 9. The objective was Kakuzu ridge, four miles north of Naha.

This point, the Presidential citations said, "gave the enemy complete observation and flanking fire on the entire [383d] regiment. This spur was of vital importance to the entire command."

"We hopped off at 5 a. m.," Mitchell said. "The Japs virtually surrounded the hill, but we got by them without letting them see or hear us. We crossed the gully and reached the ridge."

Pvt. Joseph Demolle, New Orleans, La., spoke up:

"We passed close to fire in some caves where the Japs were cooking breakfast, but they didn't hear us."

"Hell" Starts Popping

Sgt. Alvin Becker, New Orleans, said he remembered seeing a Japanese on another ridge and waving to him.

"The Jap laughed and waved back," he added. "I opened up with my Browning automatic rifle and hell started popping."

The coral rock was so hard the Yanks couldn't dig foxholes.

"We just had to lie there and take it," said Pvt. Louis Novak, Streator, Ill.

The Japanese turned mortars, heavy artillery, and machine guns on the ridge.

"They tossed flying horses [91 mm. shells] at us, too," said Sgt. Lloyd G. Backart, Grand Rapids, Mich.

The Japanese made four counterattacks. Backart was one of the three Yanks not wounded.

Australia to Send Six to AMG School in U. S.

CANBERRA, Australia, July 3 (AP) [Reuters]—Francis M. Forde, Australian army minister, said today the cabinet had accepted a United States war department offer and six Australian officers would attend a course in civil affairs at the school of military government, Charlottesville, Va., in July. Forde said operations in Borneo created need for officers with such training.

AWAIT REPORTS BY TREASURY ON ELLIOTT'S LOANS

House, Senate Groups to Study Them

Washington, D. C., July 3 [Special]—Two congressional committees today were awaiting reports from the treasury department in its investigation into the series of financial transactions by which Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the late President Roosevelt, sought to finance a nation-wide radio network in 1938 and 1939. The committees are the senate finance committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. George [D., Ga.], and the house ways and means committee, under the chairmanship of Rep. Doughton [D., N. C.]. A spokesman for the treasury said yesterday the reports on its investigation would be available "in a day or two."

Probe Hartford Loan.

The treasury inquiry, it is understood, is directed principally at circumstances surrounding the loan of $200,000 to Elliott in 1939 by John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company. It is expected the treasury will be asked to report on other transactions by Elliott.

Within the last month there has been public disclosure thru admissions by persons concerned that, including the Hartford deal, Elliott borrowed at least $320,000 on "unbankable" security, and that these loans were subsequently settled for a fraction of their value.

Two Other Loans

In addition to the $200,000 loan from Hartford, which was settled for $4,000, there were loans of $70,000 by David J. Baird, New York insurance man, and $50,000 by Maxwell H. Bilofsky, a manufacturer of radio transmitters. Bilofsky eventually got back $20,800 and took his loss without asking the internal revenue department to give him credit for the difference as a bad debt.

Hartford, however, attempted to deduct $196,000 from his income in his 1942 returns because of his loss in the deal with Elliott, and it has been reported that Baird, after making a settlement of his $70,000 loan, attempted to write off $50,000 as a bad debt for income tax purposes.

The treasury has said that the Hartford claim was not allowed. It is the usual procedure for the department to insist that the validity of bad debt claims be established thru court action.

Sirovich Member of Cast

Thru all of Elliott's financing operations that have so far come to light a strange cast of characters has been appearing and reappearing. One of the headliners has been the late Rep. Sirovich [D., N. Y.], a New Deal congressman who was a staunch supporter and personal friend of the late President Roosevelt.

When Elliott approached Hartford, he did so only after Sirovich had paved the way for him by sounding out the A. & P. general counsel, Caruthers C. Ewing, and arranging thru Ewing for Elliott to have an appointment with Hartford at the latter's hotel outside of business hours.

Sirovich again was in the picture when the touch was put upon Baird. He is said to have made the first contact with Baird and to have arranged for Elliott and Baird to meet. Sirovich played the financial "bird dog" role in sending Baird to Bilofsky with a successful appeal for cash for Elliott.

Jesse Jones Involved

Also in the background of the deals, it has been disclosed, has been the figure of Jesse Jones, former secretary of commerce and head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Jones, at the time of the transactions a friend of the President, played the role of "fixer" for the Roosevelt family when the time came to "settle" the obligations Elliott had incurred.

Ewing has said that he went to Washington in 1942 and handed Elliott's note and securities to Jones in the latter's office and received from him a check for $4,000 in full settlement. Baird has been quoted as stating Jones arranged the settlements of his and Bilofsky's loans.

Also in the background of Elliott's transactions has appeared the figure of the late President Roosevelt himself. In each of the three known instances where loans were made, Rep. Sirovich is said to have assured the prospective lenders that the President knew of the matter and approved it.

Before Hartford wrote his check to Elliott for $200,000, he is said to have spoken with the President over the telephone, been called "John" by the chief executive, and been invited to visit the White House.

Banked on F. D. R.

Bilofsky has asserted that one of his reasons for deciding to loan Elliott $50,000 was his reliance upon assurances given him by Baird that the President knew about it.

Westbrook Pegler, a New York columnist, was instrumental primarily in bringing the Elliott Roosevelt radio financing operations to light. He bared the story of the Hartford loan in one of his columns early last month, and his disclosures were confirmed and amplified by Hartford and Ewing. Demands from members of congress for more facts brought an announcement that the treasury was investigating.

Thru it all, Elliott has maintained silence, as has his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, and other members of the Roosevelt family. Elliott quit the radio business when he entered the army as a captain in 1940. He is now a brigadier general.

I kinda thought that springboard was a little too lively.

ORDERS CHAPLIN TO COURT IN SUPPORT SUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., July 3 (AP)—Joan Berry filed an action today to compel Charlie Chaplin to pay for support and attorney fees pending appeal of her paternity suit against the actor. She declared she is without funds, unable to work, owes $450 rent and has had to borrow $450 for food and clothes.

Miss Berry, Chaplin's former motion picture protege, asserted she had received no aid from him since last April 12, five days before the conclusion of the paternity trial in which Chaplin was declared to be the father of her daughter, Carol Ann.

Both she and Chaplin have appealed from the judgment in the case, in which the actor was ordered to pay $75 a week for the support of the child, now 20 months old, and $5,000 attorney fees.

Superior Judge W. S. Baird ordered Chaplin to appear July 16 to show cause why he should not make the payments.

CHICAGO GREEKS WILL HOLD WAR RELIEF RALLY

The Greek War Relief association, the American Friends of Greece, and the Chicago Greek community will join in a rally at 8 o'clock tonight in Medinah temple. Principal guest and speaker will be John Politis, a member of the Greek delegation to the San Francisco conference, who was Greek ambassador to Italy when the Italians invaded Greece.

Politis will speak in place of John Sofianopoulos, Greek minister of foreign affairs, who arrived here yesterday to keep the engagement, but hurried on to Washington for a conference with State Secretary Byrnes about Greece's declaration of war on Japan.

Mayor Kelly met Sofianopoulos at the Dearborn station, put thru a telephone call to Washington for him, and then put him on a Washington plane. Sofianopoulos promised to return for a banquet to be given by the Order of Ahepa in the Stevens hotel tomorrow evening. In addition to Politis, 20 other members of the Greek delegation to San Francisco remained in Chicago.

DEFEND SALES OF SHIP PARTS AS SCRAP STEEL

San Francisco, Cal., July 3 [Special]—Maritime commission officials and spokesmen for Henry Kaiser's shipyard No. 4 today defended the scrapping of $70,000 of ship material for sale at the office of price administration scrap ceiling of $12.77 a ton.

Answering complaints of workmen who threatened to cash in their war bonds in protest against the waste, officials said the material destroyed was the result of an overpurchase in the frigate building program, and already obsolete for any other use.

Officials predicted similar incidents will occur many times as the shipbuilding program is tapered off. They said destruction with blow torches is necessary to make sure that scrap dealers who contract for the material get only scrap.

MRS. SALLY M'DOWELL

Atty. Charles Liebman filed a habeas corpus petition yesterday with Federal Judge William J. Campbell seeking the release of Roy McDowell, 40, of 6104 N. Paulina st., who was held by military police at Fort Sheridan on a charge of being AWOL from the army in 1928.

The petition claimed that the period for prosecuting McDowell under military law expired in 1936, three years after his enlistment would have ended. McDowell was seized by federal bureau of investigation agents Monday at the Semi Steel Test foundry, 909 N. Kilpatrick av., where he is a crane operator. He was discovered at Fort Sheridan after his wife, Harriett, became agitated and started a long search for him.

Liebman asked an immediate hearing yesterday on the petition for a writ. Judge Campbell set the hearing for next Tuesday, and instructed Liebman to notify military authorities and the United States attorney's office of the suit.

What are Your Prospects for East-West Air Travel without a PRIORITY?

AT the present time, TWA is flying about twice as many plane-miles as before the war.

This is partly due to the recent addition of airplanes, but also results from getting nearly twice as much flying service from each plane we have.

In spite of this increased capacity, the only honest answer to the above question is, we regret: "Not good."

Here's why:

★ The greatest movement of troops of the war is now under way. It is taxing all forms of transportation—airlines included.

★ Movement is in both directions. Military personnel, and other high-priority travelers are moving from west to east as well as east to west.

★ Air mail and air cargo have hit new high levels of volume. Rating as essential, these take precedence over nonpriority passengers. Since a plane can carry only so many pounds, flights sometimes start with some empty seats—full cargo compartments.

Under such circumstances only high priority passengers can be sure of getting to their destination.

Others not only find their trip interrupted, but frequently find it impossible to secure other forms of transportation or hotel accommodations. In spite of all we can do, they are often badly inconvenienced.

For this unhappy situation, no one can be blamed. It exists through national necessity—and the hard fact that we still have a big war to win.

Naturally, if your trip is really vital, TWA will, as always, make every effort to take good care of you.

But until we can provide better, more certain, over-all service, we urge you not to travel unless your trip is necessary.

'WE ARE ALL CAPABLE OF MORE THAN WE DO'*

IN THESE CHALLENGING words, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, Mary Baker Eddy, points to a central truth in the teaching of this Science, namely that every individual has capabilities surpassing those of which he has been aware.

Further emphasizing this fact, and indicating also the practical results of its scientific recognition, Mrs. Eddy writes, "Business men and cultured scholars have found that Christian Science enhances their endurance and mental powers, enlarges their perception of character, gives them acuteness and comprehensiveness and an ability to exceed their ordinary capacity."*

Countless instances of this kind are on record. Through the understanding of Christian Science, writers have found their skill and usefulness increased, business executives have worked with greater assurance and success, men in the armed forces have been more resourceful, effective, and free from weariness, anxiety, and other distresses than they had thought they could be. And so on in other occupations.

The complete explanation of Christian Science and its method of releasing the latent capabilities of men and women, as well as of healing disease, is given in the Christian Science textbook,

EXPECT RUSSIAN DEMAND TO OPEN ALL WATERWAYS

International Control of Straits, Canals Sought

Russia Asks Voice

PARIS, July 3 (AP)—A French foreign ministry spokesman tonight said the tri-power conference called to discuss means of ousting Spain from the Tangier international zone had been postponed indefinitely pending action on soviet Russia's proposal that she participate in its future control. The spokesman said negotiations were under way in Paris, London, and Washington, and that allied acceptance of the Russian request would mean admitting of the soviets to the "exploratory conversations" which had been scheduled to start today.

BY HENRY WALES
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

TANGIER, July 3—Russia's demands for revision of the status of the Dardanelles and for participation in the international control of Tangier are expected to lead toward a soviet proposal that all narrow strategic waterways in the world be internationalized and governed by committees composed of representatives of all countries politically or economically interested.

The scheme provides guaranteeing exit from the Black sea by including certain Dodecanese and other islands and even Crete in the Dardanelles control board.

The Russians' demand to take part in conversations going on in Paris concerning the future of Tangier, key point in the strait of Gibralter, is said to reveal their determination to safeguard the western outlet of the Mediterranean into the Atlantic.

Suez Seen in Next Move

I learned today the Kremlin's next move is for a voice in operations of the Suez canal to insure egress into the Red sea, Persian gulf, and Indian ocean, which will be followed by proposals that the Bering strait and Panama canal be included among sea routes administered by commissions composed of nations possessing special interest.

The British Broadcasting corporation's announcement last night that Russia formally requested Britain and France to invite a soviet delegate to attend the Paris conference on the future status of Tangier is keeping the diplomatic corps glued to radios here listening for further developments. The Arabs, especially, are speculating about the soviet interest in Tangier.

Paul H. Alling, newly arrived American charge d'affaires, asserted he has received no official confirmation of the Russian move, but said Washington already has envisaged the possibility that the soviets desire a voice in the regime.

Suez Control an Issue

The British and French were tight lipped over prospects of Russian intrusion in control of the Suez canal. London has consistently barred the Persian gulf area to all outsiders and has been a constant opponent of the spread of Russian influence in Iran [Persia] southward from the Black sea. England it is said, has secured American support thru a pooling of certain oil interests in Iran with United States petroleum interests.

It is said Russia will seek agreement with the United States on the Bering strait between Kamchatka and Alaska because polar air travel is expected to develop this waterway connection of the Alcan highway and a projected railway on the Asiatic side.

The soviets' interest in the Panama canal is expected to be enhanced after the Japanese war by their requisition of Port Arthur, former terminus of the trans-Siberian railway and by the issue of trusteeship over certain Nipponese Pacific islands and mandates.

The Kremlin, it is said, expects internationalization of the Suez canal would make the United States ashamed to hang on to the Panama canal, privately and selfishly.

25 GIs HURT IN FRENCH WRECK THAT KILLED 12

PARIS, July 3 (AP)—At least 12 American soldiers were killed and 25 to 30 were injured when their train hit a freight train halted on the tracks near Nancy shortly after midnight Saturday, headquarters of the military railway service of the European theater said today. The soldiers were returning from a Riviera holiday on a train from Nice to Aachen, Germany.

Both trains were operated by the French.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

One of the old mules at the Wheaton farm forced into retirement by mechanization.

July 3, 1945

VERY little corn around the country will make the traditional knee high growth usually associated with the Fourth of July. The wet spring delayed planting, and most corn is only about 6 or 7 inches tall.

Some of the corn at the Fox river farm will be knee high, but most of the grain at the Wheaton farm falls far short of the mark. With the fast maturing hybrids generally planted now the grain should be better than knee high in a normal season. Farmers often have corn waist high on the Fourth when they are able to plant it May 20.

Lazy Days for Teams

A tour of the Wheaton farm on a normal work day reveals how completely mechanization has taken place. The work horses graze peacefully in their pastures with scarcely a harness mark on them. The mules doze contentedly in the sunshine and seldom work more than a few days a month. During corn planting they pulled the wagon carrying the sacks of seed and fertilizer, but had little else to do with getting in the crop.

Before very long the draft animals will be more of a curiosity than anything else at the farm. Tractors and other pieces of farm equipment have been developed to such a high degree that they can handle nearly all farm jobs under almost all conditions. The men find it much easier to whirl the crank or touch the starter button on a tractor than to harness a team of horses and mules.

Tractors Increase Leisure

The University of Illinois, thru closely kept cost accounting records, estimates that it costs approximately 63 cents an hour to run a two plow standard tractor, or about $383 a year.

A horse costs only about 9½ cents an hour to work and has a yearly upkeep cost of $62.34. Strangely, records reveal that almost as many months of man labor were used in a year on farms operated with both tractors and horses as on farms of the same size and with the same amount of live stock that are operated only with horses.

The secret of the tractor's value lies in the ability of the individual farmer to utilize the leisure time it gives him to increase crop and live stock production. The university study showed that most farmers failed to take advantage of this opportunity to increase their income.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE novice gardener usually considers cauliflower a difficult vegetable to produce, but in northern Illinois it is fairly easy to raise an excellent crop of cauliflower by planting seeds in the open row between July 5 and 20. For a single planting, July 15 is the best date, but a preferable method is to make small plantings every few days between July 5 and 20.

If the topsoil is dry, the planting furrow should be thoroly moistened, as described yesterday in this space. Snowball variety has been used for July planting in the sample garden of the Wheaton farm. Seeds should be planted 1½ to 2 inches deep and, after germination, the seedlings should be thinned to stand 18 inches apart in the row. Arsenate of lead spray or rotenone dust will protect the leaves from cabbage worms. When the head is about 2 inches in diameter the leaves must be tied or broken over the head for the blanching process. The plants withstand light autumn frosts.

VICHY POLICE CHIEF FLOWN TO PARIS FOR TRIAL AS TRAITOR

PARIS, July 3 [Reuters]—Joseph Darnand, Vichy chief of police, has been flown here from Nice with his mistress and is now in Fresnes prison awaiting trial for treason. His arrival was secret. He was taken, handcuffed, from the airport outside Paris to Fresnes by car.

"I hope my judges will understand and appreciate my sincerity," Darnand said on arrival. "I acted as I did for a political ideal."

Darnand before the war was an important member of the fascist Cagoulards [hooded men] organization. After the French armistice of 1940 he was a close friend of Pierre Laval and formed the French militia to work with the German gestapo in seeking out members of the Maquis and other French patriots.

Fined $100 for Violating OPA Prices on Turkeys

Federal Judge Luther M. Swygert in Hammond, Ind., yesterday fined Lulu Jablonski, route 30, Lake county, Ind., $100 for charging more than office of price administration ceiling prices for 1,180 pounds of turkey which she sold last fall to Maurice Udolph, operator of the meat market at 7308 Rogers av.

MORE CARNEGIE EMPLOYES IDLE IN STRIKE OF 28

As the 201st work stoppage of the war in Chicago area plants of the 201 Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation completed its fourth day yesterday, an additional 120 employes in the No. 2 blooming mill were out of work for lack of material caused by the strike.

In the No. 3 Bessemer shop, where 28 striking motor maintenance employes are keeping 202 other employes either idle or away from their usual jobs, a total of 12,000 tons of steel had been lost by yesterday afternoon.

If the strike continues all day today, a heavy rail mill and three billet docks will be closed for lack of steel and a total of 1,244 men will be idle because of the strike of 28. The men are discontent with company disposition of the maintenance crew of the three shifts. United States Steel Workers officials [CIO] said the strike was unauthorized.

45TH INFANTRY GETS ORDERS TO RETURN HOME

PARIS, July 3 (AP)—The veteran 45th [Thunderbird] infantry division received orders today from supreme allied headquarters for redeployment home to the United States.

The giant communications zone redeployment center at Reims started its second month of operations today with 134,000 in the course of processing.

Headquarters said the moving of men home would be speeded thru the port of Antwerp on converted Liberty and Victory ships at the rate of 1,500 men daily starting today. The rate will be stepped up to 3,000 a day by Aug. 1. The Victory vessels will carry 1,725 men and the Libertys 550 each.

Here's Divisions' Status

The redeployment box score:

95th infantry — 379th regiment home, rest now nearing United States.

104th infantry—Newly arrived in the United States.

Eighth infantry—To complete loading today at Le Havre.

87th infantry—Now loading and expected to clear port July 7.

Fourth infantry — Advance party home, rest of division to complete loading today.

Second infantry — Processing for shipment later this month.

Fifth infantry — Advance unit sailed from Le Havre June 28, rest of division expected to sail later this month.

44th infantry — Three shiploads shuttled to United Kingdom for immediate shipment home, rest of division to clear Le Havre July 7.

13th armored—Advance units left June 30, rest of division processing for July shipment.

30th Infantry on Move

30th infantry—Scheduled to arrive at assembly command area July 10 on way home.

28th infantry — Movement order temporarily suspended.

45th infantry—Alerted for redeployment and scheduled to arrive in assembly area July 5.

The 45th is one of the oldest divisions in the European theater. It participated in the invasion landings in Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, and southern France.

GOEBBELS' BODY UNMISTAKABLY IDENTIFIED: REDS

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)

The Moscow radio said yesterday that the body of Paul Joseph Goebbels, former Nazi propaganda minister, has been "unmistakably identified" and photographed.

The German language broadcast said the body had been carried from an air raid shelter under the reichschancellery in Berlin by Nazi SS troopers the night of May 1 and that they had attempted to burn it. The body did not burn, the broadcast said, adding that Goebbels had "remained in such a state of preservation that he could be unmistakably identified."

Now all eyes are on the Route to Tokyo

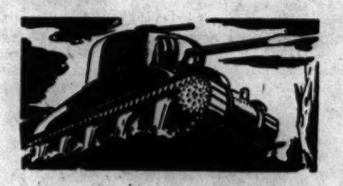
Part of the war is over.

Now all the emphasis of war lies along the Route to Tokyo.

There are still boys in bomb bays we all want to see back at their jobs.



There are still young fellows steering tanks and landing craft who ought to be back steering family cars.

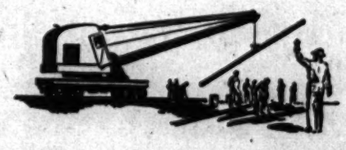
There are still fellows hunting Japs in jungles who ought to be hunting rabbits on the "south forty."

These men can't get back until they get the stuff to fight with—and plenty of it.

That's where Santa Fe comes in.

Like the branches of a river flowing into the main stream, guns, tanks, food, plane parts and other material of war are flowing along the "Route to Tokyo" on Santa Fe rails.

Movement of these vital war supplies is facilitated by—



Greatly increased yards—More than doubled at many points. More trains of war can get in and out in less time.

50 per cent more trains on the same tracks are now made possible by centralized traffic control at key points, which avoids trains being held on sidings.

More power—in the form of giant 5400 horsepower freight Diesels. Santa Fe now has 71 of them—and more are coming!

New bridge speeds war traffic. The new Topock bridge over the Colorado River is speeding up movements of freight and troops to California's Ports of War.

When Victory is won and the boys come home, these facilities will help provide better passenger service than ever; and will haul more peacetime freight even more efficiently than before.

45 CHICAGOLAND MEN NAMED IN CASUALTY LIST

Army, Navy Dead and Wounded Reported

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—The office of war information today made public a new casualty list, which contains the names of 45 men from Chicago and vicinity. The list includes navy men killed, wounded, missing, and safe, and army men killed in the European and Pacific regions and wounded and missing in the Pacific.

The next of kin have been kept informed of any changes in the status of casualties since this report was compiled, the OWI said.

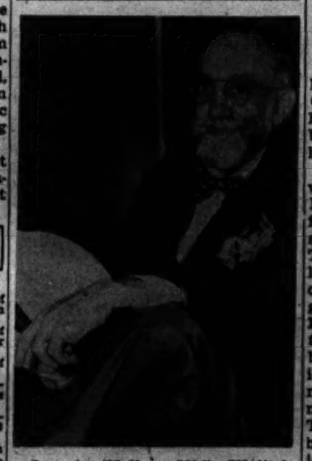
Just a Fan



Joseph (Yellow Kid) Weil in Superior court yesterday to attend hearing of injunction case against his brother. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Judge John A. Lupe in Superior court yesterday extracted a promise from Ike Weil, a Municipal court bailiff for 15 years, to refrain from molesting Mrs. Elsie Accomando, 31, of 3317 Palmer st., mother of three children, or her attorney, Abe Drucker.

Mrs. Accomando had sought an injunction against Weil, whom she has charged, with Fred Roth, her landlord, with conspiring to oust her from her apartment. She also has a suit pending against the two for $50,000 damages for malicious prosecution.

Ike's brother, Joseph [Yellow Kid] Weil, resplendent in a new suit and a new beard, also was in court with Ike. Asked if he was a character witness, the Yellow Kid replied:

"No, I'm just a character. And an old court fan."

FOUR CHICAGO YANKS REST IN IRAN CEMETERY

TEHRAN, Iran [By mail]—Two hundred and sixty-nine Persian Gulf Command soldiers who gave their lives for America lie buried in the United States military cemetery here.

Their resting place is a plot on a wooded knoll at Amirabad post, PGC headquarters, where the foothills of the Elburz mountains slope toward the plain and Tehran. They lie in rows in a stone walled, landscaped cemetery that is given constant care. Headstones mark all graves. Until last November, the PGCs dead were buried in 11 cemeteries in Iran and Iraq. Then the bodies were moved here from American or British cemeteries at Khorramshahr, Ahwaz, Bushire, Andimeshk, Hamadan, Abadan, Arak, and Tehran, Iran, and Basra and Habbaniyia, Iraq. War department policy calls for eventual removal of the bodies to the United States.

The Chicagoans resting the cemetery are Pvt. William Akers, 2801 S. Michigan av.; T/4 Charles H. Martin, 1000 Armitage av.; Pvt. Frank S. Peres, 2740 N. Francisco av., and Pvt. Joseph B. Potocki, 4315 Wood st.

NAZI TERROR IN PRISON CAMP TOLD AT TRIAL

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—A rule of nazi terror in a German prisoner of war camp in Scotland by young fanatics was described to a British military court today in the trial of eight German noncommissioned officers charged with murdering a non-Nazi.

Witnesses said Sgt. Wolfgang Rosterg was beaten to death and his body hanged last Dec. 23 when he refused to commit suicide to save his "honor" after declaring he was not a Nazi.

One witness said that when he attempted to save Rosterg he himself was suspected, and was forced to watch the hanging procession. Another witness said Rosterg was beaten, kicked, choked, and stamped upon, and his body dragged 60 feet thru mud.

Japs Told to Get Ready to Eat Mulberry Leaves

San Francisco, Cal., July 3 (AP)—Japanese domestic news broadcasts today included an announcement that staple food rations would be cut to solve shortages, and another that tests had shown that excellent starch would be made from potato vines and mulberry leaves.

GEN. TERRY ALLEN AND FAMED TIMBERWOLF DIVISION BACK IN U. S.

New York, July 3 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Terry Allen returned to the United States today—with 6,493 men of his 104th [Timberwolf] division on the transport Monterey.

The division will fight in the Pacific theater.

Two other ships debarked an additional 717 troops, including the Liberty ship Samuel Adams with 362 members of the 450th quartermaster gasoline supply company and the 63d and 65th quartermaster trucking companies, and the transport Lucretia B. Mott with 355 service men.

Civilians Sail for Europe

Boston, Mass., July 3 (AP)—The liner Mariposa, recently used as a troop transport, sails this evening for France with approximately 377 passengers, including a number of women, aboard in the first big civilian exodus from Boston since the war began.

Contrary to rumor, shipping agents said that there were no wives of overseas service men listed to sail.

U. S. Judge Enters Writs Against 3 Slaughterers

Permanent injunctions were entered yesterday by Judge William J. Campbell in United States District court against three slaughterers charged by the Chicago area OPA with engaging in the slaughtering business without permits, keeping inadequate records, failure to grade beef and veal, and buying or selling meat without transferring ration points. They were William J. Mertes of Pistakee Bay, McHenry county, Harry Korson of Montgomery, Kane county, and John Gazdik of Huntley, McHenry county.

MASS TO BE SAID ON TUESDAY FOR CAPT. J. A. KING

REQUIEM high mass for Capt. James A King, railroad transportation corps, who died June 24 of injuries received in Germany, will be celebrated at 11 a. m. Tuesday in St. Catherine of Sienna church, Oak Park. Capt. King, a resident of Harvard, McHenry county, was an employe of the Chicago and North Western railroad 25 years. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Mary Olbrich and Agnes and Margaret King, all of 11 Randolph st., Oak Park.

THADDEUS J. CHRUSCIEL, 22, a radoman 3d class in the navy, was killed in action April 16 when his destroyer was sunk in the Okinawa campaign, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chrusciel, of 1536 N. Washtenaw av., have been informed. He had been in the navy two and a half years. Memorial services will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. John Cantius church, Carpenter and Chicago avs.

LT. PAUL WOOD JR., 22 a fighter plane pilot who was reported missing in action June 29, 1944, over Germany, is now considered as having died in action, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Wood, 205 S. 4th st., Libertyville, have been notified. He had completed more than 200 combat hours and was credited with destroying four German planes. He was a former University of Illinois student. He also leaves three sisters and a brother.

Sweden Quits Censoring Press Cables, Phones

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 3 (AP)—Press censorship in Sweden of cables and telephone calls has ended with the lapsing of a special war time law on press control.

Edison Employes' Bomber Christened with Bulb

A B-29 bomber sponsored by Commonwealth Edison company employes as part of their 7th war loan campaign was christened yesterday at Chicago airport. While company and loan officials looked on, Shirley Benson of the company's statistical research department smashed a 1,000 watt lamp bulb on the plane and named it "Chicago Edisonnaire." Exceeding their quota, Edison employes rolled up a total investment in bonds of $1,138,041.

WE HOLD THESE TRUTHS TO BE SELF-EVIDENT

We celebrate today the anniversary of the most important political event in the history of the modern world. We do so by reading again one of the most stirring documents ever written, the statement of why we declared our independence and of what we meant to do with it when it was won.

There are very few Americans who will say that all the possibilities for good that were opened to us when independence was achieved have been realized. We have not done all the things that we might have done nor have we failed to do all the things we should not have done. Nevertheless, the record is one of which we can be and are intensely proud. If in all our daily relationships Americans do not invariably act on the principle that all men are created equal and if we do not always remember that all our fellow citizens have an unalienable right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness we can say, at least, that we have gone farther in these directions than any other nation has ever gone before.

In pursuit of these revolutionary doctrines we did free the slaves. We did safeguard the liberty of the people to publish, to organize for political action, to worship as each of them saw fit. We did protect the people from persecution by the government thru trumpedup criminal accusations. We did safeguard men's right to security in their persons and possessions. All of these rights of freemen to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness have been ours almost from the beginning.

They have made us a free people. Travelers from the old world have always noted and still note that Americans carry themselves as free men. Here there is no hereditary aristocracy to be approached with humility. Here there are no lower classes which feel themselves bound to pay respect to self-anointed superiors. We give no encouragement to either the haughty or the servile.

Insofar as these wholesome attitudes are found in other lands, the people there owe their good fortune to the wisdom and faith of our forefathers when they founded a better society than the world had ever seen on better principles than the world believed could be made the basis of a nation's life. We led the way and still lead.

In an era like this one in which Americans are inclined to speak disparagingly of their own achievements, past and present, there is little danger that we shall praise our principles of government overmuch and great danger that we shall come to think that what has been done here could have been done equally under any form of government, founded upon any set of principles or none at all.

Accordingly, we hope every citizen will take the time today to reread the Declaration and reflect upon it. Thanks to its principles and the liberty to carry them out that came to us with the achievement of independence, we who were once one of the smallest and weakest of nations, have become the greatest and strongest. Our growing strength has never been used for oppression of other peoples. Those who are eager to place our nation in the new league of nations assure us that their plan takes from us no particle of our independence. Only on those terms can the American people think of accepting membership in the new organization.

JOBS AND POLITICS

Man Power Commissioner Paul McNutt remarked a while ago that it would be a fine thing for the government to keep control of the labor market thru its employment referral system after the war. The senate has just answered that one by voting to require the government to return jurisdiction over the United States employment service to the states within 90 days after the end of the war.

The man power commission's handling of labor procurement and job placement was so inefficient that it was one of the pretexts for the unsuccessful campaign to put over the slave labor bill on the country. His record of dropping every fly ball batted toward him, however, did not deter Mr. McNutt from arguing the virtues of a permanent man power commission.

The design behind this and the so-called full employment bill to provide the "60 million jobs" first created in campaign talk was to take another whack at establishing a totalitarian system in the United States. If a man's livelihood depended upon government dispensation, he would be pretty securely tied down and in no position to protest anything else the government wanted to do.

But there is reason to think that the bureaucrats themselves had some doubt that the 60 million job Utopia was going to materialize. In Enid, Okla., when a motor company tried to attract essential transportation workers by advertising an offer of "permanent jobs with excellent post-war future," the war man power commission wouldn't let the firm put the advertisement in the newspaper until it had deleted the phrase.

Ninety miles away in Oklahoma City, however, the local WMC agency was more confident. It permitted another motor sales agency to run a similar advertisment using exactly the same phraseology.

Whether this proves anything more than the confusion of the burocrats can't be said for certain, but it does demonstrate that once a federal agency is turned loose it will start sticking its nose into things which are none of its business. Mr. McNutt was hopeful that this would be the permanent order of affairs. The senate had better sense.

THE CRITERION

The most novel justification offered when the legislature voted itself a pay raise of $500 a year came from Sen. Libonati. The assembly's feat of voting appropriations of three-quarters of a billion dollars, he said, should give the legislators the salary status of corporation executives.

It would seem that the house of representatives in Washington, which recently granted itself a tax free boost of $2,500 a year for expenses, was moved by the same logic, altho the members did not see the reason quite as clearly as Sen. Libonati. Congress is voting appropriations of about 90 billion for the coming fiscal year, which should, by Mr. Libonati's reasoning, merit a bit larger salary increase than a lawmaker in Illinois might be entitled to.

When this rule of the relation of legislators' salaries to the appropriations they vote is mathematically established, we can expect to be represented by a congress and a legislature of millionaires. The taxpayer will only wonder how much quicker the establishment of that doubtless desirable condition will achieve bankruptcy.

FIRST RETURNS FROM THE POLISH ELECTION

Some day, perhaps, something that will be called an election will be held in Poland under Red army auspices and if so, the outcome will never be in doubt. Meanwhile, however, a real election is taking place in which about 400,000 Polish votes have already been cast. It is not the formal referendum promised at Yalta but something far more honest and meaningful. An Associated Press dispatch from Wiesbaden, Germany, the other day said:

"Military government authorities estimated today that more than 450,000 persons brought into the reich to work for the German war machine would remain in the United States zone of occupation. . . . Lt. Col. Joseph K. Carson, former mayor of Portland, Ore., said that these included some 350,000 Poles who expect to remain in the American zone at least for the time being. None displays any haste to get back to his former home, and many seem intent on remaining in Germany. Under a policy adopted by military government authorities, there will be no forcible repatriation of displaced persons."

Consider the implications of that dispatch. These Poles have been separated from their homes and their families for years, during which they have lived a life of degradation. Germany is a defeated nation, destined to suffer years of deprivation. It will be hard to earn a living in Germany and the lot of the outlander there is going to be hardest of all. Nevertheless, these Poles, knowing all this, prefer the lesser misery of remaining in Germany to the greater one of returning to their fatherland under Russian rule. Their votes will never be counted in a Polish election but they have been cast.

Here is another recent Associated Press dispatch, this one from Munich. It says:

"Shifting of occupation zones which gave the Russians a portion of Thuringia has sent 65,000 Poles fleeing into American occupied Bavaria, Maj. Gen. Elmer Dahlel revealed today. The Polish-Russian situation has given American military government authorities more or less of a permanent problem, he asserted. Few Poles desire to return to Poland, he said, as long as the Russians occupy the country."

There are another 65,000 votes. A somewhat similar referendum, tho this one did not concern Poles, was held in this country at Fort Dix, N. J., last week. A group of about 150 Russians, who had fought in the German army and had been captured by our forces, were about to be put aboard ship for return to their homeland. Three of them hanged themselves and the rest engaged in a demonstration of protest against deportation that turned into a riot. Such was their eagerness to return to the soviet Utopia.

The stories of these miserable men have not been revealed in detail, but a guess can safely be ventured. The chances are that a good many of them are Ukrainians, for it is known that the German armies which invaded the Ukraine were greeted as liberators and many Ukrainians seized the opportunity to join in a war against the Moscow oppressors. In Stalin's eyes, of course, these prisoners are traitors and if they are sent back, they will undoubtedly be treated accordingly. Perhaps they deserve nothing better. The law is surely against them.

Americans, reading of these events, are necessarily puzzled. They cannot imagine circumstances which would lead Americans to enlist in an army invading this country as the Ukrainians enlisted in the German army. They cannot imagine circumstances which would persuade Americans, long held prisoners in a foreign land, to remain there as the Poles are remaining in Germany. If Americans cannot imagine what is passing thru the minds of the Ukrainians and the Poles, it is only because few Americans have any true appreciation of the hideous oppression and brutality that characterize the Russian government. Not many Americans are aware that Stalin regularly holds at least 10,000,000 of his own countrymen in concentration camps. How many hundreds of thousands he has put to death may never be known.

AND THE BOSTON HERALD

We said the other day that there were only two morning newspapers in the country, the Los Angeles Times and the Omaha World-Herald, in addition to THE TRIBUNE, which gave their readers the text of the San Francisco charter as soon as it became available. We should have added a third, the Boston Herald, whose achievement, the Herald reminds us, was the more remarkable in view of the fact that it is published in the eastern time zone. We were misinformed. We're sorry about that and glad to acknowledge the Herald's claim to its full share of the glory.

We guess it's true, about cows being contented. Nothing is eating them, as far as we know.—The Detroit News.

FIRECRACKER DAY

This column's Fourth of July reverie will hover lightly over the subject of firecrackers as a means of celebration by the mentally immature. In spite of reformers and lawmakers, their use to punctuate the Declaration of Independence persists, especially on the outskirts of cities and in untamed rural regions. Their explosions have rocked our ivory tower and caused our dog to hide under beds since last Saturday night. How and when did these blamed things become attached to the traditions of the birthday of the Republic?

* * *

We glance at a few books that should contain the answer, but fail to find it. Fourth of July firecrackers are a part of American folklore, but the experts in that field have confined their attention to dull and long-winded stories about Paul Bunyan, Mike Fink, Johnny Appleseed, and Casey Jones—characters of dubious origin and slight importance in the national life. Ourself, when young, never heard of these fabulous creatures, but we knew that firecrackers came from China to increase the American boy's capacity for worrying his parents and annoying the neighbors. Our devotion to them from July 1 until July 5 was passionate, and when the ammunition was exhausted we sank into that low state of mind which often follows the signing of a peace treaty.

* * *

Perhaps the Chinese, shortly after their invention of gunpowder, discovered that firecrackers were excellent for holiday purposes. They amused the populace and also frightened away the devils that always try to blight auspicious occasions. Perhaps their abundant use in this country began when the clipper ships of New England ports went into the China trade in a large way.

* * *

You will not find anything about firecrackers for holiday-making in European literature. About fireworks and the ceremonial art of pyrotechnics for nocturnal exhibition, yes; that has been going on since the 17th century to celebrate victories, kings' birthdays, etc. But the ornery firecracker, so dear to the heart of the American street urchin and village loafer, has never disturbed the peace of Europe. That continent has always preferred shooting in earnest.

OUR COUNTRY

All praise to thee, our Country,
Begotten by our sires,
Where men can worship as they will
By freedom's altar fires.
Where tyrants cannot flaunt their pride
Or thwart a people's will;
Where right and liberty are law,
And God is Sovereign still.

Our prayers for thee, our Country,
Our hopes for years to be!
May all the dreams our fathers held
Abide, from sea to sea.
They dreamed that greed and lust for power
Should find no haven here,
That justice, truth, and righteousness
Be evermore held dear.

To thee, beloved Country,
We give our hearts and hands
To grant the boon of liberty
Unto earth's darkened lands.
Thruout the world, in every realm,
May war and conflict cease.
Our Country, lead the waiting world
To brotherhood and peace.

Thomas Curtis Clark

Fourth of July in the 1880s

The old style Fourth of July began unofficially several days earlier, so when it really arrived we were usually out of torpedoes and firecrackers, and clamorous for more.

Indiana av. from 16th to 18th sts. was like a New England village, with great cottonwoods and elms arching overhead and making wonderful backgrounds for pinwheels, especially after dark.

My uncle, who lived next door, always had a large supply of fireworks, but on one occasion he needed more and decided to drive downtown to get them. He took the buggy and Little Mose, a young and lively horse.

After filling the back of the buggy he started home and had trouble holding in Little Mose, who seemed to be excited by explosions along the way. When he drove into the barn he discovered that his own fireworks had been going off! The back of the buggy was wrecked. No wonder Little Mose objected.

ONE STAR TO LOOK AT

These I would ask: A house upon a hill,
Where all the gentle winds can come and play;
A climbing rose; a lonely whippoorwill
To share my solitude at close of day;
One star to look at in the quiet night,
And think about, and maybe call my own;
A winding road that wanders out of sight,
And if I stray, will always guide me home;
The right to choose whatever simple prayer
My lips would say—and ah, there will be these:
Within a corner of my heart, somewhere,
A few well-wept, well-laughed-at memories.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 E. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

E. L. F. asks: "Is there any way a man with a minor physical handicap can get into the United States maritime service? I was rejected once by the Chicago enrolling office but would like to obtain a waiver on my physical condition if possible."

There is a definite possibility that your physical handicap will be waived if it is of a minor nature. The maritime service has an urgent need for men for ship's company duty. If you are not acceptable for sea duty, you still may be able to qualify for ship's company duty and be assigned to permanent duty at a base in an office or on a training ship. Return to the enrolling office, 844 Rush st. and apply for ship's company duty.

Mrs. G. H. asks: "May an army officer be released from service because of hardship in his home?"

For an officer to obtain a release from service because of hardship, he must prove that the hardship is not merely temporary, that the condition has arisen or been aggravated since he went on active duty, that no reasonable means of alleviating the condition exists other than his release, and that upon release he will be able to eliminate or materially relieve the condition. The officer's application must be accompanied by documentary evidence or affidavits. All applications must originate with the officer, and any application made in his behalf will be referred to him.

UNPASTEURIZED MILK AND UNDULANT FEVER

UNDULANT FEVER has been known for more than half a century and is an excellent example of a disease which is transmitted to man by his barnyard companions—goats, cows, and pigs. The disorder attacks these animals in a slightly different form than is noted in humans and the problem is of considerable importance to veterinarians.

At one time the infection was called "Malta fever" because it was first described on that island by David Bruce. Now the malady is termed "brucellosis" after the discoverer. The Brucella group of bacteria are responsible and scientists have been able to segregate these into separate strains. Brucella abortus is the bovine type and we refer to contagious abortions in cattle as "Bang's disease." As a rule the organisms are spread to humans thru milk, cream, butter, and cheese.

The hog variety is seen more commonly in those who handle meat—slaughterhouse workers and butchers. Veterinarians may be infected thru direct contact with sick animals.

The condition manifests itself in several ways. Some victims are hardly indisposed and others are extremely ill for weeks. Fatal cases are rare. The microbes begin to react about two weeks after inoculation. Without warning, the temperature rises. Within three to five days, it reaches 103 to 105 degrees F. The most remarkable feature of the situation is that the patient appears comfortable even tho the thermometer reading is high. After 10 to 20 days the level drops quickly to normal.

The afflicted individual hardly has an opportunity to congratulate himself on recovery when the process is repeated. Such episodes may be experienced over and over again. Listlessness often prevails and a hopeless attitude may be assumed, with the sufferer resigned to his fate. The tongue may be coated and the appetite decreased. Almost 40 per cent of the victims develop arthritis. In women, the breast tissue may be involved and, altho spontaneous abortions may occur, they are less frequent than in animals.

In the chronic stage, fatigue, loss of appetite and weight, fever, and body aching ensue. The symptoms may be mistaken for rheumatism, neuralgia, or neuroses. Altho the subject may be able to continue his activities, he feels distinctly below par.

A study of the blood will assist in making the diagnosis. Skin tests also give a clew, but they must be interpreted properly. A positive reaction does not always mean that the germs are to blame for present discomfort. It merely indicates that at one time during the patient's life he harbored the microbes.

Thru the pasteurization of milk the ailment is kept largely in check. Those who drink raw cow or goat milk stand a chance of infection unless assured that the animals are safe. Vacationers should keep this in mind.

In treatment, vaccines, the sulfonamides, arsenicals, and fever therapy have all been tried, with varying degrees of success. Penicillin has had no effect. In general, we must rely upon Mother Nature for cure.

DARKENED TONGUE

Correspondence Resumed

Remember those relatively calm, beautiful years between the two great wars when part of the hope of cementing international good will rested on the tortured experiments in foreign languages of high school students of the various countries of the world?

Perhaps you have forgotten them, but if you were an American girl studying German, you exchanged letters and pictures with a German boy. You wrote in fumbling, wrenched German, and he wrote in equally execrable English. Or, more commonly, since the study of German was on the wane in this country, you studied French and exchanged letters with a French student of English. Whenever the replies in woeful English reached you, you took them to school and read them to your class, and every one had a wonderful time laughing at the amusing grammatical sequences. You knew all along that some class in France or Germany was having just as much fun at your expense, but you tried to forget that and demonstrate that if you didn't know French you at least knew English, for you always concluded your letter in as fluent English as you could command. All in all, tho, you cherished the letters and pictures very much and in the back of your mind always entertained a deep warmth for that distant stranger whom you knew so well, and whom, since you both wrote of it, you hoped one day to meet.

When one Chicago girl, now the wife of a naval lieutenant and the mother of a baby, was in high school, she corresponded with a French boy, naturally one named Jean. Back in 1939 or in 1940 he wrote that they were "arming and waiting." Last week came the first word since the war. It probably epitomizes as well as anything what happened to that whole generation of young French boys who in 1939 were writing, as had their older brothers, to young girls who, as suddenly and tragically as they, were in the next few years to find the whole lovely world of trust and friendship crumble around their heads.

The letter:

"Perhaps have you me forgotten? I am your old French friend. Already five years of silence, five years during Europe was in the nazi night. Ours latest letter dates of June, 1940. Since this time we have very much suffered. Hunger, vexations, misery were our daily fact. At June, '43, I must to Germany as slave-worker. No means to escape. If I don't go, my brother must for me.

"I stayed two years in Cologne. That was a narrow shave that I surlive. I saw many, many bombardment, phosphor, airbombs, heavy bombs. There was terrible. Once my barrack was burned. I have lost nearly all my clothes. Nazis saw we as beast work always work. Eating was very bad. Germany was the soup's land for the foreigners of all Europe. Down yonder, I learnt German language, but I have forgotten my English.

"The 13th April I was delivered by U. S.'s soldiers after a light battle. Can you think my joy? In this time I was in a little town [20 miles east of Cologne]. I was alone of Frenchies to understand a little English. I was glad to speak with my old friend. Together we have visited the Nazi's celler, danced with Russian's girls, and for the first once since long time good eaten. After three weeks we were going to home. I was so glad Paris to see again. I cannot describe how glad was my family.

"I have two months holiday and then I work again in Post or I shall be soldier. I am now Post official. Conditions of living in France are mediocre, little foods, little clothes, and very much damages.

"I hope you have not forgotten our French and you can understand. I shall continue in French as I fear that my English may amuse you.

"I hope that your health is always good and that you became a journalist. [She did.] Perhaps you have a brother who is a soldier in Europe. If so, write him to come visit me in Paris. In the hope of hearing from you soon, my best wishes. . . . Jean."

OUR EVANESCENT ALLIES

Philadelphia, Pa., June 27—Can you tell your readers why the American press as well as politicians have avoided the subject of the extent of participation by our so-called "allies" in the Japanese war? American casualties are about equal to those of the British empire; yet our population is less than one-fourth that of the empire. Yes, we know there are many Indians included in the latter's population; but we also know that Canada is sending merely a handful of volunteers to the far east.

The French empire, with a population of around 100 million, has incurred insignificant casualties compared with ours. No Frenchman is being compelled to go to the Pacific; only a handful of volunteers will be sent. Are American boys supposed to die in order to hand Indo-China back to the French? The Belgians are sending none to the Pacific; yet we saved the Belgian empire, which includes a vast territory in Africa. The Dutch are sending few; yet, they have much at stake in the far east. South Africa has already announced nobody will be sent to the Pacific.

And what about Russia? Some time back, the Russian government and press were imploring the western allies to "keep their commitments fully and on time" on the western front. Is any American imploring Russia to do likewise in the far east? Are only American boys to have the privilege of being killed in China and Japan? Seems to me it is time for our government and the American press to request our "allies" to do their full share in the far east, as we did in Europe. Or is it a crime to save the lives of American soldiers?

EARLY TO BED, HUNGRY

RUETTE, Austria, June 14—I'm one of the many fellows from Chicago in the infantry and we thought after we fought thru every mountain range they have over here we'd receive a little freedom after V-day came. Now that it's over, the civilians get to stay out until 9:30 at night, while we have to be in off the streets at 8 o'clock.

They say all the food is coming overseas, and yet, every time we go to chow we come back as hungry as when we went. We only get one slice of bread and sometimes none. We didn't mind at all while we were in combat if we missed meals and marched for days, but now that it's over we think we should receive a little consideration.

PATENT EXTENSIONS JUSTIFIED

Cicero, Ill., June 7—Time lost on items covered by United States patents, production of which has been curtailed by war conditions and restrictions, should be added to the maturity date of such patents. If the patent laws now existent do not provide for such an adjustment, then provisions should be made to meet this situation as a matter of justice to the patentee.

JOHN J. SCHILLER

NONFRATERNIZATION

Chicago, June 27—If Yanks want to try out nonfraternization, they need not go to Germany. They can just start down south where it is not proper to converse inter-racially unless in the dark. Many white people would like to talk to colored, but they are banned by the nonfraternization fetish. Lift the ban on nonfraternization and the races will find out many good things about the other and develop real friendship.

WILLIAM N. JOHNSON

"WAR MONGERS' REUNION"

Delavan, Wis., June 25—The international throbbing hearts desire a speedy ratification of the San Francisco Charter. Is such hasty action desired by the loyal citizens of the United States? Is the San Francisco thing, called a peace charter, to be put over on this country without debate and complete revision or debate and rejection? The phraseology of the document has been purposely made obscure by those individuals who have Russianitis and who plan to involve the United States in endless world snooping and conflict. The charter is a war document with stupendous exercise of military force to police the world. Ostensibly the San Francisco conference was to devise peace plans for the future. In reality it was a war mongers' reunion.

Isn't it time for the loyal citizens of the United States to decide the future of this country? Why this constant concession to Russia and England and European power politics? From the day that Mr. Roosevelt hailed Litvinoff into the White House and, over the protest of our citizens, recognized communistic Russia down to the present messed hour the United States has been the object of communistic sabotage. Stalin is now the world's indispensable man, according to those who have designs on individual liberties.

Unless American citizens are saps, they will not, without protest, permit their senate to rubber stamp this Stalinized document, miscalled a charter of peace.

E. W. S.

A LADY SWEEPS THE ALLEY

Chicago, June 14—I have rented a garage and worked for a trucking company here in Chicago for the last two years. Every day I sweep the alley between Oak and Locust sts. and the street from Hudson av. to Sedgwick st. because it is always full of glass and garbage. I do this twice a day so we can save our tires, which are so hard to get. The garbage men collect the refuse every two to four weeks. I feel sure that the alderman and the mayor and health department could get together and do something about it.

ALICE HUBE

WE ALREADY HAVE ONE

Chicago, June 29—Mrs. Baumgarten, who suggested that the last Sunday in June be designated as Children's day, is apparently unaware that the second Sunday in June has been known as Children's day for quite a number of years. I was first aware of this when we had Children's day programs in Sunday school.

TENANT'S RIGHTS

Chicago, June 20—I live in a four apartment building which was recently sold, the former owner living in the apartment below me. The new owner has served notice demanding my apartment in 30 days. 1. What is my position in regard to a lease dated May 1 and renewed verbally each year by the former owner? 2. Is it binding on the part of the new owner? 3. Also may I demand the former owner's apartment inasmuch as the present owner is demanding my apartment for himself?

H. W. M.

1. He cannot put you out until the end of the renewal year.
2. Yes.
3. This would be the ordinary procedure if you were being put out of the present apartment.

STUDENTS FIGHT 2D FIDDLE ROLE IN PETRILLO ROW

Beat War Drums to Get Action by Congress

BY RITA FITZPATRICK
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Interlochen, Mich., July 3—The kids have declared war on Petrillo. They mean business.

As the result of an assembly in Interlochen bowl, where only harmony has reigned up to now, an avalanche of letters is on its way to Washington today. The letters urge congressmen from 38 states to pass the Vandenberg-Dondero bill, which would give educational organizations the right to broadcast music.

Interlochen musical groups, which have been a regular radio feature for 12 years, were barred from the air in 1942 when James C. Petrillo, czar of the American Federation of Musicians, said, "Music educators are murderers, training musicians to take bread and butter from union musicians."

Want Parents to Hear

"We want our parents back home to hear us," the young music students said today in their letters. "We don't want to take money out of any one's pocket, but we want to be able to broadcast on noncommercial programs. Why are we fighting a war abroad to save democracy if we don't have it here at home?"

The Interlochen matter has been before congress for the last three years. At present the bill is in the house interstate and foreign commerce committee to which it was referred after passing the senate without a dissenting voice Jan. 19. The boys and girls here are demanding that the bill be reported favorably out of the committee.

"If it takes three years to prepare legislation for introduction to congress, there is little hope for the survival of our system of government," Dr. Joseph E. Maddy, president and founder of the national music camp, told the assembly.

Determined to Fight

"But let us fight with every breath we have to overcome tyranny in the home front. On this issue we have behind us the parents, men in the armed services, the National Educational association, the Parent-Teacher association, and the federal communications commission. I doubt if one man, Petrillo, can stop us now."

Dr. Maddy, who has been a member of the musicians' union longer than Petrillo is still waiting for a notice of suspension to come thru. The union's executive committee threatened to take this action against any member who would teach at Interlochen this year. So far all has been silence.

As Dr. Maddy explained the situation to some 1,000 boys and girls, Interlochen bowl resembled a stadium at a football game. Every mention of the name Petrillo brought forth boos or laughter.

Applaud Soldiers' Letters

Applause greeted the reading of letters from service men overseas who expressed disgust at the "fantastic" attitude of Petrillo.

"You can bet the marines would come running if you needed any help," a letter from Corp. A. MacCaughey said. He enclosed a dollar to aid the fight. "Mr. Petrillo and his ideas don't jibe with those of real music lovers. Keep up the fine work. Honest people will always fight for something worthwhile."

"Just a few words of encouragement to you in your little war," a letter from Sgt. Ray Bergholz read. "It's mighty reassuring to know that we still have a couple of scrappers left on the home front."

FEDERAL JUDGE RESIGNS DURING CONGRESS PROBE

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—Attorney General Clark said today Judge Albert W. Johnson of the middle district federal court in Pennsylvania has resigned and President Truman has accepted the resignation.

Clark said the judge gave his age as the reason for retiring from the bench. Johnson is 72.

The "official conduct" of Judge Johnson and of another judge in the same court, Albert L. Watson, has been under investigation since 1944 by a house judiciary subcommittee headed by Rep. Kefauver [D., Tenn.].

The inquiry was authorized by the house on motion of the judiciary committee to determine if either judge had been "guilty of any high crime or misdemeanor" which would "require" impeachment proceedings.

A federal grand jury in Scranton, Pa., recently indicted Judge Johnson's son, Snyder County District Atty. Donald M. Johnson, on conspiracy charges in connection with a receivership suit before his father's court.

5 HOTELS ADMIT OVERCHARGING, TO PAY $5,000

Five Chicago hotels yesterday agreed to pay a total of almost $5,000 damages after admitting in Circuit court they had collected overceiling rents. Consent judgments for injunctions restraining overcharges and for the damages were entered by Judge Elmer Schnackenberg.

The hotels and the damages they will pay are the Devonshire, 19 E. Ohio st., $2,257; the Rienzi, 600 Diversey pkwy., $1,039; the Harmonia, 3000 Indiana av., $880; the Avalon, 243 E. 31st st., $492, and the Princeton, 315 W. 60th st., $277.

In other Circuit court action, consent judgments for damages were entered against six other landlords charged with collecting overceiling rents, and a suit for $5,833 damages, representing overceiling rents from July, 1944, to May, 1945, was filed against the Buena Park hotel, 4145 Broadway. Suits for injunctions and damages also were filed against three landlords.

VETERAN'S AUTO KILLS MAN AS HE QUITS ISLE

Michael Jacheyra, 56, of 3753 S. Hermitage av., was killed last night when he stepped off a safety island in front of 4103 S. Ashland av. into the path of an automobile. The driver was Edward Bushius, 23, of 3841 Lowe av., a former soldier.

An inquest will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow into the death of George Pijanowski, 41, of 3622 Cermak rd., a master mechanic, who died Monday in St. Anthony's hospital.

Police at first indicated a cerebral hemorrhage was responsible, but a preliminary coroner's inquiry suggested injuries suffered in an automobile accident May 2 may have been a factor.

Miss Classie Tyler, 35, Negro, of 3726 Calumet av., died yesterday en route to St. Anthony's hospital, to which she was being taken by police after she was run over by the rear wheels of a gravel truck at Western av. and 35th st.

ORDER WOMAN IN MAIL WOOING TO WASHINGTON

Mrs. C. Mildred Hill, 60, of Washington, D. C., charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud Henry Heslick, 65, of 3711 Panama av., a carpenter in a war plant, waived examination yesterday when arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. He ordered her removed to Washington for trial.

Assistant United States Atty. Jack Arnold Walfeld said that in correspondence with Heslick, Mrs. Hill described herself as an unmarried girl 22 years old, and Heslick sent her railroad fare to come to Chicago to marry him. He complained to postal authorities when she arrived a few days ago with her stepbrother, George Driggers, 60, of Washington. Driggers was questioned and released.

Postal Inspector M. L. Goldsmith said Mrs. Hill obtained about $1,000 by mail from Heslick.

Sgt. Thomas Burke, Hero 10 Times, to Be Retired

Sgt. Thomas J. Burke of South Chicago station, will be retired next Tuesday on his 63d birthday. He has been a policeman 31 years and has won 10 honorable mentions. He and his wife, Mary, live at 6210 Green st. They have a daughter, Mrs. Virginia McKrier, and three sons, Frank, Thomas, and Edward. Edward is a policeman at Morgan Park station. Thomas is also a policeman, but is on military leave. Frank also is in the service.

NEWSMEN TALK TO 'DEAD' MIKE IN UNION 'GAG'

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 3 (AP)—Eight newsmen held a 30 minute radio discussion of developments of the governors' conference here tonight only to learn later they had been talking into a "dead" microphone.

After the eight nationally known correspondents had carried on a round table discussion for 30 minutes, Harry Wismer, special events announcer for the Blue network, learned, he said, that the National Association of Broadcasting Engineers in Chicago had refused to permit the program to go out on the chain because none of its members was present to supervise the mechanical work.

Wismer said two engineers from station WXYZ in Detroit, a Blue affiliate, were on hand, but this did not satisfy the Chicago members of the same union. He said this was the first instance of the sort he had encountered in 11 years of broadcasting.

MISS M'CORMICK ESTATE IN WEST SOLD FOR $115,125

Los Angeles, Cal., July 3 [Special]—Subject to Superior court approval, the million dollar, 26 acre estate of the late Mary Virginia McCormick, Pasadena, has been sold for $115,125, the public administrator's office disclosed today.

The 24 room mansion located on the estate just east of the Huntington hotel was once a show place, but has deteriorated since the death of Miss McCormick on May 24, 1941, officials explained. It included a 14 room guest house, two servants' quarters of eight and 12 rooms each, and a two story 14 car garage.

In selling the property, the public administrator's office said the estate was divided into two parcels of 12 and 14 acres.

Miss McCormick was a daughter of the late Cyrus Hall McCormick Sr., reaper manufacturer.

LONDON, July 3 [Reuters]—James Bolivar Manson, 66, director of London's Tate gallery, Millbank, from 1930 to 1938, died suddenly today at a London studio.

SOLE CUSTODY OF SON WON BY MRS. ASHCRAFT

Judge John A. Lupe in Superior court yesterday ruled that Kent Tarrant, 7, should remain in sole custody of his mother, Mrs. Jean Tarrant Ashcraft, wife of Alan E. Ashcraft Jr., Circuit court master in chancery.

Mrs. Ashcraft had brought suit to upset an agreement under which she gave custody of Kent for 10 months each year to his father, Berrien Tarrant, 43, an insurance executive, from whom she was divorced March 26. She testified that fear of unfavorable publicity impelled her to sign the agreement.

Kent appeared in court but was hurried into the judge's chambers and remained there thruout the court proceedings. He was interviewed by Judge Lupe, who described him as a "100 per cent boy," who preferred to stay with his mother.

"A child's best interests are served by permitting him to remain with his mother," the court said, "especially at the tender age of 7." Judge Lupe, however, took exception to Mrs. Ashcraft's charges that Tarrant was an unfit person.

SALVAGE 126,630 POUNDS OF PAPER AT PLAYGROUNDS

Chicago playgrounds collected 126,630 pounds of waste paper last week in the first period of a summer paper salvage campaign, William H. Bennett, director of the drive, said yesterday.

The yield from the city's playgrounds was cut sharply by the truck drivers' strike. Trucks were available only two days for picking up paper taken to the playgrounds. Bennett predicted a sharp increase in collections this week.

Officials of the drive hoped for a 350 ton weekly collection of paper from city playgrounds, and a like amount from suburban playgrounds, which were organized Monday.

WEATHER MAKES LIFE DIFFICULT FOR CORN BORER

Illinois farmers will be glad to learn that the troublesome European corn borer is having a hard struggle for existence this year.

John H. Bigger, assistant entomologist for the Illinois Natural History survey, Urbana, said yesterday that the weather man has joined with three species of imported flies and wasps to provide serious barriers to the borers' health.

The weather man's contribution to the anti-borer campaign was the series of May rains which delayed corn planting for 10 days to three weeks in the northern two-thirds of the state. The first brood of borers has emerged during the last week, but the late planted corn is too small to attract the insects.

The borers' second headache will come from the three species of wasps and flies which are being released by state entomologists.

MAX BRAUN, 52, WHO OPPOSED HITLER, IS DEAD

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—Max Braun, 52, German Socialist who fled for his life after losing a fight against the nazi plebiscite in the Saar basin in 1935, died today.

Braun and his newspaper led a campaign against the vote, which he charged was "neither free, uninfluenced nor secret." He escaped the nazi vengeance by going to France, where he headed an office for Saar refugees.

The Hitler regime deprived Braun of his German citizenship on March 12, 1936. His life was threatened many times and once he received by mail a bomb that did not explode. Braun, a one-time teacher, was taken on a British destroyer to England when France collapsed in 1940.

U. OF I. ENGAGES ATTORNEY FOR BENNER HEARING

Because there was no precedent for the type of hearing granted by the University of Illinois trustees to Prof. Thomas E. Benner, who is seeking reappointment as dean of the school of education, the executive committee of the board decided yesterday to engage Atty. Thomas L. Marshall of Chicago as special counsel to represent the board and the university.

Divorcee Drowns in Tub; Body Found by Mother

Miss Joan Campbell, 35, of 948 Cuyler av., a divorcee, drowned in about four inches of water in the bathtub of her home yesterday. Her body was found by her mother, Mrs. Lillian Starr. Dr. Ralph J. Ross, 3837 Broadway, the family physician, said he believed Miss Campbell had suffered an attack of colitis and collapsed. Water was found in the lungs by Dr. Thomas Carter, coroner's physician, indicating Miss Campbell had drowned. An inquest will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at 851 Irving Park rd.

HAROLD DENNY, N. Y. TIMES WAR REPORTER, DIES

Des Moines, Ia., July 3 (AP)—Harold Denny, 55, a war correspondent for the New York Times, died of a heart attack today at a hotel where he had been living since last week when he came here to visit his sister, Mrs. Gladys Denny Schultz.

Denny, who only recently returned from Germany where early in the war he was held in a German prison camp, had been scheduled to address a special convocation at Drake university today but the program was canceled late yesterday.

The correspondent was captured by the Germans at Tobruk and was held prisoner seven months until repatriated.

U. S. TAKES FIRST STEP TO RUBBER PLANT SEIZURE

WLB Refers Akron Case to Stabilizer Davis

Akron, O., July 3 (AP)—Government seizure of strike paralyzed Goodyear Tire and Rubber company plants moved a step nearer today as the national war labor board handed the 18 day old stoppage by 16,700 workers to Economic Stabilizer Davis.

That was but one of the developments in this rubber capital on the eve of Independence day.

Sharing the spotlight with the WLB's action were:

1. Notification to the WLB by 16,500 Firestone Tire and Rubber company employes, on strike since Sunday, that they "would not return to work under present conditions," thus defying a back to work order.

Draft Boards Rebel

2. An almost "open rebellion" by Summit county draft boards against instructions to draft men involved in the Goodyear strike.

3. Announcement by four Akron banks that rubber workers, unpaid since the strikes began, cashed war bonds $43,000 in excess of the normal "turn in" rate yesterday.

4. Disclosure by Goodyear that the stoppage at its plants had resulted in the loss of 272,000 tires. Firestone said that its production lines were losing 14,400 tires and 13,500 tubes daily.

Seizure Imminent

Referral of the Goodyear case to Davis was regarded as the first step toward seizure of the plants by the army or navy on orders of President Truman.

An order by National Draft Director Hershey and state draft officials that draft deferments of the Goodyear strikers be canceled and all men between 18 and 37 be called drew fire from the 14 Summit county boards.

J. P. Riddle, attorney and chairman of draft board No. 1, sent a protest to state draft officials today.

Newspaper Strike Parley

New York, July 3 (AP)—The newspaper and mail deliverers' union [independent] continued its strike against New York City newspapers tonight as spokesmen for both sides announced they would appear before the war labor board in Washington tomorrow.

At that time Louis Waldman, attorney for the union, is scheduled to answer a WLB directive that the union show cause why the men have not returned to work as they were directed to do by the WLB yesterday.

A union demand for a welfare fund is the major strike issue. Severance pay, paid holidays, and overtime are other points of dispute.

All metropolitan dailies except PM today confined distribution to sales at their own offices because of the strike, which began last Saturday at midnight.

2,000 Ship Workers Idle

Mobile, Ala., July 3 [Special]—More than 2,000 workers at the Gulf Shipbuilding company, plant building naval vessels and refrigerator ships for the United Fruit company, are idle tonight. At first 500 machinists quit work because of cutbacks in positions and reduction of wages and placing of a nonunion boss over them. Others walked out in sympathy.

TRUMAN ORDERS CUT IN HOURS OF U. S. EMPLOYES

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—President Truman today ordered most government agencies to cut their work week to 44 hours, effective immediately.

His memorandum excluded the war and navy departments, the treasury, the veterans' administration, the Tennessee Valley authority, and the Panama canal, but told them to go on the shorter work week whenever possible.

All other government agencies were ordered to cut four hours from the 48 hour six day week they have maintained thru the war.

"It should be clearly understood that reduction in hours of work are not to constitute a basis for request for additional funds for personnel."

RULES RELAXED TO LET YANKS WED IN REICH

PARIS, July 3 [Reuters]—American military personnel may now marry in Germany, altho they may not marry Germans.

SHAEF's legal branch has drawn up a formula by which a soldier and his bride may sign the necessary documents before a German registrar. The registrar will ask the couple if they desire to marry. Upon giving an affirmative answer, the couple are declared lawful husband and wife.

Many romances with WACs and French and Belgian women had been delayed since American forces entered Germany because GIs had to conform with marriage formalities in the city where they were stationed if their marriage was to be considered valid.

JURY GIVES $40,000 TO ENGINE HOSTLER WHO WAS DEAFENED

Arthur Comstock, 31, of Paris, Edgar county, yesterday was awarded $40,000 damages from the New York Central Railroad company by a jury in Judge Charles A. Williams' Superior court. Comstock's attorney, William Wallace McCallum, told the court his client, an engine hostler, had been permanently deafened Nov. 26, 1944, when a burst of steam from a locomotive he was working on blew sand into both ears.

FINDS HOLLAND'S HEALTH, PRIDE HURT BY WAR

BY HAL FOUST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

THE HAGUE, Holland, July 3—Hans Brincker, a healthy, wholesome, fictional character personifying pre-war Holland youth, has been replaced by youngsters with hollow cheeks who moach "cigarets for papa" from Canadian soldiers. The once haughty Dutch thumb rides on army trucks on super highways crossing the flat lands of canals and windmills.

Much has happened to Holland since the German invasion in 1940 destroyed the nation's hopes of repeating its neutrality of World War I. Railroads and broken bridges at rivers and canals are gathering dust but as depressing are the smiles of the young Dutch wives of the better families who take tea and sandwiches at the British officers' club with the permission of husbands who cannot feed them.

In the cities, which house half of Holland's 9,000,000 population, unemployment is general. Streets are full of the idle. Shop windows are empty. Restaurants are closed. Weeds are growing on deck cracks of barges moored in canals. Factory windows are boarded.

Countrysides in Bloom

In the country sides, windmills are turning. Wooden shoed men are cutting and raking hay. Potato fields abloom are probably prettier to the hungry people than the poppies along the roadside. Cattle chew their cuds in the green, flat meadows.

Coal is needed for industry, for electricity and for city residents to get warm water for bathing. Modern apartment buildings are unheated, and the winds across this flat country are wild and cold. Many Holland miners are not working because they are not getting as much food as they received during the German occupation.

Coal factories need imported raw materials and export markets, both curtailed by war losses and Pacific war demands. Railways, even where tracks and bridges have been repaired, lack cars and locomotives. Many were taken to Germany or destroyed in air raids. Of 45,000 trucks in the Netherlands, before the war only 7,000 remain.

On the farms milk production is 50 per cent of the 1939 rate and grain, potato, and sugar beet harvests are estimated for 1945 to be 35 to 40 per cent below the pre-war level. Farmers lack plows, harrows, and moving machine tractors, horses, and fertilizers.

480,000 Acres Lost

Another loss to food production was caused by war time inundation of 480,000 acres by dike breaks and by crippling of the hydraulic system that pumps this country's rain water into the ocean from below sea level. The government in exile proposed acquisition of German territory to compensate for this loss of land but parliament has not approved the proposal.

Even tulip, hyacinth, and daffodil growers are complaining altho their losses are probably not as much as might be expected in a continent hungry for food rather than posies. From 30,000 acres before the war Holland annually exported $20,000,000 worth of bulbs, including $3,000,000 worth to the United States and Canada. The Germans reduced flower cultivation to 35 per cent of the pre-war level to devote the land to potatoes. From this reduced acreage bulbs were exported during the war to Germany, Denmark, and Sweden.

A. M. Belle, on his tulip farm near Haarlem, said he was eager to resume sales trips to America, including Chicago, but was uncertain of the outlook for this year. He discussed his prospects while in the distance could be heard the occasional boom of sea mines being exploded by German prisoners of war under Canadian supervision.

MASS TRIAL FOR WAR CRIMINALS IS CONSIDERED

LONDON, July 3 [Reuters]—A proposal that all major war criminals should be given a mass trial is being considered by representatives of the four great powers, the British Press association reported today. The report added that the charge, conspiring to wreck the peace of the world, would be based on the Kellogg pact, which outlawed war.

It was also proposed that representatives of the Gestapo, SS [elite guard] and other German military and political organizations would be tried at the same time.

The proposal was made by Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States Supreme court, who is America's war crimes prosecutor. Others who are discussing the idea are Atty. Gen. D. Maxwell Fyfe for Britain, the French representative, Falco, and Maj. Gen. Nikitchenko for Russia.

Britons' Skill Displayed at Fashion Show

BY VERA CHANDLER
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

LONDON, July 3—British designers demonstrated at the first big fashion show of the war, held here recently, that they still can produce some of the world's finest tailored fashions.

New British evening ensemble in moss crepe

Twenty-eight manufacturing houses showed more than 120 superbly tailored autumn suits, coats, and dresses. Altho every model conformed to the austerity regulations which forbid fully plaited or flared skirts and the like, there were many gaily feminine touches such as dramatic pockets, deep armholes on topcoats, loose three-quarter length sleeves on tailored suits, and profuse use of decorative buttons.

It looked, too, as if the cape will come back. One of the outstanding coats shown was of purple wool with a regency double tiered cape, and some of the dresses had tiny padded shoulder sleeves described as new "cap" sleeves; they bear a topical resemblance to military epaulettes.

The new autumn colors are royal purple, royal crimson, and victory gold—the last being a glowing buttercup color. Black will continue to be popular for formal wear, but many of the black suits shown were trimmed with pink, blue, and other pastel shades.

New materials, particularly woolens, were more distinctive than any produced during the war years, too. There were woolens with glittering patterns that twinkled, blended color weaves such as emerald and crimson, cyclamen and black, sunflower yellow and brown, and wine and black, as well as bright tartans and strictly masculine worsted patterns made into the most feminine suits.

Because British clothes are likely to continue to be rationed for at least 18 months to two years, the designers have concentrated on producing suits and coats suitable for either town or country wear. This trend is likely to continue, even after rationing goes, because British women probably will not again accept the rather dull tweed suits which were the only choice for country wear before the war.

The prevailing silhouette is wide shoulders tapering to a nipped-in waist, slim skirts, and lower necklines—sometimes heart shaped, again oval or V. Jackets still are hip length and some have full or half back belts. Most top coats are in the regency style, with a few loose straight coats for casual wear.

Hats probably more than anything in the show expressed the victory mood. Like the French women who thruout the occupation showed their contempt for the Germans by wearing witty and sometimes ridiculous hats, the British women will revert to the gay hat to express their relief at the ending of the war in Europe. There's no uniformity of style. Some hats are high, some flat, some mere wisps of veiling and flowers, but all have accent on femininity and probably are fashion's top priority.

Little change is apparent in shoe styles because of board of trade restrictions on high heels and other frivolous touches. In any case, few shoes are available.

Stockings still are mostly utility of thickish rayon and in uninteresting colors that few American women would wear.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	2 diamonds	2 hearts	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
4 clubs	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

There are no fixed standards for what constitutes a good hand and strangely enough what starts out to be a very good hand frequently loses its luster as the bidding develops. Such ailments as duplication of values, or misfittitis, set in and pessimism must replace the optimistic spirit. By the same token many hands start out under very unfavorable auspices, but blossom forth as each new bid is offered by partner.

Such a one is the South hand in today's sermon. While it contains only two honor tricks and not an ace, I don't think any reasonable player would care to pass it. West's overcall of two diamonds is normal and North of course, got into the picture with two hearts, awaiting developments. South naturally had to step lightly and signed off with two spades. The reader should be cautioned against making jump rebids on hands that were opened for their distributional values rather than their honor strength. North decided to bid three clubs [this being a new suit, forces the opener to speak once more.]. South decided that his club support was too good to conceal and raised to four, the by this time he was getting somewhat nervous.

North's bid of five spades is open to some question. Having bid hearts and clubs it might have been sufficient for North to have bid only four spades. However, since he did bid five spades, which is not too far out of line, South should unhesitatingly bid six, because while he hadn't a very strong hand going in, he had a tremendous hand coming out. The point was that he had just the right assets. The important consideration was the singleton diamond which is the key to the slam. Had South held a slightly better hand that included, for example, the doubleton king-queen of hearts, but two losing diamonds he would not have ventured forth on the slam. Having just what your partner needs as indicated by the bidding, sometimes gives you the right to make what on the surface might appear to be outlandish overbids.

What do you bid now?

Frock and a Doll

Princess, wrap around lines assure comfort and figure flattery in this day time or house frock. Whether it appears socially or stays at home depends upon the fabric you select. For domestic hours, the frock might be trimmed in ready to use rickrack braid. The other pattern makes a 27 inch doll and her wardrobe [for yardage requirements, see pattern envelope]. Style No. 2927 is designed for sizes 12 to 48. Size 36 requires four yards of 35 inch fabric with 3¼ yards of braid. Style No. 2822 makes the doll. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Mothers Told Not to Travel with the Baby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

In giving some practical suggestions to mothers who may be planning to travel with their babies, my first piece of advice is, don't.

If there is any way in which a long trip can be avoided, then avoid it.

Persons who have done no traveling with a baby since we have been at war, haven't the faintest conception of what it's all about. But I do, and I know something of what I am talking about. For instance, when I was worried because I thought my daughter-in-law would have to travel alone from California to New York with a baby, a woman said to me:

"O, she'll be all right. Why, thousands of girls are doing it all the time with no trouble at all. Everybody helps, and there are maids and nurses on the trains employed by the railroads, and Red Cross and Travelers Aid personnel at every big station. You haven't a thing to worry about."

If I had been an impudent small boy I would have said, "That's what you think," and for a lot of reasons. For instance, I haven't seen much of the efficient peace time maid service which the railroads used to give to mothers of babies, a luxury we should rightfully skip in these days. And I've traveled on two different transcontinental roads.

Neither can stewards or porters give service to mothers as they used to. Formerly a mother alone could have her meals brought to her from the dining car, and ring for and get service from the porters, or have access to the kitchen in connection with preparing some of the baby's food. With the best intentions in the world, stewards, porters, waiters, and chefs cannot coöperate much in this way at present. This is one reason why I advise mothers not to travel if they can help it.

Thru the Looking Glass

This is the season when more women use more preparations of a somewhat tricky nature than they do in the winter. We refer especially to deodorants and anti-perspirants and depilatories.

There is nothing wrong with any of these preparations in themselves. There can't possibly be, because they must pass rigid tests to meet legal requirements before they are placed on the market. But in all such preparations there are two important considerations the user should always bear in mind. The first is the possibility, always present with every one of us, of an individual idiosyncrasy that may cause a reaction of irritation. The second is the necessity, with these beauty aids, of following directions exactly.

Manufacturers of these preparations go to great lengths to establish the method of application which gives the user of their product the most satisfactory results and, as far as possible, rules out the possibility of irritation to the skin. That's why they print directions, and make them clear. But women will ignore them. We know of hundreds and hundreds of women who simply never look at directions—and scream loudly when, as often happens, there is an unexpected reaction that's temporarily unpleasant.

If your deodorant directions, for instance, say that it should not be used before shaving, for heaven's sake, take the manufacturer's word for this. If the depilatory you use is to be left on, according to directions, exactly two minutes, please don't flirt with a skin irritation by leaving it on four! More than two-thirds of the little skin troubles women have with these preparations derive, we firmly believe, from woman's apparently unbreakable habit of ignoring directions.

Outdoor Events to Lure Holiday Crowds Today

BY JUDITH CASS

THOSE who are planning to celebrate the holiday at outdoor events are hoping for a bright and sunny day today. Country clubs will be crowded, and horse race fans will flock to the Washington Park track for Arlington Park's Fourth of July racing events, including the Equipoise mile.

Today will be Army and Navy Celebrity day at the River Forest Tennis club, where the nine day national clay court championship tournament is in progress. Today's matches will start at 1 p. m., an hour earlier than usual. Included on the program under the direction of Keston J. Deimling are a concert by a 50 piece army band, an auction of autographed tennis balls and some of the players' racquets, and a sale of war bonds.

At the Knollwood club service men who took part in this war or the last will participate in special golf events today. Members also will compete for the Independence day trophy and quality for the President's trophy, and there will be a round robin tennis tournament.

At the Saddle and Cycle club a traditional Fourth of July buffet supper will wind up the day's program, which includes tennis and swimming. Among those who will entertain at dinner are Miss Sallie Anna Thomas, who will be hostess to a group of college friends; the Aldis J. Brownes, Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Gross, Lt. and Mrs. Vay Stonebraker, and Mr. and Mrs. Wells Farnham.

The Exmoor club's holiday program will include a special show for children from 4 to 5 p. m.

The large Dennehy clan will gather today at the family farm in Wadsworth for its annual Fourth of July picnic, a tradition of many years. About 30 members of the family are expected this year.

Engagement News

Some interesting romantic news that is being made known today concerns Miss Anne Dingle of Highland Park and Lt. Benno Frederick Neil III. of the maritime service, whose engagement is announced by her parents, Mrs. Florence Thomas Dingle of Highland Park and John H. Dingle of Dover, Del. Lt. Neil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Jr. of Chicago, is at home on leave but will depart the middle of the month to resume his duties which have taken him to both the Atlantic and Pacific oceans in the last few years. His last trip was to Okinawa.

Miss Dingle was graduated from the Knox school at Cooperstown, N. Y., and is a sophomore at Northwestern university. Lt. Neil attended the Harvard School for Boys and Lake Forest academy. Both are third generation Chicagoans. Miss Dingle is a granddaughter of the late Ambrose L. Thomas.

Birth News

Staff Sgt. Richard G. O'Connor of the marines and Mrs. O'Connor [Anna Mae Tersteege] are being congratulated on the birth of a son, Richard Jr., Monday in Henrotin hospital. The baby is the grandson of Mrs. John O'Connor of Kenilworth and the third great-grandson of Mrs. Alice Forkner, also of Kenilworth. Young Mrs. O'Connor was a private first class in the marines when she and Sgt. O'Connor were married in Parris Island, S. C., in April, 1944. Sgt. O'Connor now is on Luzon.

Wedding News

In a ceremony at 3 p. m. yesterday in the chapel of the First Methodist church in Evanston Miss Dorothy Jane Olson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hermann Olson of Evanston, became the bride of Lt. Calvin Durand Allen Jr. of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen of Winnetka. A reception in the Evanston Woman's club followed the ceremony.

Miss Virginia Dearlove served as maid of honor, and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Fenner O. Lindquist and Mrs. Gilbert A. Cook, were bridesmaids. Sgt. Joseph Barton was best

Dress Making Aids Offered in New Shop

BY REA SEEGER

Well worth checking is a new shop where you can find fancy and not so fancy buttons, have buttonholes made, and order hemstitching [you wait a week for both services] by the foot or yard. It's so new the paint still shines, and its button collection is the most complete showing available, having glittering affairs made of sequins, some fast vanishing pearl ball buttons, and some beautiful and unusual silver and gold metal buttons — among them navy buttons for blue jackets.

Other important aids to shoppers refurbishing a wardrobe are the many belts, both decorative and tailored plain. Or if none of these suit, order what you want in any color and virtually any fabric or material. Buckles, too, are made to order or covered to order, and there are almost as many sizes and shapes as there are buttons. You may choose extremely narrow belts or the very wide models, patent leather, reptile skin, felt, velvet, or heavy ribbon. There is a short wait for these special orders, but the results are worth while.

Dress parade trimmings such as glittering sequins and other shimmering braids of tiny mirrors or colored glass provide a gala note of fashion by the yard or foot for costume adornment, and you'll find long silk tassels, frogs braid, and sequined motifs for effective applique on dresses or blouses. Everything the amateur or semi-professional dressmaker needs to complete a smart costume, the little details that make a smooth professional finished dress, are available in this accessory shop.

Women's Bar Official Will Be Bride Friday

Miss Coula Psaras, Chicago attorney and vice president of the Women's Bar Association of Illinois, will be married Friday evening in Assumption church, Harrison st. and Central av., to Lt. Leon Butler, commander of an LST ship, who is home on leave after 20 months in the Pacific. Miss Psaras is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stellos Psaras. She is associated with the state department of revenue, as head of the office she organized for the filing of tax claims in probate and bankruptcy proceedings. Lt. Butler, whose home is in Elmhurst, also is an attorney. Both he and his fiancee took their training at the John Marshall Law school.

Expect Vacuum Cleaner Swing to Bagless Type

BY EDITH WEIGLE

Vacuum cleaners will be one of the household items in greatest demand after the war, according to estimates made by the office of civilian requirements. The demand will reach the huge figure of 2,389,816, it is predicted.

This will mean a higher level of production for both the hand and floor type of cleaner after conversion. The first deliveries of very limited amounts may be expected late this year.

It is too early to say with certainty what the trends in design will be, but manufacturers of the bagless cleaner feel that the American housewife will prefer the tank-on-the-floor type to the clumsier and perhaps noisier cleaner equipped with a bag which must be emptied after practically every cleaning job. Only the woman who has experienced the dirty and difficult mess of emptying this bag and disposing of the accumulated dust and lint and then has had the task of trying to clean the interior lining of the bag can appreciate fully the tank type of vacuum.

In the tank type, either a round metal can or a cylinder which is placed on the floor serves as the receptacle to catch the dirt. In the case of at least one tank type unit, the air is filtered as it sucks up the dirt into the can, and it goes thru another filter inside the receptacle as it deposits the dust in the pan at the base.

Dirt need be emptied from this container only once a month or once every six weeks, when the filter also is dumped and a new one is installed. And the job is as simple as emptying a waste basket.

The makers of this cleaner say its motor will be sound-proofed, an excellent idea, as thousands of pre-war vacuums were so noisy the housewife was unable to hear the door bell or telephone when using the vacuum, and the racket was sure to wake up the baby!

Besides their usual jobs of cleaning rugs, carpets, upholstery, draperies, blinds, etc., some of the post-war vacuums will be able to apply liquid wax in a fine spray on linoleum floors or spray paint on walls. They also will be equipped to dispense moth-proofing vapors.

But housewives are advised not to expect to see any models in the stores for some months.

[This is the fifth of a series of articles on post-war accessories for the home. Another will follow.]

Creamy Blanc Mange Garnished with Fruit

Add Cold Milk

1 For creamy blanc mange, mix together 3 tablespoons cornstarch, ⅛ teaspoon salt, and ⅓ cup sugar. Add ⅓ cup cold milk, stirring to make a paste.

Cook Over Water

2 Stir mixture slowly into 1⅓ cups scalded milk and cook over hot water for 10 minutes. Stir constantly until thick and smooth. Add 1 egg, well beaten.

Turn Into Molds

3 Cook covered for 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla, and fill greased custard cups. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve.

Top With Fruit

4 A last minute touch is the topping of strawberry preserves. A garnish of fresh sliced peaches or other seasonal fresh fruit also is good. Serves six. (Prepared by Mary Meade)

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Patriots All

"This is a war of the parents," a woman once said to me. But I couldn't agree. Parents are sleeping in their accustomed beds . . . their feet, at night, fit into comfortable slippers . . . tho their homes miss the sound of young voices, their souls are not sick for the sight of their native land . . . tho their hearts are shell torn, their bodies are not. No, I argued, parents are not fighting the battles.

Yet the other day I met a mother —one of many mothers in this war. She is brown haired, young appearing, bright, and dear. For many years she has held a high position with one of our largest firms — works hard and is exceedingly tired at the end of each day.

"Did you know we are having a baby?" she asked happily. "We are trying to buy a house." Her only son, a marine, had married his Anne, a child is on the way, and "Anne is coming to live with us so we can take care of her," she added.

"Isn't that a good bit of responsibility with your job and everything?" she was asked. Her thoughtful eyes smiled. "We're glad to have this baby," she said and you knew, listening, that she meant it.

The young medical WAC who stopped in the office to spill her troubles was gravely distressed. The trouble is, she said, she is too emotional . . . "unstable" they said at camp. You have to treat the wounded soldier in an off-hand manner — "got to be tough," she said, tears standing in her eyes. You see, it was this way: All those boys in the wards — they have pains in the legs they no longer have . . . and the other day one of the boys fell down trying to use his new leg and she cried . . . yes . . . she cried. . . . "I'm having a hard time learning to be a good soldier," she concluded, unforgettably appealing in her gentleness.

The newspaper reporter was assigned to a troop train to tell how it feels to be returning home from overseas. "It was sort of a hard job," she admitted . . . funny thing . . . she had the darndest headache ever since. Maybe she should have her blood pressure checked! The boys? O, they were wonderful. But she couldn't write her copy except at night because all thru the train the boys wanted to talk . . . they hadn't seen an American girl for so long . . . no, they didn't make any passes at her . . . they were just boyishly eager to hear all about everything. . . . They seemed to need some one. She scarcely could refrain from quitting her job so she could stick with the boys. Funny thing, tho, she couldn't get rid of that ache. . . . Do you 'spose it come from her heart?

She doesn't have any one close to her in the war, the high school teacher explained. Her brothers have no sons, and she has never married. But, she always has liked young people, and so many fine lads had passed thru her classroom. She just figures that our young 'uns belong to those who love them — and her heart has room for them all. So, at home, at night, she writes to the boys she used to teach — 20 to 30 letters every week . . . tries to keep uppermost in their minds the promise of "after the war." . . . isn't certain just how much of a service it is—"just like to do it," said this modest patriot for whom no medals are cast.

Rodzinski Warmly Welcomed as Ravinia Guest Conductor After Two Seasons' Absence

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Artur Rodzinski, conductor. Presented at Ravinia Tuesday evening, July 3, 1945. The program:
Overture "Leonore" No. 3.....Beethoven
Symphony No. 2, D major.....Brahms
Prelude to Act I, "Lohengrin"...Wagner
Suite from "Der Rosenkavalier"...Strauss

Artur Rodzinski was warmly welcomed back to Ravinia last night when he began his fifth guest engagement with the Chicago Symphony orchestra after an absence of two seasons. Always a favorite at the lovely garden spot of the north shore, Mr. Rodzinski reciprocates Ravinia's affection. He said he felt that he had come home, and in the coming he seemed to some of us to have made new strides as a conductor.

Always a dynamic leader, the Polish conductor understands how an orchestra is articulated, and he could make one sound brilliant long before he became the chief of New York's Philharmonic. But last night in Beethoven's "Leonore" and in Brahms' Second Symphony, there was new continuity of line and mood, and more mature depth of expression, than I for one had been aware of before. True, the orchestra put its best foot forward for him—and barring a few weak spots in the winds it was a rewarding effort—and the weather gave him a break in a cool, still night that made both playing and listening a pleasure. Still, he had what it took to exploit every advantage.

The "Leonore" overture was particularly notable for its clarity of line and simplicity of style. It led cleanly and directly to a brilliant climax that drew a small thunderclap of what might have been rehearsed approval from the almost 3,700 people who attended the concert. The Brahms D Major was warm and serene and it had an eloquence not easy to coax from the summer complement of strings. The cellos at the start of the slow movement sounded rich and ripe as contented autumn.

After intermission, Mr. Rodzinski launched the "Lohengren" prelude twice, pausing after the first start to give a passing train the right of way, a courtesy it respected by refraining from backing up. Once under way, the performance had the fairy tale limpidity of Wagnerian legend, and the surging climax of expert planning. After that came opera of quite a different sort, a brilliant suite from Richard Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier," with reminiscences of the Marchallin, of Sophie and Octavian, and of that robust rascal, Baron Ochs of the swirling rococo waltz. The performance was a spectacular illustration of what a virtuoso orchestra we could have if we gave it a chance. And now I want two things for our next "Rosenkavalier" at the opera: Lehmann to sing and Rodzinski to conduct.

Winnetka Plans Gay Program for Fourth of July Celebration

The Village Commons in Winnetka will be the scene of an old fashioned family Fourth of July celebration, starting at 1:15 p. m. with a concert by a navy band from the Glenview naval air station. The entire village, from oldsters down to tiny tots under 3, annually turns out for the festivities, which include a flag raising ceremony, a children's parade in which each youngster receives a flag and a gay hat, and athletic events open to Winnetka residents only. The Winnetka family winning the largest number of points in the competitions will have its name inscribed on the Family Trophy, maintained from year to year. Among the widely known residents taking part as officials will be Don McNeill and Lester R. Winternitz, who will serve as announcers.

'The Wicked Mrs. Steel' . . . . . By Roy Vickers

INSTALMENT XV

FOILED

"Charles doesn't even control his own small salary," Valerie said. "The bank pays part of it to his landlady." Mrs. Steel smiled.

"Which means that he could not help you carry the burden of Andrew's money." She took the will in her hand, toyed with it. "Your life is your own, my dear, and you will choose as you think fit."

"Choose! You mean choose whether I give Charles up, or . . ." The words died in her throat.

Mrs. Steel lowered her head in assent.

Anger driven, the girl's thoughts flew off at a tangent. If Aunt Margaret were to die suddenly there would be no question of having to give up the man she loved.

But Aunt Margaret showed no signs of dying at that very moment.

"I won't tear this up now," said Mrs. Steel. "I'll put it back in the drawer. And it will stay there until this time tomorrow. Are you listening to me, Valerie?"

"Until this time tomorrow," repeated Valerie. On Mrs. Steele's face again sat the expression of a contented cat. She put her arm in Valerie's, took her back to the drawing room, where Ludlow was finishing his rough sketch of Gillian.

That evening Gillian read aloud to Mrs. Steele in the drawing room. At 10 o'clock Ruth came in with the hot milk.

Mrs. Steel gave Gillian the key of the cabinet. Gillian unlocked it and brought the phial of tablets. Gillian was about to put a tablet in the milk when there was a knock on the outer door.

"I wonder who that is!" exclaimed Gillian, hoping against hope that it was Ralph.

"I fancy it's Valerie." Mrs. Steel was smiling. "If it is, you had better leave us, dear. She has something on her mind about that young man of hers."

Valerie had timed her movements with the utmost care.

Mrs. Steel cut short her apologies, told her to sit down, at the same time nodding to Gillian, who announced that she was going to bed.

"You know why I've come, Aunt Margaret!" Valerie's voice was steady, wholly free from emotion.

Mrs. Steel waited. Valerie went on repeating mechanically a prepared speech.

"You told me I must choose. It did not take me long to see that I have no choice. I have told Charles that for reasons he will never understand I cannot marry him."

Mrs. Steel knew she had come to say that, and herself had prepared a little speech.

"Well, dear, it's not for me to tell you that you've chosen wisely. But I will admit that you have taken a great weight off my mind."

Valerie did not hear the words. She was too concentrated on her own purpose. There was another little prepared speech to be made.

"It has not been easy, Aunt Margaret, to put duty before love. I am not going to make myself ill over it. I think I could sleep tonight if you would let me see the will—just let me hold it in my hands for a minute."

So the girl was too bemused by the money to remind herself that a will meant nothing while the testator was alive! Mrs. Steel laughed indulgently.

"You can if you like, Valerie. Wait a minute. I mustn't let my milk get cold. And Gillian forgot to give me my tablet."

She took one from the phial, dropped it in the milk. Valerie watched every movement.

When a human being stands at the crossroads of good and evil, fate rarely places an obstacle in the way of a free choice.

"Just lock this up for me, will you, while I get what you want," said Mrs. Steel.

Valerie took the phial—and the key. On the way to the cabinet, her back to Mrs. Steel, she shook four tablets into her hands, then placed the phial on its shelf and locked the cabinet.

While Valerie was doing this Mrs. Steel passed behind her to the adjoining room.

Valerie had rehearsed her actions as well as her speech. Without conscious thought she dropped the four extra tablets into the glass of milk.

It was no detectivelike cleverness on the part of Mrs. Steel that made her aware of what Valerie had done.

Nevertheless, when she saw Valerie drop the tablets into the milk she was surprised and delighted.

She had not switched on the light in the little room, and so, as the curtain had been drawn, she was invisible in the darkness when she turned and watched the girl's movements.

"Here you are, dear. You can take it home with you if you like and bring it back tomorrow."

"No, thank you—I'd rather not!"

The girl was breathless. Mrs. Steel watched her as she sat down. Valerie had opened out the will but obviously was not reading it.

"You said you didn't want your milk to get cold, Aunt Margaret."

"Thank you, dear. I'd forgotten it. I often forget it until it gets cold and then I can't drink it." The girl's jaw dropped, to Mrs. Steel's secret amusement. "You'd better switch on the light so that you can read. Never mind the curtains. It won't be properly dark for nearly an hour yet."

Valerie mechanically obeyed, then again picking up the will, furtively watched the other.

Mrs. Steel was knowledgeable about medicines. The glass might contain a fatal dose. But deadliness lay in the quantity. She could drink as much as a quarter of it without danger. She raised the glass to her lips and sipped the milk.

"You look very white, Valerie. It's you who ought to be drinking milk. I only take it to make me sleep."

"Yes, Aunt Margaret. I mean, no thanks, I don't want any milk."

She was trying to fold the will up again.

Mrs. Steel took another tiny sip.

"Can't you get it into the envelope? Let me help you."

She could gauge the turmoil of the other's thoughts. Valerie wanted to decline but could not collect the words. Dumbly she brought the document.

"There—butter fingers! If you don't want to take it home, put it back in the drawer."

Mrs. Steel was quite certain Valerie did not see her pour the rest of the milk, with its fatal dose, into the jade vase.

When Valerie returned from the little room Mrs. Steel was screening the emptiness of the glass with her hand. She tilted it as if draining its contents.

Dance Moved Ahead

Because of the Fourth of July holiday, the South Shore Country club has moved its Thursday party ahead one night and is calling it an Independence day ball.

Head of New York Service Men's Wives Will Be Speaker Here

Mrs. Naomi Nash of New York, president of the W.I.V.E.S. [Wives Insure Victory, Equality, Security] will be here Wednesday, July 11, to speak before the Chicago Service Men's Wives club and invite the local group to become the first Chicago chapter of the national society which she heads. Her talk, set for 7:30 p. m. in the Loop Center Y. W. C. A., 59 E. Monroe st., will be open to all service men's wives in the Chicago area.

Mrs. Nash will explain the aims and activities of the W. I. V. E. S., described as a non-partisan, non-sectarian organization of wives of service men of every rank and branch of the United States military service, including the maritime service.

Established in New York two years ago, the society now has a membership of 4,000, with 80 chapters in the New York area. Mrs. Nash's visit in Chicago is a part of a tour of New York state, Pennsylvania and the middle west aimed at interesting local community groups in joining the national organization.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargeli—

Mrs. Ed B., Chillicothe, Ill.—Have found that sugar stains as well as light perspiration stains will usually respond to a patting with a little clear, cool water. Have even removed light ink stains by this method.

Helen H., Chicago—To apply a thin film of oil to cutting edges of lawn mower, saw, sickle, or other tools after use, my husband uses the dauber out of a shoe polish bottle. He has washed out the bottle and filled it with light machine oil.

Mrs. George J., Richmond, Ind.—Instead of basting hems on sheets, pillow cases, and other articles of same type, I find it helpful to use masking tape. Easy to remove this tape when I machine stitch the hems. I peel it off just before the needle reaches it.

Mrs. Rankin H. Roberts of Chicago announces the marriage June 28 of her daughter, Rosemary, to Henry George Hollingshead, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hollingshead. In the ceremony, which took place in the Thorndyke Hilton chapel, the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Lt. Col. Rankin Roberts, and another brother, Lt. John G. Roberts, was best man. Miss Nellie Colby, a niece of the bridegroom, was Miss Roberts' only attendant. A reception followed in the South Shore Country club.

The bride is a graduate of the University High school and the University of Chicago. Mr. Hollingshead attended the Harvard school and Northwestern university. He and his bride will be at home in Chicago.

Other Weddings

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Anne Hickson-Brown of Pasadena, Cal., to John Alexander Wood of Pasadena, formerly of Winnetka, June 21 in the vestry of the Pasadena Presbyterian church. Mr. Wood is the son of Mrs. George Wood, formerly of Winnetka and now of Pasadena. Mr. Wood and his bride will live in San Marino, Cal.

Another Pasadena marriage of interest here was that on June 29 of Miss Barbara Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Parker Lyon Jr. of Pasadena, to Lt. [j. g.] Kenneth Bell Sharpe of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Freer Sharpe of South Pasadena and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison W. Beegle of Chicago. The bride is a provisional member of the Pasadena Junior League. Lt. Sharpe has returned from 16 months in the Pacific and will report to the east coast.

In a ceremony in the rectory of Santa Maria Del Popolo rectory in Mundelein today Miss Phyllis Oko, daughter of Michael Oko of Chicago, will become the bride of Sgt. Lawrence Rouse of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rouse of Mundelein. Both Miss Oko and her fiancé are graduates of Illinois State Normal university. Sgt. Rouse has returned from duty with the 3d army in Germany where he was wounded.

Miss Bankhead Gives Sparkle to This Movie

"A ROYAL SCANDAL"

By Mae Tinée

Remember the song, popular a few years ago, about "I don't want to make history, I just want to make love?" That, in a nutshell, tells the story of Catherine II, of Russia, as interpreted in "A Royal Scandal."

The czarina is handsome, she is all-powerful, and she devours nice looking young men in one bite. Beautifully gowned, with as pretty a pair of shoulders as any model could boast, Tallulah Bankhead has a great opportunity to display her talents as the temptestuous Catherine. She fawns, growls, snaps, and sometimes bites, as the spirit moves her. She can use her throaty voice as a whip, she can be sultry or sweet, and she uses all her tricks in this film.

A typical Lubitsch comedy, the picture has all the royal trappings, the sophisticated dialog, and the inevitable staircase which is almost a trade mark. It also has a great deal of talk, with the first part of it particularly top heavy with dialog and little else, but there are some hilariously amusing scenes in this tale of a serious young lieutenant who really believes he has been made a colonel because of his military ability. He is the only person so deluded, however.

Bill Eythe plays the impetuous and not very bright young soldier who fascinates the man hungry queen and was an excellent choice for the role. Charles Coburn and Anne Baxter are good in important supporting parts, but the picture is definitely Talulah's. There's an obvious letdown every time she's not on the screen—without her it would be a bore, but I think that gal could make "The Five Little Peppers" exciting!

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 3—Bob Leonard is as much a part of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as Leo the Lion. Has been turning out academy award pictures for M-G-M for 23 years and has just signed another seven year contract. That makes him an institution. His next film will be "Lucky Baldwin," the story of one of our great California characters—a raw, red-blooded pioneer—and the best role Clark Gable has had since Rhett Butler. Lana Turner will play opposite Clark. Following "Baldwin," Bob will do another one for Lana—"Frankie from Frisco." . . . Recently Bob turned actor—a gesture of friendship for Abbott and Costello—and played the part of a director in their last picture, not yet released.

He's Getting His Reward

Lloyd Bridges did such a fine job in "Susie Slagle" he gets the second lead in "Train Town," with Randy Scott and Ann Dvorak. Amusing story about Ann. Twelve years ago she was assistant to Dance Director Sammy Lee. Now Sammy's directing her dances. . . . John Wayne is writing his own ticket these days. It includes four pictures for Republic [he recently signed the contract], R. K. O. is bidding for him to make three, and he can sign for one year at two other studios. That sounds like Gregory Peck's record. In his last, "They Were Expendable," I read where some considered John overweight. Well, if he is, I've never seen a panther walking.

Realization Came Late

Hear Twentieth Century-Fox could have had Cornel Wilde opposite Tallulah Bankhead in "A Royal Scandal" instead of Bill Eythe. But studio bigwigs didn't realize what he could do until they saw "A Song to Remember." Now he's with Gene Tierney in "Leave Her to Heaven," top picture on the lot. . . . And speaking of Eythe, during his recent New York vacation he divided his time between Spyros Skouras' daughter and Constance Dowling. Good going! Constance, who took shots preparatory to going overseas with Jack Benny, was as sick as Ingrid Bergman and had all the necessary serum treatments. Constance couldn't fly with Jack but will follow soon as reservations permit, joining Jack and the troupe over there. . . . Sam Levene, who did "Three Men on a Horse" for the U. S. O. overseas, tells me all our boys have become detectives. They've dug up more loot in Germany. In one hotel on the Rhine, they came across some old picture postcards of the place showing a swimming pool. Boys went hunting for it, figured out it should be right where a lawn was planted. Started digging, and unearthed the pool which had been converted into a storage place for, of all things, the liquor stock. . . . Tallulah Bankhead isn't interested in swimming pools for any such reason. She merely wants a nice one for her Connecticut home. For this reason she'll lend a favorable ear to the offers of Hollywood producers for that one more picture.

An American Original

No wonder Jerry Wald wants to produce the life of Benjamin Franklin. There's an American original who can't be beat. Jerry says his librarian tells him she's had more call for "Franklin" in the last month than any other book. "Why not?" asks she. "In his heyday he was holding down 15 jobs at the same time." One of those included ambassador to France, and if you think a plain Philadelphia printer—as they thought he was—didn't hold his own with the aristocrats and statesmen, you're slipping. But let's not have that dull Franklin from the bank window or the insurance calendar. Let's have the real Franklin, who was a century ahead of his time.

De Paul Summer Session Enrollment Rises 23 Pct.

Summer session enrollment at De Paul university is 23 per cent larger than a year ago, the Rev. Comerford J. O'Malley, C. M. president of the university, announced yesterday. There are 2,806 students in residence at the uptown and downtown divisions of the school this summer as compared to 2,293 last year. A return of men students to the classroom is reflected in greater enrollment in the commerce and law schools.

U.S. MUST RETAIN AIR SUPREMACY, GREEN DECLARES

Tells Governors Security of World Is at Stake

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 3—American air supremacy, built up in four years of war, must be maintained for the security of the United States and the rest of the world, Gov. Green of Illinois today told the governors' conference. Gov. Green, who was a flyer in the first World war, predicted that within 10 years after the surrender of Japan commercial air lines in the United States will be carrying 20 million passengers a year at 300 miles per hour and at three cents a mile. Revenue in 10 years from international traffic to airports of the world carried in American planes alone, he figured, will equal the 126 million dollar volume now carried by all our domestic air lines.

"Under our system of free enterprise," he said, "that supremacy can only be maintained thru fullest development of commercial and private aviation. To maintain that air supremacy America must continue to have the finest flyers in the world, and plenty of them; the finest airports, air bases, and aviation facilities in the world and plenty of them, and the finest airplanes in the world, and plenty of them.

Praises Plane Makers

The achievement of American industry in building more than 200,000 fighting planes in less than four years and in bringing production up to a rate of 100,000 a year was cited as a war marvel by Gov. Green, who added:

"Yet we dare never risk again the anxious months of waiting which we were forced to endure shortly after Germany and Japan attacked us until we could match the enemy's air power.

"Therefore, we must look to civil aviation to provide a continuing demand for airplanes, which will maintain this industry on a basis to promote quick war time expansion for military needs.

Illinois Declared Ready

"Illinois is prepared to proceed promptly with its comprehensive airport program under any plan of federal aid which may finally be enacted in Washington," he said. "It [the program] emphasizes the state's responsibility in facilitating the speedy construction of an adequate system of airports, which is first prerequisite to bringing the wholesome benefits of aviation to all the people of America."

The plight of the small business man and some suggestions for giving him a helping hand was discussed by Gov. Lester C. Hunt of Wyoming, a native of Illinois, as is Gov. Harry Kelly of Michigan.

He said 92 per cent of manufacturing and business establishments in America are small businesses, and asserted small concerns employ about 45 per cent of all persons gainfully employed. In preparing for war, small concerns suffered and 10 per cent were liquidated, Gov. Hunt remarked.

Asks Financing Help

The Wyoming governor suggested that to make financing easier, the government might provide a lending system thru private banks, similar to the federal housing administration. Tax reforms, too, would aid a lot, he said, while the burden of paper work, questionnaires, reports, etc., should be reduced to a minimum.

Approval by the United States senate of the San Francisco security charter is urged in a resolution adopted late today by the resolutions committee. The resolution which will be submitted to the conference at its final session tomorrow reads:

"We indorse the united nations charter as drafted, and urge its prompt approval by the United States senate, so that the United States can lead the way in this greatest of man's efforts."

HANGING VICTIM'S BODY FOUND

Frank Kadlec, 78, of 4438 N. Central Park av., was found hanged from a rope attached to the top of a bed in his home yesterday.

"We've only got three chops. It's her own fault if she doesn't know enough to go home at dinner time."

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

The United States weather bureau forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow;

INDIANA: Fair and warmer today; fair tomorrow and continued warm.

LOWER MICHIGAN: Generally fair in south and partly cloudy, with scattered thundershowers, in north and west central today; partly cloudy tomorrow with afternoon showers in west central; warmer in south and little change in temperature in north today and tomorrow.

UPPER MICHIGAN: Partly cloudy today and tomorrow; afternoon thundershowers in east today, and widely scattered showers tomorrow afternoon; cooler near Lake Superior today.

WISCONSIN: Partly cloudy today and tomorrow; scattered thundershowers in south today and again tomorrow afternoon; warmer in extreme south and little change in temperature in north and central today.

IOWA: Generally fair in south and partly cloudy, with afternoon or evening thundershowers in north and west today and tomorrow; not much change in temperature.

SUBURBAN LINES' EMPLOYES WARN U.S. MEDIATORS

Failure of the national mediation board to announce "in a day or two" that it has selected an emergency panel to adjudge a dispute between operating unions and two electric suburban railroads will result in a new call for a strike, union officials said yesterday.

John Zanger, vice president of the International Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, made the announcement. It was concurred in by officials of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers. The unions postponed a strike set for last Sunday morning to await action by the NMB.

The two railroads—the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin—have refused wage increases of 12 to 16 cents an hour sought by the unions.

85% IN CONGRESS ALREADY DRAW EXPENSE GRANT

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—Kenneth Romney, house paymaster, disclosed today that "upward of 85 per cent" of the house members have drawn the $1,250 expense allowance they recently voted themselves.

The allowance is $2,500 per year but was made retroactive to last Jan. 1. Half of it was payable yesterday.

Rommey declined to divulge the names of the members who already have drawn. The total number, however, is expected to increase as soon as members who were absent yesterday return to the capital. They have until the end of the year to draw the expense allowance for the entire year.

SHIPS GO BACK TO BATTLE MINUS FULL REPAIRS

BY JOHN THOMPSON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Seattle, Wash., July 3—Because of the grave shortage of skilled shipyard workers in the Puget Sound Navy yard at Bremerton, and in the private yards working under navy contract, not one fighting ship has gone back into action in the Pacific in the last six months with all of the repairs and new improvements desired by Adm. Nimitz.

This statement was made today by Capt. Webster Maddux Thompson, industrial manager of the Puget Sound yards, in describing the critical need for 5,500 skilled electricians, machinists, sheet metal workers, and other craftsmen to man the full facilities of the Puget Sound area.

It is here at Bremerton that the aircraft carrier Bunker Hill lies groaning under the hammer and chisel while hordes of workmen scramble over her battered hull. The Bunker Hill was one of the many victims of the Japanese Kamikaze suicide planes whose bombs are filling all of the west coast yards with the fleet's cripples.

Can't Do Complete Job

While the navy tries to complete most of the vital repairs and add additional guns, radar, and improved firing control equipment, Capt. Thompson declared that in several cases time and lack of man power made it impossible to send warships to sea fitted with the latest technical improvements.

"Probably not 10 per cent of the navy now has our latest equipment for fighting the Kamikaze planes," Capt. Thompson said. "Even if we had adequate man power it would be an impossible task, for with every development by the enemy, we create a new defensive technique. And we are constantly adding new improvements of our own."

The situation is so serious, Capt. Thompson said, that the navy has been farming many repair jobs out to "marginal" yards, which under ordinary circumstances would never be considered. These are yards normally devoted to repairing fishing boats and small pleasure cruisers. But the navy sends trained men over to superintend the work, trying to take advantage of every crane and dock in the area.

Drops After V-E Day

Since the war ended in Europe, Rear Adm. Robert M. Griffin, commandant of the Puget Sound area, said there has been a noticeable drop in employment, at a time when the navy was straining every facility to increase employment. The entire area needs 14,000 shipyard workers, but, as at San Francisco, the bulk of the jobs cannot be filled until the 5,500 skilled craftsmen are obtained from other sections of the country.

HIGH SCHOOL GRADS UNDER 18 SOUGHT BY NAVY TO BE PILOTS

Youths under 18 who acquire high school diplomas by Oct. 1 will be eligible, thru a navy plan announced yesterday, to enlist directly in a naval aviation program from civil life and train as pilots. The plan, a revival of the former V-5 program, will be operated in colleges and universities now having V-12 officer candidate programs.

Several schools among 45 in the 13 midwestern states, already conducting V-12 classes will receive the new candidates.

The navy needs 1,500 high school graduates for training. Others will be obtained from enlisted personnel.

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Boston, Mass., July 3—The Cubs, at game time today, found the Braves and their constituents downright giddy over their three game sweep over the Cards last week-end. But the Cubs sobered them, and so, so brutally, in the opener of the four game series.

The score was Chicago 24, Boston 2, and here are some of the things that transpired as Claude Passeau, already exuberant over escaping the New York heat and humidity wave, accounted for his ninth victory of the season:

The Cubs made 28 hits for 39 bases, including a homer, by Mickey Livingston, and eight doubles by assorted gents.

Let's go right down the batting order—Stan Hack made a single and two doubles, walked three times, scored five runs.

Don Johnson made two doubles and three singles and also scored five runs.

Cavarretta Drives in 5 Runs

Bill Nicholson made a double and a single, walked twice, and was hit by a pitched ball. Nick scored three runs.

Phil Cavarretta made a double and four singles, scored five runs and drove in five.

Andy Pafko made a double and three singles, walked once and reached first on an error. He was thrown out at third once and at the plate once, thus holding down the score.

Peanuts Lowrey made a double and two singles and walked once.

Livingston had a homer, two singles, and walked once.

Len Merullo had a single and scored a run. Passeau made two singles and two runs.

Phil Gains on Holmes

The only comfort the Boston contingent salvaged was the fact Tommy Holmes, local idol, made three singles in four times at bat, to lift his league leading average to .402.

Even so, Cavarretta gained on Holmes as he lifted his season average from .352 to .363.

The Cubs hopped off to a three run lead in the first inning. Hack walked and went to second on Johnson's out. Nicholson walked, then Cavarretta singled to left, Hack scoring. Pafko's hard smash got away from Wietelmann for an error, Nicholson scoring. Catcher Hofferth, after taking Wietelmann's throw to the plate in the futile effort to get Nicholson, threw the ball into left field, Cavarretta scoring.

The Cubs Keep It Up

Johnson opened the Chicago third inning with a double to left. Nicholson doubled to right, scoring Johnson. Cavarretta grounded to Culler, Nicholson holding second. Pafko grounded to Culler, Nicholson taking third. Culler also threw out Lowrey.

Livingston opened the fourth with his homer over the right field screen. Merullo singled to center, paused while Passeau flied out, then went to third on Hack's single to center. Johnson singled over second scoring Merullo. Nicholson fouled to Hofferth but Cavarretta doubled to right, scoring Hack and Johnson, Hutchinson replaced Andrews and Pafko singled to center scoring Cavarretta. Lowrey beat out a bunt, but Living-

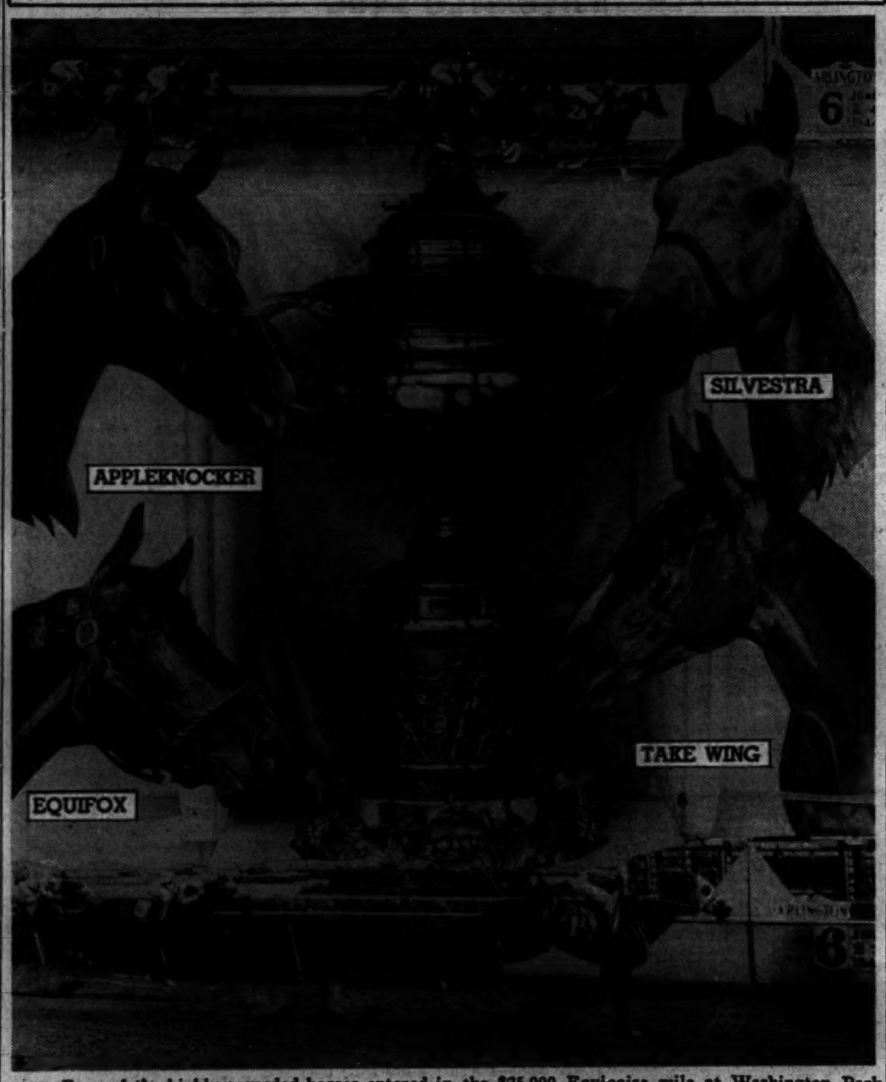
18 START IN 2-SECTION EQUIPOISE MILE TODAY

TURFDOM PAYS TRIBUTE TO GALLANT THOROBRED



Four of the highly regarded horses entered in the $25,000 Equipoise mile at Washington Park today are Silvestra, Equifox, Appleknocker, and Take Wing. The event drew 18 entries and will be run in two divisions, each carrying an added value of $25,000. Silverstra and Equifox are entered in the first division and the other two in the second. Sun Again (top) shown winning the race last year and Best Seller (bottom) winning the feature in 1942. Trophy (center) will be awarded to the owner winning the race three times.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

A holiday crowd of capacity proportions, probably close to 40,000, will be treated to two $25,000 races at Washington Park this afternoon, the result of 18 overnight entries for the fifth running of the colorful Equipoise mile. The event for 3 year olds and upward will be run in two divisions, sixth and seventh races on a nine race program.

Col. C. V. Whitney, donor of a beautiful trophy which commemorates the world record mile in 1:34 2-5 run by his beloved Equipoise at Arlington Park in 1932, will send his 3 year old filly, Recce, out to race against older handicap stars in the first half of the feature. This field includes Howard Well's Equifox, a son of the mighty Equipoise and winner of the first running of the event in 1941.

Also entered are Rover, Silvestra, Quizzle, Valdina Lamar, St. Jock, Signals Bloke, and Zacapet.

Ocean Wave in 2d Division

The second half will be headed by Calumet farm's Ocean Wave in quest of a second leg on the big cup. The Warren Wright establishment won with Sun Again last year, the first time the trophy was up. Three victories are necessary for permanent possession.

Appleknocker, R. A. Coward's 4 year old gelding which displayed such speed during last summer's racing at Washington Park, probably will go postward the co-favorite with Ocean Wave in a field which includes Daily Trouble, Colonel Read, Sirius, Sigma Kappa, Signator, Fire Dust, and Take Wing.

Harriet Sue Beats Three Dots

Harriet Sue, the Bull Lea filly which earned $23,750 for Hyman Friedberg last year, conquered J. H. Rouse's Three Dots, the Washington Park speed king of 1944, by a nose in the $5,000 Sation handicap yesterday.

For the second consecutive day the mutuel handle went over a million dollars. The total was $1,043,380.

Happy Hour farm's 7 year old Devalue, ridden by J. W. Martin, closed with a rush to take the day's secondary feature, the $3,000 Stanwix purse.

The daily double was worth $26.60 on Halcy O'Mar's victory in the first race and Alarush's triumph in the second.

To Stephen Collins Foster
[Whose Birthday Is Today]

Sweet singer with your gentle heart, who has surpassed your simple art?
You gave voice as few others can, to the deep and silent needs of Man
The age-old cry of loneliness when thoughts of home the heart oppress,
The pain of solitude and fear, the loss of all men hold most dear.
And who shall show us as you can, the soul of the Ethopian,
That patient and downtrodden throng, who suffer and exult in song?
Stephen, your music moves us still, as long as song endures it will,
For in your every line there sings, the voice of common, human things.

We Wait Too Long

Better break your box of ointment
At the feast in Bethany,
Than to wait for the pronouncement
Of His death on Calvary;
Hail Him in his greatest hours,
So heroic bold and brave,
Better now to give him flowers
Than to pile them on his grave.
Many tired hearts are resting
Under roses white and fair,
Roses they should have while struggling
Under heavy loads of care;
Now's the time to bring them cheer
While they see the things they crave,
Better now a simple flower
Than a greenhouse on the grave.

SENATORS DROP SOUTH SIDERS TO 5TH PLACE

Washington Pounds 3 Chicago Pitchers

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The effort of 40 year old Earl Caldwell to pace his White Sox mates to another after dinner success under the Comiskey Park lights last evening was not only wrecked quickly but without respect for age. Washington's Senators, after dispersing the veteran, made equally gay with Johnny Johnson and then conducted themselves leisurely against Frank Papish for a final count of 12 to 2. And the jolt was severe enough to bounce James Dykes' boys from third to fifth place.

Along with the bruising occasioned by the free swinging of the Senators' bats the Sox suffered additional embarrassment by their inability to conduct an attack that 18,336 customers had reason to expect from a team that had just brushed off the Yanks four out of five games. The Chicagoans were behind, 10 to 0, before making even one base hit off Roger Wolff, the knuckle baller. This rarity occurring in the fourth by courtesy of LeRoy Schalk's bat.

Caldwell Departs Early

Altho Caldwell lingered thru two innings one was sufficient to dispel the idea that he could come back that quickly after the impressive job he did on the Yanks Saturday night. He was whacked for three hits and a pass in the first inning, three visitors scoring. He cut the Senators down to a pass and extra base hit in the next session but the fielding developed a couple of leaks and two scored. Then Johnson, between errors, hits, and passes, surrendered five runs in the next two innings, all subsequent scoring being at the expense of Papish. One of the two runs off him was No. 5 homer by Harlond Clift.

The best that can be said for the Caldwell performance is that he retired the first visiting batter of the evening. Then George Myatt walked and stole second and successive singles flitted into space, propelled by the bats of Fred Vaughn, Joe Kuhel and Clift. These items along with George Binks' fly ball accounted for the three runs. The second inning was only slightly improved. Rick Ferrell walked and beat the throw that was meant to force him on Wolff's bunt. These two sprinted home on Myatt's double, making it 5 to 0.

Senators Take 10 to 0 Lead

Johnson's first contribution to the melee when he took over at the start of the third was a pass to Clift. Binks bunted and turned it into a base hit. He followed Clift across the plate when Gil Torres doubled for the first time, the latter continuing to third on Oris Hockett's fumble of the hit. Later he was cut down at the plate. The fourth, in which the Senators put away their second batch of three runs, started with a single by Vaughn who scored on Kuhel's double. Kuhel, as well as Clift, who walked, scored on Torres' two bagger, making it 10 to 0.

After getting that Schalk single for their first safety in the fourth the Sox suddenly blew themselves in the fifth, the net being three hits and their only runs of the night. Cass Michaels touched off this demonstration by singling with one out, getting immediate help from a single by Mike Tresh. After Papish had fanned, Wally Moses tripled the pair across the plate. The only other scoring was the Washington eighth in which Myatt beat out a bunt, stole second, went to third on Vince Castino's throw, and home on an infield out. A moment later Clift sailed his homer into the left field pavilion.

3 JUNIOR GOLF FAVORITES LOSE 2D ROUND TESTS

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

Sailor Jack Coyle of Springfield and the navy yesterday led a majority of favorites thru the first two rounds of match play in the annual Junior Open tournament of the Chicago District Golf association over the No. 1 course of the Medinah Country club.

The 19 year old Coyle, who won the 1944 title at Medinah, now is stationed at Navy pier as a fireman, second class. Coyle won his first round assignment from Pat Rouse, 2 and 1, then advanced to the third round in the afternoon by defeating Dick Leonard of Glencoe, 3 and 2. In each case he played out for medal cards of 75, five over par for the course.

Abrahams Wins Medal

The qualifying medal was won by Bob Abrahams, former state interscholastic title holder, from La Grange, and a star on the 1945 Northwestern university team. Abrahams had tied with Kenn Pinns of Butterfield and Charles Lindgren of Rockford in Monday's qualifying round, each turning in a 75. Tournament officials decided that the low medal scorer for the first nine holes of yesterday morning's first round matches would receive the award. Bob shot a 37, going out against Svein Vinte of Chicago, while Pinns followed with 38 and Lindgren with 39.

The tournament will be suspended for today's holiday, with the 16 survivors of the first two rounds resuming play with another brace of 18 hole duels tomorrow.

The semi-finals and finals on Friday also will be at 18 holes.

Three Favorites Beaten

Abrahams was one of three favorites to bow out in the second round, losing to bespectacled Sox Howell, the former Glenbard High star, who was the only Purdue university golfer to receive a letter this year.

Sox, two up at the turn, went four up coming in, finally winning

Illinois Signs Ingwersen on Football Staff

Champaign, Ill., July 3 [Special]—Appointment of Lt. Comdr. Burt Ingwersen as assistant football coach at the University of Illinois was announced tonight by Doug R. Mills, director of athletics. Mills said that the former Illinois star will return to his alma mater when he leaves the navy.

Lt. Comdr. Ingwersen

Lt. Comdr. Ingwersen will assume his duties at athletic officer at the naval air training center in Chicago Friday. Previously he had been an athletic director at the pre-flight school in Chapel Hill, N. C. He has been on leave from the Northwestern university staff since Feb. 12, 1943, when he was commissioned. Ingwersen was line coach in football and head baseball coach at the Evanston school.

Ingwersen was graduated from Illinois in 1920 and is one of four Illini athletes to have won nine varsity letters. He played center on the 1917 football team and tackle the next two seasons when Bob Zuppke's elevens won the Western conference championship.

After his graduation Ingwersen was appointed on the Illinois coaching staff by the then director of athletics, George Huff. Ingwersen's first duties were as an assistant in freshman baseball and football. He later became head freshman coach in both sports. In 1924 he succeeded Howard Jones as head football coach at the University of Iowa, remaining there until 1932 when he became an assistant to Lawrence [Biff] Jones at Louisiana State. In 1935 he came to Northwestern as line coach under Lynn Waldorf.

JACK M'MANIS WINS 2 MATCHES IN CLAY COURTS

BY DAVID CONDON

Red haired Jack McManis of San Diego, Cal., who arrived yesterday from his west coast abode, quickly scored two singles victories in his appearances on the courts at the River Forest Tennis club in the 35th Annual Clay Courts tennis meet.

McManis, rated fourth among aspirants for the men's singles crown, beat Robert Doll of Tampa, Fla., 5-7, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3, in his opening assignment, and later bested Bruce Thomas of West Palm Beach, Fla., 6-4, 6-2, 6-3, among the moonlight and shadows.

The tourney's top seeded performer, William Talbert of Wilmington, Del., appeared early in the afternoon and allowed Hubert Rance of Chicago only three games as he won in straight sets, 6-0, 6-0, 6-3, to enter the third round.

Cooke Wins Two

Elwood Cooke of Los Angeles, third seeded, scored two singles victories as he defeated Thane Halstead of Wheaton, 6-0, 6-3, in the first round and returned to the courts shortly thereafter to trounce Don Seiffert of Chicago, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1.

Lt. Hal Surface of Berry field, Nashville, Tenn., who is listed fifth in the rankings, entered the third round by beating Sgt. George Pero of Keesler field, Biloxi, Miss., 6-2, 6-2, 6-4, in a match that drew considerable spectator interest. Pero had much backing among the gallery, but proved no match for the veteran.

Mexico City's Francisco Arcocha beat the Chicago prep ace, Gene Buckowicke, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3.

Miss Betz Wins Shutout

All top players in the women's singles scored easy triumphs, with the national champion, Miss Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, leading the list. She scored a first round straight set triumph over Elizabeth Goetsch of Oak Park, 6-0, 6-0.

GIANTS DEFEAT CARDS, 3 TO 2; GAIN 2D PLACE

Feldman Yields Only Three Hits

New York, July 3 (AP)—Harry Feldman held the St. Louis Cardinals to three hits tonight to lead the New York Giants to a 3 to 2 victory. Phil Weintraub and Clyde Kluttz hit homers for the Giants. Auggie Bergamo clouted a four-bagger for St. Louis.

The victory boosted the Giants into second place in the National league only four games behind the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

BIDWILL LOOKS INTO FUTURE FOR THE ALL-AMERICA

Miami Beach, Fla., July 3 (AP)—Charles W. Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals of the National Pro Football league, believes the all-America conference will get started, but——

"It won't be so easy to keep going. After all, it took 25 years to establish the National Football league on its present successful basis," he declared.

Bidwill pointed out that the other leagues, Red Grange's and Chick Meehan's, already have folded.

"That leaves only the All-America among the new ones, and I think it will eventually open up," he said. "But it will find the expense heavy, because the league is so far flung, with cities like Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Miami, and Buffalo in it.

"No, I don't think they will seriously damage us. They'll make it tough for us in signing players. They're offering those kids sums of money they can't afford to turn down. A thousand or so dollars looks big to young fellows. Against them we'll have to give boys $5,000 where we could have gotten them for $3,000, and such like."

KEEFE DEMANDS INQUIRY ON RYE 'MANIPULATION'

Hints U.S. Aids Help Pool to Millions

BY LAURENCE BURD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 3—A full congressional inquiry into an alleged "corner" in the Chicago rye market was demanded today by Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.]. He suggested federal agencies and members of congress may be involved in price manipulations netting "millions of dollars" to speculators.

Rep. Keefe

Keefe charged in a house speech that the rye manipulations on the Chicago Board of Trade were "nothing short of a national scandal."

He asserted that a group of "manipulators" had since 1942 pushed up rye prices on the Chicago Board of Trade by 90 cents a bushel and seized control of most of the available rye in the Chicago market."

"Pool Made Millions"

The resulting "corner," Keefe told the house, enabled those in the rye "pool to make millions" and forced others to lose millions thru payment of excessive prices for rye.

The congressman charged the war food administration, which last month started an inquiry into rye prices, is itself partly responsible for the "corner," which he said still exists.

Decisions by the war food administration and other federal agencies, Keefe continued, have aided the group of price riggers by requiring huge federal purchases of rye at the inflated prices.

These decisions, he said, were:

1. A war production board directive, issued June 23, 1944, at the request of WFA, requiring all distillers of industrial alcohol, in buying grain, to purchase at least 10 per cent in rye or rye flour, which, Keefe said, was far scarcer than corn or wheat.

Prices Termed Too High

2. Purchase by the Commodity Credit corporation in March of 4 to 5 million bushels of rye for export by the foreign economic administration for the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration. Prices paid were $1.18¼ to $1.29 a bushel, or about 50 cents above normal, Keefe said.

The congressman declared the order to use rye in alcohol was issued over "vigorous protests" by the distillers and remained in force for four and a half months.

"The manipulators who had effected a corner on rye," Keefe told the house, "were able to sell to the industrial distillers at the enhanced and manipulated price resulting from the corner some 6 million bushels upon which they realized a most handsome profit, all of said profit being in the end paid by the United States government.

"Thereafter and in the face of a short crop of rye and barely enough to provide for domestic needs, the same influences that had secured this order from WPB and WFA prevailed upon the CCC to purchase rye for use by the FEA."

Played Into Pool Hands

The congressman said the federal directives to buy rye were issued "in the face of a tremendous surplus of wheat and corn," and played directly into the hands of the manipulators, who made "unreasonable and unconscionable profits."

"Who are the people who benefited as a result of this [CCC] transaction?" Keefe asked. "What man in public life, holding high official position in either the WFA or the CCC or the FEA profited as a result of this manipulation?

"What members of congress, if you please, exercised their powers of persuasion on the WFA and FEA to put thru the orders which vitally affected the rye market and which were in a large measure responsible for maintenance of this corner right up to the present hour?"

Keefe said the entire "scandal" should be investigated by congress forthwith, to determine what tie-up, if any, exists between the alleged manipulators and federal agencies, and to "expose any member of congress who has enriched himself" by influencing federal agencies.

Criminal Prosecution Asked

He also urged the criminal division of the justice department to seek prosecutions.

Keefe's reference to members of congress aroused capital interest in the light of recent rumors that one or more senators may be involved directly or indirectly in the rye transactions.

The congressman said the present WFA inquiry into the alleged rye corner is inadequate, because, he explained, it covers rye dealings only up to May 27, 1944. This, Keefe said, was prior to the huge rye purchases under federal directives.

The WFA, in a complaint filed last month against General Foods corporation, Daniel F. Rice & Co. and four individuals, charged they manipulated a corner in rye as of May 27, 1944. The complaint charged the group with controlling 89 per cent of the total deliverable supply of rye, with boosting rye prices 52 cents a bushel from December, 1942, to December, 1943, and with maintaining rye prices 50 to 70 cents above normal from the close of 1943 until May, 1944. Hearings on the charges yesterday were postponed until "late in the summer."

Grain Officials Silent or Deny Price Charge

Top officials of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday refused to comment on charges of Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.] that the rye market had been manipulated. These included Harry C. Schaack, president; Richard F. Uhlmann, vice president, and Fred H. Clutton, secretary.

Hollis Griffin, a director, said the Board of Trade was simply a market place used by those charged with manipulation.

"Whether the charges can be substantiated, I do not know," Griffin said. "Investigation appears to be outside the province of the Board of Trade. The board acted as a disinterested party—it served as the market place. It had nothing to do with the charges of manipulation."

J. O. McClintock, another director, said he was certain none of the officers had any information of improper dealings in rye.

Knows of No Manipulation

"I do not believe that there has been any corner on the rye market," McClintock said. "I know of no manipulation that took place during 1942-'44. Actually, there have been a number of good reasons for the increased activity in rye. The markets for other grains have been more or less frozen by price ceilings, and there were no price ceilings for rye. Rye sold comparatively cheap and consequently offered a rather inviting outlook."

Referring to short crops and feed shortages, he said government purchases of 5 million bushels in the Chicago market were "rather an important amount," and added:

"Furthermore, I believe that were a price ceiling to be set on rye it would be somewhere near current prices."

The agriculture department disclosed, meanwhile, that it had urged the board to impose even more drastic curbs than those invoked on Monday. To prevent "unjustifiable speculation," it recommended June 27 an initial margin requirement of 50 cents, a maintenance margin of 20 cents, a daily trading and open interest limit of 500,000 bushels.

What the Board Ordered

The board ordered an initial margin of 25 cents, a maintenance margin of 15 cents, and position limits of 700,000 bushels.

J. H. Mehl, administrator of the commodity exchange act, said rye trade had reached unprecedented size, expanded from an annual average for 1932-'41 of about 330 million bushels, substantially all on the Chicago market, to 2 billion bushels in Chicago in the first six months of 1945.

This widespread professional and public interest as well as changes in the amount of grain available, helped raise prices sharply. July rye which sold at $1.05⅝ a bushel last January closed at $1.55½ yesterday. September rye climbed from $1.03⅝ in January to $1.45.

GRAIN MARKETS DECLINE

Rye futures prices on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday closed unchanged to 2 cents a bushel lower, apparently reflecting threats of a congressional investigation and anticipating the effect of a number of trading curbs which become effective tomorrow and Aug. 1.

July rye broke 3¼ cents early to $1.52¼ a bushel, but recovered to $1.55⅝ to $1.55¾ at the close, nominally unchanged, but the deferred deliveries closed 1⅝ to 2 cents lower.

Wheat lost ½ to 1⅝ cents. Corn was unchanged to ⅝ lower, oats down 1 to 1⅛, and barley ½ higher to ¼ lower.

CANADIAN FIRM FILLS U. S. ORDER FOR ALUMINUM

MONTREAL, Que., July 3 (AP)—Aluminum Company of Canada has delivered the last batch of 1 billion 370 million pound aluminum contract to the United States and repaid "every dollar loaned to the company by the United States," the corporation announced today.

A spokesman said advance payments by the United States government had no connection with the war time extension of the Shipshaw, Que., power project. Expansion of power facilities was financed by issuing 5 million dollars of preferred stock in 1943 and 40 million of bonds in 1940.

"Calculations show that if the Canadian aluminum industry had not undertaken the aluminum ingot contracts for the United States, necessitating huge war time expansion in Canada, the company would have earned millions of dollars more for shareholders," he said.

U. S. AND PRODUCERS SEEK MEANS TO HIKE OUTPUT OF SOFT COAL

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—Officials of half a dozen government agencies conferred with soft coal producers today in an attempt to step up production.

Stabilization Director Davis met with officials of the war man power commission, OPA, WPB, army, and the foreign economic administration to discuss a threatened 1945 coal shortage of 25 to 35 million tons. Later the group met with representatives of miners and operators from Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee in another closed session.

Davis will report to Rep. Flannagan [D., Va.], chairman of an informal congressional committee from the four states. Operators said that unless prompt government action were taken to solve production problems, there would be a 5 million ton deficit this year in the four states which mine one-fifth of the nation's coal.

CHICAGO BANK DEPOSITS SET ALL-TIME HIGH

Six Month Earnings Rise Above 1944

Total deposits of Chicago banks set an all-time high in the second 1945 quarter, statements of condition of both state and national banks showed yesterday. Earnings of most larger banks in the first six months were larger than a year earlier, call figures indicated.

The state and national banks in answering state and national calls for condition as of June 30 reported increases above March 20 totals in all categories. The new peak in total deposits was $8,050,116,000. The previous high was $7,688,678,000 on Dec. 30, 1944.

Continental Profit Unchanged

Indicated net profit of Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company for the first six months was $4.12 a share, the same as a year ago.

For the First National Bank of Chicago net profit of $8.38 per share was indicated. Year ago profit was estimated at $8 because of changes in surplus and undivided profit. Net profit of Northern Trust company rose to $16 from $15 a year ago. That of Harris Trust and Savings bank was $11.40 a share on 80,000 shares, against $13.78 on 60,000 shares.

For City National Bank and Trust company net profit was $11.13 a share against $9.23 a year ago, and for American National Bank and Trust company it was $16.20, compared with $12.40.

Loans and Discounts Increase

Loans and discounts of all banks increased to $1,395,937,000 from $1,145,901,000. Total deposits rose to $8,050,116,000 from $7,406,195,000, cash resources to $1,666,302,000 from $1,629,944,000, savings deposits to $1,127,278,000 from $1,049,625,000, and holdings of United States government bonds to $4,983,259,000 from $4,610,755,000.

Continental Illinois reported the largest total deposits, $2,610,638,000, against First National's $2,076,916,000. However, First National had $274,951,000 of savings deposits, compared with Continental Illinois' $158,558,000. Continental led in all categories except savings deposits.

National and state bank totals separately also rose in each category above the preceding quarter.

BRETTON WOODS PLAN APPROVED BY SENATE UNIT

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—The senate banking committee late today approved, 14 to 4, legislation to authorize participation in the Bretton Woods monetary plan. Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] said the legislation, already passed by the house, will be taken up by the senate July 16, a week before debate opens on the San Francisco Charter.

The monetary plan, drawn last summer by representatives of 44 nations and described by the treasury as an implement for peace, provides for an 8.8 billion dollar fund for international currency stabilization and a 9.1 billion bank for reconstruction and development.

Sen. Radcliffe [D., Md.] succeeded in inserting an amendment which would have congress declare that nations should abolish currency restrictions and trade obstacles to insure success of the monetary plan. He said he had in mind the British empire trade preference system.

2 LINES DECIDE TO SHARE LOADS TO SAVE TRUCKS

An agreement between Hayes Freight Lines of Matton, Ill., and Corey & Evans, Inc., of De Kalb to share less than truck load freight originating in Chicago and De Kalb will go into effect Friday, Mel G. Barnes, district manager of the ODT highway transport division, said yesterday.

The plan is expected to save 40,560 truck miles and 3,744 man hours annually, in addition to releasing three trucks weekly. The agreement involves only less than truck load freight, interstate and intrastate traffic, and does not apply to intermediate points, Barnes said.

The Hayes schedules over the routes involved will be taken over by Corey & Evans.

Men Receive Job Priority in Michigan Tool Plant

Detroit, Mich., July 3 (AP)—All women employes of the Michigan Tool company will be laid off before any male worker is released and men will receive all hiring advantages under a union-management agreement announced today. The proposal was approved by the regional war labor board. Of the company's 985 employes 45 are women. Much of the work is heavy.

Sheridan Rd. Apartment Is Made Co-Op

BY AL CHASE

Conveyance of title to the 17 story apartment building at 5510 Sheridan rd. by Frederick A. O'Hagan, trustee, to George D. Sullivan, attorney, yesterday disclosed plans by which the property is to be converted into a coöperative project. Revenue stamps on the deed indicated that Sullivan paid $365,000. It was bought from the Royal Neighbors of America last October for $340,000 with O'Hagan acting as trustee.

Sullivan and Cain & Culhane, realty firm, now joint owners of the property, last January formed the 5510 Sheridan Road corporation and announced that the apartments would be sold on a coöperative basis.

Some Tenants Refuse to Buy

Some of the tenants refused to buy and appealed to the office of price administration. It was found that the OPA regulation forbidding the formation of co-ops after Feb. 17 would not affect the 5510 Sheridan project. An appeal was taken and a new hearing was held. A final decision by OPA has not been made.

The corporation bought the equity under contract Jan. 11, assuming a $267,000 mortgage. It was said that if all apartments are sold the corporation will receive $177,230. Byron Cain said 11 families in the building have bought their apartments thru purchase of stock [they receive a proprietary lease calling for $1 rental and a pro-rata share of the interest payments on the $267,000 mortgage], six families not tenants have bought suites, and seven more in the building are negotiating. Thus eight of the 32 are unsold.

Many Applications Received

"We've had hundreds of applications to buy the apartments," Cain said. "Tenants are being given the first opportunity to buy the suite they occupy or another available in the building."

One tenant, who said he was not buying his apartment, asserted that new owners may learn they have a fight on their hands and added:

"Every outsider who buys an apartment must serve notice he is the new owner and if the occupant resists, it will be up to the new owner to oust the recalcitrant tenant. The corporation will not do it; it merely sells the apartment and has nothing more to do with the occupants."

INTERVENTION BY U. S. ASKED IN GRAIN TIE-UP

Minneapolis, Minn., July 3 (AP)—The railroad and warehouse commission today asked for federal intervention in the strike of state grain weighers which has tied up movement of grain into Minneapolis since Sunday and posed a problem for flour mills.

The weighers struck Sunday in protest against increasing their work week from 40 to 44 hours under an act of the 1945 legislature which became effective July 1. Under state law all public grain warehouses must weigh grain in and out under supervision of a state grain weigher.

Memphis, Tenn., July 3 (AP)—Partial curtailment of Dixie Greyhound lines bus service continued today while management and union studied each other's proposals to end a five day walkout of about 150 mechanics. The company said schedules were about 90 per cent normal. With disrupted runs confined to those between Cape Girardeau, Mo., and St. Louis, and between Paducah, Ky., and Evansville, Ind.

People and Events

Walter A. Culin, 19 years with Federal Water and Gas Corporation of New York City in various executive capacities, has been appointed assistant treasurer of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Dr. Robert E. Wilson, chairman, announced yesterday.

Directors of the City National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago have elected Alfred H. Lindgren assistant vice president and Walter O. Lang, Peter D. Rocco, and Walter C. Streeter, assistant cashiers.

John A. Russell, former chief negotiator for the surgeon general of the army, announced his association with Richard L. Phelan and William P. Kearney in the law firm of Russell, Kearney, and Phelan. Offices will be in the Field building.

The Creamery Package Manufacturing company, Chicago, has been awarded the army-navy white star for continued meritorious production.

QUOTA ON NEWSPRINT FOR THIRD QUARTER INCREASED SLIGHTLY

Washington, D. C., July 3, (AP)—Newspapers will receive about 5 per cent more newsprint on their quota allocations for the third quarter, the printing and publishing division of the WPB announced today.

In the first relaxation of the newsprint limitation since it was put in effect Jan. 1, 1943, WPB officials said the sliding scale of reduction in the use of newsprint from the base year will be relaxed approximately one to three.

For example, a newspaper using 125 tons in the base year of 1941 will have a third quarter deduction of 3 per cent from its basic figure instead of 4 per cent. Similarly, papers using more than 1,000 tons will have a deduction of 18 instead of 24 per cent.

The increased quotas were made possible by an over-all increase of approximately 38,500 tons in newsprint available for newspaper publishing.

The senate agriculture committee approved a resolution appropriating $5,000 for an investigation of the newsprint shortage. Sen. Willis [R., Ind.], who introduced the measure, was appointed chairman of an inquiry subcommittee including Senators Butler [R., Neb.], Thomas [D., Okla.], Wheeler [D., Mont.], and Bilbo [D., Miss.].

G.O.P. Seeks Assurance of Lower Taxes

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—House ways and means committee Republicans today said there was "urgent need" to assure taxpayers in the small income brackets of relief from "present staggering tax burdens" when the war ends.

Their statement accompanied a full committee recommendation to the house that it approve forthwith tax revisions intended to aid reconversion by a 5 billion dollar increase in the cash position of business.

Burden "Disproportionate"

The 10 Republicans on the 25 member committee said they believed government burdens were "falling disproportionately" upon the low income groups.

A joint house-senate tax committee is studying post-war tax legislation expected to ease individual and corporation income tax burdens.

Tax Load Little Changed

Democratic leaders arranged for the house to vote later this week on the business aid bill, which would not materially change ultimate tax burdens on business.

The legislation would raise the exemption under the excess profits tax from $10,000 to $25,000, and provide for speeding of rebates.

PLAN OFFERED TO END STRIFE AMONG UNIONS

Washington, D. C., July 3 [Special]—A formula for peaceful settlement of jurisdictional disputes between AFL and CIO war plant maintenance workers was announced today by Daniel W. Tracy, assistant secretary of labor.

It provides that in each locality where local organizations of CIO Automobile Workers and AFL Building and Construction Tradesmen exist a joint committee will be set up "for the purpose of peaceful and orderly adjustment of any problems or differences that may arise between the respective organizations."

If the committee fails to agree, the question will be referred to a national committee composed of three from each organization and Tracy, who will be chairman. The plan was developed and applied for the first time in a dispute in Detroit between CIO and AFL locals.

FIRST CIVILIAN PASSENGER CAR MADE BY FORD

Plans to Build Four Assembly Plants

Detroit, Mich., July 3 (AP)—The first civilian passenger automobile produced since February, 1942, rolled off the assembly line of the Ford Motor company's big Rouge plant today as Ford announced plans to build four new assembly plants as part of a 150 million dollar post-war program. One of the new plants will be in St. Louis and another in Atlanta. The others probably will be on the east and west coasts.

Henry Ford II.

A gray two door Ford sedan with chromium plated bumpers, grille, and trimming was the first car off the line. The war production board has authorized the company to assemble 39,910 vehicles during 1945.

Henry Ford II. Drives First

The first car was driven off the line by Henry Ford II., executive vice president. Following it in various stages of assembly were approximately a score of other cars. Except for one five passenger coupe, all were powered with V-8 engines, turning up 100 horse power. The coupe had a 75 horse power six cylinder engine. All were of the Ford super de luxe line.

Going into production about Oct. 1 are the new Mercury models. The Lincoln Continental and custom built models will be started later.

Ford offices indicated that an increase in the company's production quota will be sought under the "spot" authorization plan set up Monday by WPB.

"Unless our quota is increased," said young Ford, "employment in our plants will be cut 50,000 to 60,000 from the current total of 112,000."

Price Not Determined

Retail prices of the new 1946 models are yet to be determined. J. R. Davis, director of sales and advertising, said they will be "substantially higher, but how much I don't know. Our labor costs are about 25 per cent higher. We don't know how much higher material costs are going to be."

Davis said post-war plans call for production of 8,000 cars daily. Included will be six super de luxe and three de luxe body styles for the Ford model and five super de luxe body styles in the Mercury line.

In addition to the broader front end appearance attained by the application of heavier bumpers and redesigned radiator grilles, changes in the new cars include increased instrument panel visibility, substitution of synthetic rubber for virtually all parts previously made of rubber, improved type springs, brakes, and shock absorbers, and the addition of a rear-end sway bar.

The 1946 model distributors were described as virtually immune to the effects of water, mud, slush, and condensation.

OPA to Confer on Prices Soon

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—OPA officials plan to confer with auto industry representatives soon on price ceilings for new cars, James F. Brownlee, deputy price administrator, said today. Officials of the agency's automotive price branch previously had refused to comment on the status of ceilings for cars to be built this year.

Manufacturers are required to obtain OPA approval of prices unless they hold to 1942 levels.

ISSUE OUTSIDE NORTH AMERICA AIRPLANE CODE

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—A new set of regulations to promote "safe and orderly operation" of scheduled airplane flights outside the continent was issued today by the civil aeronautics board.

The new rules, which become effective Aug. 1, were announced by CAB after more than a year's discussion among representatives of the aviation, the CAB, and the civil aeronautics administration.

The long list of rules sets requirements for maintenance of aircraft, licensing, qualifications for pilots and crews, landing and take-off regulations, flight and dispatching rules, and weather report specifications.

Federal Unit Enters Grain Rail Rate Suit

The secretary of agriculture has joined the barge lines in seeking to prevent an increase in reshipment rates on grain moving eastward by rail from Chicago, it was disclosed yesterday. The increase, which is scheduled to become effective Oct. 5, applies to grain brought into Chicago by barge, but not to grain shipped in by rail or lakes vessel.

This was the second time that a department of the government had sought to stop an action by another arm because the rate increase was authorized by the interstate commerce commission. In the first case the United States attorney general joined a barge line in moving to stop an ICC ruling from becoming effective.

Sue in Federal Court

The Inland Waterways corporation, federally owned, and the Mechling Barge Line, Joliet, early in June sued in Chicago federal District court to keep the ICC ruling from being enforced.

Nuel D. Belnap of Walter, Burchmore and Belnap, attorneys for Inland Waterways, yesterday disclosed the background of the controversy in which the government is both prosecutor and defendant.

The eastern lines reshipping grain from elevators at Chicago for approximately 50 years had charged the same rates regardless of whether the grain was brought to the Chicago elevators by barge, rail, or lake steamer. Then about 1934 the barge lines became more active in bringing grain to Chicago.

The eastern roads' reshipping rates on grain brought in from distant points was 8½ cents per 100 pounds below that on grain grown close to Chicago. The purpose of the lower rate was to enable the railroads to compete with the lake vessels.

Withdraw Special Rate

When the barge lines began cutting in, Belnap said, the western railroads were able to induce the eastern lines to withdraw the 8½ cent special rate on grain shipped in by barge. After a long fight the ICC ruled that the 8½ cent penalty which was applied to barge grain was too severe and directed that it be not more than 3 cents per 100 pounds. The ruling became effective in October.

The barge lines and grain elevators lined up to oppose the ICC action and were joined by the attorney general who held that the ICC ruling was "erroneous, arbitrary, unsupported by substantial evidence and contrary to law."

STEER MARKET RISES MORE ON SMALL SUPPLY

Steer prices were steady to 25 cents a hundred pounds higher at the Chicago stock yards when cattle receipts fell to 7,000 head, among the lowest this year for a Tuesday.

Best steers, halted by price ceiling, sold steady with Monday at $18, but the bulk moved up to a range of $15.50 to $17.50. The fair to good kinds and some plainer classes, recently neglected, shared in the advance. Beef cows and some bulls showed weakness.

Almost all hogs received sold at ceiling prices and only a small part of buying orders was filled.

Too few sheep and lambs arrived to test the market. The 2,500 received, including 2,000 shipped direct to packers, were second lowest for a Tuesday since June, 1944. The few new crop natives sold at prices up to $16.35, steady with Monday.

PRESSED STEEL MAY ADD LINE OF APPLIANCES

The step from the production of railroad cars to the manufacture of household appliances is a long one, but it will be taken by Pressed Steel Car company in its Hegewisch plant if authorized by stockholders at a special meeting in Pittsburgh Aug. 2 to change the articles of incorporation.

Company plans were disclosed in a proxy statement mailed to shareholders. Not only would household appliances be made but the program also would include the manufacture of heating, air conditioning, and refrigeration equipment, Ernest Murphy, president, said yesterday.

The proxy statement said expenditure estimated at $750,000 would be required to convert the plant to production of household appliances.

Canadian Air Line to Offer Trans-Atlantic Service

OTTAWA, Ont., July 3 (AP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines will start a fare-paying trans-Atlantic service Sept. 1 with modified war priorities enabling some business men to fly to Europe, Reconstruction Minister Howe announced today. Fares will not exceed those charged by Pan American Airways, $525 plus tax for a one way trip.

RESERVE BOARD BOOSTS STOCK MARGIN TO 75%

Seeks to Curb Wave of Speculation

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—The federal reserve board today took two major steps to reduce loans in the stock market and cut speculation:

1. It raised the margin requirement from 50 to 75 per cent, an all-time high. The change, effective Thursday, will reduce the size of new loans to finance purchases of stock exchange securities. It means that when a person buys stocks on credit he must put up 75 per cent of the purchase price in cash and may borrow only 25 per cent from a bank or broker.

Credit "Squeeze" Ordered

2. The board announced another change, effective July 16, designed to squeeze some of the existing credit out of the market. If a person holds several securities in a single account and sells some of them, he must use the proceeds to increase the margin to 75 per cent of the securities remaining.

This rule applies to loans under both regulation T and regulation U. Except to this extent, neither regulation requires that existing accounts or loans be brought up to 75 per cent.

The federal reserve board has often said that raising the margin requirement would not eliminate speculation because it would not affect cash sales and cash is "the important factor" in the rising market.

Hope for "Some Effect"

A spokesman repeated this today but said the board hopes the new regulations will have "some effect" as a quieting influence.

The last change in the margin requirement was in February when it was raised from 40 to 50 per cent. Before that the requirement was 40 per cent for more than seven years. The increased margin also applies to short sales.

VIEW OF BROKER

Increase in the margin requirements for the purchase of securities from 50 to 75 per cent had been expected and should have no serious effect on the market, John J. Bryant Jr., resident partner of James H. Oliphant & Co., securities firm, said yesterday.

"Not only was the increase in requirements generally expected but the possibility of a 100 per cent requirement on all securities had been widely discussed in market circles," Bryant said. "A substantial proportion of the purchases for some time has been on a cash basis.

"A probable effect of the new rule will be to shift demand more largely to lower priced stocks, those selling at $20 or less. I doubt if it will be effective in halting the advance in better grade issues, except for possible temporary unsettlement."

PRICES EDGE HIGHER

New York, July 3 (AP)—Stocks again edged higher on today's market altho many pivotals in all departments declined and dealings were sluggish thruout.

The ticker tape idled from the start. Transfers of 860,000 shares compared with 1,380,000 yesterday and were smallest, for a full session since April 10. On July 3, 1944, volume amounted to 1,562,400.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.1 and the utility up 0.3. Both the rail and industrial averages were unchanged.

BONDS CLOSE UNEVEN

New York, July 3 (AP)—The bond market today was irregular in the lightest trading since September, 1944. Sales totaled $3,860,000, compared with $5,734,0000 yesterday.

The rail average advanced 0.1, but the utility dipped 0.1.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED

Prices closed irregular in increased turnover of 28,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Among volume leaders were Heilemann Brewing, up ⅝; Standard Dredging and Commonwealth Edison, each up ⅛, and Chicago corporation common, down ⅛.

Cut United States-Spain Phone Call Cost 50 Pct.

New York, July 3 (AP)—Charges for radiotelephone service between the United States and Spain will be reduced about 50 per cent beginning Thursday, American Telephone and Telegraph company announced today. Under the new rate, a three minute call from New York to Madrid will cost $12.

WIDOW, 4 SONS SCORN $25,000 IN U. S. SUBSIDIES

'Don't Believe in 'Em,' So Sell Cattle Without

A widow, Mrs. John Book of Book rd., Naperville, and her four farmer sons yesterday sold 111 head of Hereford steers on the Chicago market. Their government subsidy on the sale, if they had accepted it, would have been $624. The widow and her sons refused the payment, just as in past years they have refused to accept more than $25,000 in similar payments from the agricultural adjustment administration.

Mrs. Book and her sons operate a 600 acre farm. One of the sons, Allan, 28, was asked /hy the Books consistently have refused the government payments.

For Equality in Enterprise

"We just don't believe in 'em," he said. "We don't believe farmers should be paid for growing crops they don't need, or for not growing crops they do need. We believe in free enterprise, and it should apply to meat packers as well as farmers."

Book said that he and his brothers, Homer, Glenn, and John, believe the present meat shortages is caused by government interference with free enterprise in the feeding, sale, and packing of meat animals.

"On our farm," he said, "we have enough pasture, silage, and corn to feed more than 200 head of cattle. We can profitably fatten western feeder steers if we can buy them at about 12 cents a pound. We tried to buy feeders at that price this spring, but packers were buying the same animals for 14 to 15 cents a pound, with a portion of their payment being refunded by the government as a subsidy."

Says Subsidy Aids Shortage

Book pointed out that the packers have been slaughtering these western feeders, whereas middle western farmers buying the same steers would fatten them in their feed lots and pastures, thus adding 200 to 400 pounds of beef which eventually would reach civilian dinner tables or army mess halls.

This buying competition between packers and middle western farmers, inaugurated by the federal meat subsidy plan, is resulting in loss of beef, according to Book.

Service Life Insurance Extension Bill Signed

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—President Truman signed today a bill extending the life of five year term national service life insurance policies an additional three years from Dec. 31, 1945.

2 STEERS GONE 6 DAYS; HOPE OF OWNERS FADES

Two nice looking Angus steers that wandered from the five acre estate of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mohlman of Spring rd., Hinsdale, last Thursday still were sought yesterday.

One weighed about 600 pounds, the other around 400. The first was scheduled for the fall slaughtering and the other for the spring killing. The animals would have produced the steaks people dream about.

And that's what's worrying the Mohlmans. "We still don't know what's happened to our steers, but we do know there's lots of rustling going on," Mrs. Mohlman said.

TOMATOES GO UP 4 TO 6c A POUND IN OPA CEILINGS

Increases of 6 cents a pound for selected tomatoes and 4 cents a pound for bulk tomatoes will become effective tomorrow under the weekly price ceiling list for fresh fruits and vegetables announced yesterday by James F. Riley, acting area director of the office of price administration. Selected tomatoes will be 28 cents a pound, and bulk tomatoes, 24 cents a pound.

Other increases will be dry white onions, 1½ to 3 inches, up 1 cent to 35 cents for three pounds, and spinach, up 2½ cents to 13½ cents a pound. Decreases will be iceberg lettuce heads of 14 ounces and over, down 1 cent to 14 cents a head; pears, down 1½ cents to 18 cents a pound; and snap, green, and wax beans, down 2½ cents to 19 cents a pound.

Additions to the list are apricots, 20 cents a pound; California table grapes, 29 cents a pound; white or red skinned potatoes, 36 cents for five pounds; iceberg lettuce under 11 ounces, 10 cents a head, and dry white onions 3 inches and over, 36 cents for three pounds.

NEW FHA COMMISSION NAMED

Washington, D. C., July 3 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Raymond Michael Foley of Michigan to be federal housing commissioner in the national housing agency, succeeding Abner H. Ferguson, resigned.

FARMERS GIVEN NEW DEADLINE FOR SLAUGHTER

The deadline of filing applications for farm slaughtering permits has been postponed from July 1 to Oct. 14, Rae E. Walter, regional price administrator, announced yesterday. The action was taken because little slaughtering is done by farmers during the summer, he said. If a farmer wishes to slaughter during the summer, he may apply to the OPA for a permit and proceed, Walters said. Resident farmers who kill less than 6,000 pounds of meat annually are classed as farm slaughterers, and must have permits.

HOW JAP SHELL MADE A DOCTOR OF ENSIGN JIRKA

Mare Island Naval Hospital, Cal., July 3 [Special]—When a Jap shell exploded beneath Frank Jirka Jr., 23, on a landing craft off Iwo last February that was the instant the young Chicago ensign, a grandson of the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak, knew he wanted to become a doctor. His father formerly was public health director of Illinois.

Ensign Frank Jirka Jr.

Explosion of the shell, fired from a Jap gun in one of Iwo's caves, lifted the deck on which Jirka was standing with such force that it crushed the bones of his feet and ankles. Subsequently his legs were amputated above the ankles.

Jirka was knocked flat, but believed himself unhurt until he observed his feet appeared to be at right angles to his legs.

"At first I assumed they were some one else's feet," he explained. "The thought foremost in my mind as I lay there was that I had to become a doctor. It was a clear call, a realization as strong as the experience some men say they have when they decide to become ministers.

He Identifies His Feet

"I started to get up," he said, "and discovered that the odd looking feet were my own."

Jirka told his story today at Mare Island Naval hospital, speaking in manifest high spirits as he moved about on new artificial limbs, packing his bags in preparation for flying home to Chicago this weekend.

His father, Dr. Frank Jirka, is a surgeon on the staffs of St. Anthony's and Cook county hospitals and formerly was on the medical school faculty at the University of Illinois. His mother, Ella, is a daughter of Mayor Cermak. The family home is in River Forest.

Prior to the war Ensign Jirka had completed pre-medic training at Knox college, Galesburg, Ill. But he said that until that day off Iwo, he never had been sure he wanted to become a doctor.

Jirka began his practice right there, with himself as his own first patient. He took some morphine and he got another member of the crew to put tourniquets on his legs.

Hair Wins Job
